WILSON WEDDING IN NEXT 2 MONTHS

Will Be in Church or at Mrs. Galt's Home, with Very Few Guests.

FLOOD OF CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. Wilson and His Bride-to-Be Plainly Show Their Happiness —White House Dinner Party.

BOTH IN NEW YORK TODAY

Will Be Guests of Col. House—President to Buy Engagement Ring Here.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt, whose engagement to be married was announced last night, were the recipients today of congratulatory messages from all parts of the United States and from the representatives of foreign Governments.

Telegrams came to the White House in such numbers that an extra force of operators and clerks was needed to handle them. Many were read by the President and Mrs. Galt together. Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, was one of the first to send congratulations, and there followed messages from other members of the diplomatic corps conveying the good wishes of their Governments.

Definite arrangements for the wedding will not be made immediately, but it has been disclosed that the President and Mrs. Galt have agreed that it shall not take place in the White House because of the formality which would be necessary there. The ceremony will be solemnized within the next two months, before the convening of Congress in December, either in Mrs. Galt's home or in one of the Washington churches.

President Wilson is a Presbyterian and Mrs. Galt an Episcopalian and no decision has been reached as to which service shall be used at the wedding. Mrs. Galt is a member of St. Thomas's Episcopal Church here.

The President has not yet chosen a best man. Colonel House is considered his most likely choice. One of Mrs. Galt's brothers probably will give her away. Because of the smallness of Mrs. Galt's home the wedding party will be necessarily limited to a small group.

May Go to California.

An extended honeymoon will be impossible because of the imperative demands of official duty upon the President, but his friends are urging him to accept an invitation to attend the San Francisco and San Diego Expositions just after his marriage. A short sea trip may be taken on the Presidential yacht Mayflower.

Early today a messenger carried a great bouquet from the White House conservatories to Mrs. Galt's home. The President gave up practically all of the day to receiving congratulations and calling with Mrs. Galt upon members of their respective families. In the afternoon he went to meet a few friends at the home of Mrs. W. H. Bolling, the mother of the bride-to-be, and tonight he had as his guests at dinner at the White House Mrs. Galt, her mother, Secretary and Mrs. McAdoo, and several other relatives. Miss Helen Woodrow Bones, the President's cousin, and Dr. Cary T. Grayson, his physician, both warm friends of Mrs. Galt, were among the guests. The party spent the evening at the White House.

When the President received callers today and when he left and entered the White House he was wearing a broad smile and seemed very happy. Mrs. Galt, with heightened color, laughed and joked with friends as she spent the morning answering telephone calls of those who wished to congratulate her. She was extremely shy when asked regarding details of her plans.

"I am very happy," she said, "but I am of no importance, and the less the newspapers print about me at this time the more I shall appreciate it, and so, I am sure, will the President."

Will Visit New York Today.

The President and Mrs. Galt, with Mrs. Bolling, Miss Bones, Dr. Grayson, and Secretary Tumulty will leave early tomorrow for New York, to be the guests there of Colonel E. M. House, the President's closest friend, and Mrs. House. They will reach New York in the afternoon, and the time before dinner probably will be devoted to the purchase of an engagement ring, as well as to an automobile ride. After dinner Colonel and Mrs. House will give a theatre party. Saturday morning the party will go to Philadelphia, where the President will throw out the first ball used in the second game of the world's series. Immediately after the game the return trip to Washington will be made on a special train.

Colonel House, with a few other intimates, who knew of the President's coming engagement long before the news was permitted to reach the public, planned his house party some time ago. While the President is in New York he will be the guest of Colonel House, but Mrs. Galt, her mother and other members of the party will stay at a hotel. Colonel House occupies an apartment which is not large enough to accommodate the entire party.

Members of the President's Cabinet have taken a deep interest in his engagement, and it is probable that after the New York-Philadelphia trip many informal social affairs will be arranged for the President and Mrs. Galt. Neither is over fond of social festivities, but their friends say it is certain the coming season at the White House will be gayer than any of those since Mr. Wilson became President.

The engagement was almost the one topic of conversation in the capital today. Practically the entire clerical force at the White House executive offices was kept busy with matters pertaining to the coming marriage, callers at the White House would talk of nothing else, and the President himself was able to give little attention to other affairs.

Mrs. Galt Silent on Suffrage.

Close friends of Mrs. Galt today described her as a woman without hobbies or fads. She is fond of horses, but owns none. While she has tried golf, she has never been an enthusiast. She is interested in philanthropic work, but her charities have always been of the unostentatious kind. She herself smilingly

SING SING "JUDGE" PUNCHED BY CONVICT

Ex-Congressman Willett Injured by Tim Cronin, an ex-Pugilist, Whom He Had Punished.

The dignity of a Judgeship has proved disastrous again for William Willett, the one-time Congressman of Queens, who was sent to Sing Sing for attempting to buy a Queens Judgeship and who achieved his ambition to go on the bench only after becoming a convict, when he was made Judge of the Prisoners' Mutual Welfare League Court at Sing Sing. Tim Cronin, an ex-pugilist, was arraigned before the Judge Wednesday on a charge of attempting to mail a letter from Sing Sing without submitting it to the scrutiny of the authorities. Judge Willett sentenced him to ten days confinement with consequent suspension of privileges.

The prisoner, according to the report received by State Superintendent of Prisons Riley in Albany yesterday, used insolent language to the Judge on the bench. He was rearraigned and sentenced to ten days more for contempt of court.

When Judge Willett, in leaving court a short time later, reached the door, he was struck in the face by Cronin. Reports concerning the extent of Willett's injury differ. According to one, several teeth were knocked loose and his lip was cut and later dressed in the prison hospital. The report from Albany had it that his neck had been cut and that he was in the hospital. The Judge was about the grounds yesterday, however, but he did not preside at the day's session of the prisoners' court.

It was reported on Sept. 20 that Judge Willett was struck on the head by a flying stool during a session of the court at which he was presiding.

THREE DEATHS TOLL OF AUTO ACCIDENTS

I. M. Alevy, Chemist, Killed When Car Goes Over Thirty-foot Embankment.

Two persons were killed in automobile accidents in and near this city yesterday. Another, injured on Wednesday night, died in Flower Hospital.

Miss Sophie Kahlke, 68 years old, a janitress, of 405 East Seventy-eighth Street, was knocked down and killed by an auto van while she was crossing the street in a blinding rain early last evening. The van was owned by Thomas Murray of 514 West 145th Street, and operated by David Sheehan, who was arreseted.

While Isaac M. Alevy, a chemist of 75 East 112th Street, and George Moore, a chemist of Flushing, L. I., were driving yesterday afternoon in Alevy's automobile to Paterson, N. J., along the Secaucus Road, the car skidded on the slippery roadway, near Secaucus. Alevy lost control of the machine and it plunged over a thirty-foot embankment. In the descent the automobile turned over, pinning Alevy beneath it, killing him.

Kate Farley, 45 years old, a laundress, employed at 8 West Fifty-third Street, died in Flower Hospital from a fracture of the skull and internal injuries which she received on Wednesday night when she was run down by Battalion Chief Graham's automobile.

7 GO TO HOSPITALS AFTER CARS COLLIDE

Twenty More Cut and Bruised When Slippery Rails Cause Smash in Canarsie.

Seven passengers were injured seriously and a score of others cut and bruised at 6:15 o'clock last night in a rear end collision on the Church Avenue surface car line in Church Avenue at Ninety-third Street in the Canarsie section of Brooklyn. Slippery rails were blamed.

Most of the passengers who were badly injured were in a closed car going east. It was rammed by an open car. There was a panic among the passengers on the closed car and at least a dozen were hurt while trying to climb through the windows, the glass in which had been shattered. Here is a list of the injured who were taken to hospitals:

BATSTEIN, SOLOMAN, 23 years old, 1,921 Douglas Street; internal injuries; Kings County Hospital.

BRUNELLO, PETER, 33, 238 Osborn Street; concussion of the brain, laceration of the scalp, and internal injuries; St. Mary's Hospital.

CORTELIO, PATSY, 40, 2,304 Atlantic Avenue; contusions and internal injuries; Kings County Hospital.

HONG, LOUIS, 35, 205 Church Avenue; probable fracture of the skull and internal injuries; St. Mary's Hospital.

JAKOVIDSKY, RODJAVON, 29, 443 Sackman Street; fractured left ankle and possible internal injuries; St. Mary's Hospital.

MOSLO, MEYER, 23, 894 Rockaway Avenue; laceration of the scalp, injury to the back, and internal injuries; Kings County Hospital.

Two ambulances were summoned from St. Mary's Hospital and one from Kings County. Other injured persons went to their homes after receiving medical attention. There was one woman among them, Rose Davis, 28, of 1,670 Rockaway Avenue, who suffered severe bruises and contusions of both legs.

TO RELEASE LAWSON ON $35,000 BOND

Mine Worker, Convicted of Murder, Admitted to Bail by Colorado Supreme Court.

DENVER, Oct. 7.—The Colorado Supreme Court late today admitted John R. Lawson to bail in the sum of $35,000. Lawson was convicted of first degree murder in connection with strike disorders and sentenced to life imprisonment on a charge of murdering John Nimmo, a Deputy Sheriff, who was killed in a riot near Ludlow in October, 1913. The Supreme Court several weeks ago granted a supersedeas and writ of error.

Lawson is a member of the International Executive Board of the United Mine Workers of America and was a member of the Police Committee of the union throughout the strike. Labor leaders said bail would be furnished soon and Lawson set at liberty.

BIG LABORATORY FOR NAVY PLANNED

First Result of Labors of Body Now Officially Named Naval Consulting Board.

A PLACE FOR RESEARCH

Will Be on Tidewater of Dreadnought Depth--Cost $5,000,000 and $2,500,000 Annually.

EDISON ELECTED CHAIRMAN

Cooper Hewitt Second in Command in Board—Co-operation with Navy Chiefs Complete.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The first concrete result of the preliminary labors of the Naval Consulting Board on Inventions created by Secretary Daniels, developed tonight when formal announcement was made that the board, after an all-day session, had unanimously approved a plan for the establishment of a great research and experimental laboratory for the United States Navy. The plan, as adopted, was proposed by Thomas A. Edison, Chairman of the board. It calls for the establishment of a laboratory at a cost of $5,000,000 for grounds, buildings and equipment, to be operated at an annual expenditure of from $2,500,000 to $3,000,000.

The board recommends that the laboratory be located on tidewater of sufficient depth to permit a dreadnought to come to the dock, and that it be near but not in a large city. As thus described, the laboratory would be near some large port on the Atlantic coast. It could not be located at Washington because the depth of water in the Potomac River is not large enough to permit dreadnoughts to come to the city.

Research Laboratory Plan.

The plan for the laboratory follows:

1. The laboratory should be located on tidewater of sufficient depth to permit a dreadnought to come to the dock. (B) It should be near but not in a large city, so supplies may be easily obtained and where labor is obtainable.

2. The laboratory should be of complete equipment, to enable working models to be made and tested to destruction. There should be: (A) A pattern shop; (B) a brass foundry; (C) a cast iron and cast steel foundry; (D) machine shops for large and small work; (E) sheet metal shop; (F) forge shop for small and large work; (G) marine railway large enough to build experimental submarines of 1,500 tons; (H) woodworking shops; (I) chemical laboratory; (J) physical laboratory; (K) optical grinding department, &c.; (L) motion picture developing and printing department; (M) complete drafting rooms; (N) electrical laboratory and wireless laboratory; (O) mechanical laboratory and testing machines; (P) explosives laboratory, removed from main laboratory.

3. The building should be of modern concrete construction, with metal sills and doors, wire glass windows, &c. Ample fire protection.

4. A naval officer of rank should be in charge. He should be especially fitted. (B) Under him should be naval heads of broad experience in laboratory methods and science in general—practical as well as theoretical men. They should not go to sea. (C) Under them should be staffs of civilian experimenters, chemists, physicists, &c. (D) Each sub-head should have his corps of assistants, and with shop facilities, without too much red tape. (E) There should be at least two, and possibly three, shifts of men. Time should be the essence of the place.

5. Secrecy should be the governing factor. The place should be surrounded by a high fence and guard maintained at all hours. No visitors allowed.

6. Facilities should exist for enabling the inventor to assist in the development of the idea he has presented, provided he is a practical man.

7. The investment for grounds, buildings, and equipment should total approximately $5,000,000.

8. The annual operating expense to be between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000.

Edison Heads Roster.

The Board was in session from early this morning until nearly 7 o'clock tonight. The morning session dealt mainly with matters of organization. Before adjourning for luncheon at the Army and Navy Club, with Secretary Daniels as the host, the Board elected these officers:

Chairman, Thomas A. Edison, Orange, N. J.

First Vice Chairman, Peter Cooper Hewitt, New York.

Second Vice Chairman, William L. Saunders, Plainfield, N. J.

Secretary, Thomas Robins, Stamford, Conn.

Assistant to Chairman, M. R. Hutchinson, Orange, N. J.

The sessions were held behind closed doors in the Navy Department Library. Only members of the board were present, although Secretary Daniels conferred with the members a short time. Mr. Edison presided. It was decided to change the name of the body to Naval Consulting Board, instead of Naval Advisory Board or Naval Inventions Board.

Assurances were given that the board would co-operate fully with the line and staff officers of the navy. It was thought by some, when the creation of the board was first announced, that naval officers might feel slighted over the introduction of a civilian consulting board. That idea has been dispelled. It became known today that the officers, including the chiefs of the various bureaus, and other experts of the line and staff in Washington, were ready to co-operate with the Consulting Board to the fullest extent, and that the members of the Consulting Board already had had valuable exchanges of views with naval officers.

The Naval Consulting Board is to be primarily a research body, and it not to deprive the naval officers of any of their duties. Mr. Edison's plan for a great research laboratory provides that a naval officer of rank shall be in charge, and that "under him should be naval heads of broad experience in laboratory methods and science in general—practical as well as theoretical men."

A suggestion that a battleship be placed at the disposal of the new board is being considered by Secretary Daniels. The suggestion was made to the Secretary by a member of the board. Navy Department officials inclined to

MAYOR, ANGRY, LIFTS THE TAX BOARD VEIL

Orders the Commissioners to Announce the Amounts of Personalty Sworn Off.

98 2-3 PER CENT. IS LOST

Of 351 Persons Set Down at $21,037,100, Only 44 Assessed on $283,250 Remain on Books.

Mayor Mitchel took hold of the Tax Department situation yesterday and ordered the Commissioners to make public the amounts of reductions in assessments. He has not disguised his anger over the policy of secrecy adopted by the Tax Board, and he had a talk with President Purdy over the telephone, and later called Tax Commissioners Shipley and Woodward to his office.

Shortly afterward the department gave out a written notice that by direction of the Mayor figures would henceforth be made public. At the same time the amounts sworn off yesterday, as well as every day since the tax books were opened, were given out.

The figures showed that the percentage of the final assessments as compared with the tentative assessments had improved somewhat over the first day's figures, when 99.62 per cent. of the personal property of sixty-five persons assessed was written off the tax books.

Since the books were opened last Monday 351 persons have been examined.

Of this number 307 have had their assessments stricken from the records, leaving 44 to pay a final assessment.

The tentative assessment of the 351 totaled $21,037,100. Of this amount only $283,250 remains on the books on which the city expects to collect.

In other words, about 1 1-3 per cent. of the tentative assessment in the last four days has "stuck." The actual percentage figure is .0134643+.

On the first day when the figures were made public about one-third of 1 per cent. remained on the books after the swearing-off process. According to the first day's figures, not much more than $13,000,000 of assessable property would finally remain on the books, if the same ratio of the amount sworn off was carried to a conclusion. The figures for all four days show, if the ratio as applied to the entire $3,704,305,965 is carried out, that the final amount of assessable personal property would be about $50,000,000, as compared to the final amount of $352,051,755 for 1915.

The Commissioners have said, however, that it was unfair to make any such ratio, as a large number of those who appear during the first days are either non-residents or have good reason to swear off their amounts.

Of the 351 who have been examined so far, sixty-six were exempted as non-residents. Four on the list have died since the assessments were made. The total number examined yesterday was 106, of whom thirteen swore they were nonresidents. The 106 represented a tentative assessment of $7,983,800, and of this amount $68,450 was held on the books, less than 1 per cent.

Manhattan's share in the big personalty assessment is $1,741,480,200. The total number of persons assessed in the entire city is 40,513, and of this number Manhattan furnished 21,737.

After the Mayor had told the Tax Commissioners that he would not countenance their policy of secrecy and silence, this statement was given out by President Purdy:

"Daily figures were not given out because they are not final. By direction of the Mayor the following figures are given. They show the number of persons who applied yesterday for correction of assessment, the amount assessed, and the amount to which assessments were tentatively reduced. All recommendations, however, are not finally determined until passed upon by the board. Investigations which may be made from time to time may change the figures."

The board decided not to make public the names of those who appeared to have their assessments reduced. Commissioner Purdy said he did not believe it seemly to name them all, but that the names of prominent citizens in whom the public was interested and who appeared at the Tax Office to have their assessments reduced, would be given out from time to time.

JAPAN THREATENS TO USE FORCE IN CHINA

Ready to Back Up Claims to Jurisdiction Over Koreans in Chen-tao.

PEKING, Oct. 7.—The Associated Press has been officially informed that Japan has notified China that unless Japan's demands regarding jurisdiction over the Koreans residing in Chen-tao, in the Kirin region of Manchuria, are accepted, Japan will pursue her own course in supporting her claim by military force, if necessary.

The Japanese claims, it is stated, are based on the May, 1915, agreement between China and Japan. China maintains that Chen-tao is not mentioned in this agreement, and that the previous agreement holds good.

AMERICAN BOY FACES DEATH AS TEUTON SPY

Kenneth G. Triest Runs Away from Princeton, Joins English Navy, and Is Now in Tower.

FATHER INTERCEDES IN VAIN

Through State Department Member of Big Contracting Firm Tries to Show Son Is Weak Mentally.

Kenneth G. Triest, a 19-year-old freshman at Princeton, disappeared from college early in last January. No trace of him was found, though private detectives were employed to search, until recently a dispatch came to Wolfgang Gustav Triest at his home, 970 Park Avenue, from the State Department in Washington. It told the father that his lost boy was a prisoner in the Tower of London, accused, as a spy, of having enlisted in Great Britain's navy to learn secrets which he might send to Germany, the birthplace of his father.

Practically day and night since then the father has worked to save his son from death, the fate of a spy. He has employed legal aid, has become his own private detective seeking evidence to help his son, and last night he said he had done what he thought was his utmost. He had presented evidence, the testimony of many of the boy's acquaintances, to show that his son was mentally unbalanced, to Secretary Lansing of the Department of State, and had asked that his boy be discharged and deported to the United States as an unbalanced minor. Now he was waiting for a reply from Mr. Lansing. What more he could do he did not know.

Mr. Triest is a member of the engineering contracting firm of Snare & Triest, with offices in the Woolworth Building. He is a German by birth, but a naturalized citizen of this country. His wife was Miss Lillie P. MacDonald, a daughter of Charles MacDonald, the bridge builder, and Kenneth G. Triest is their only child.

The boy entered Princeton in the Fall of last year, and his father heard from him regularly until about last New Year's Day. Then young Triest left college and did not return. Neither did he visit the home of his parents nor communicate with them, and when his absence became sufficiently extended to be noted by the college authorities, they notified his parents.

Mr. Triest made inquiries among his friends. None had seen or heard from the boy. He was a member of the Sleepy Hollow Country Club, the Rumson Country Club in New Jersey, where his parents had a Summer home at Seabright, and of the Deutscher Verein here. He had been at none of these places, and, fearful that some misfortune had overtaken the boy, Mr. Triest employed the Burns Detective Agency to search for him.

This hunt by detectives was continued from day to day and from week to week, but no trace of the boy was found until last June. Then a letter was received from him by the boy with whom he had roomed in the few months he was at Princeton. This youth communicated at once with Mr. Triest.

"The letter told how my son had gone to England and had enlisted in the navy there," said Mr. Triest last night. "How he got there I haven't the slightest idea. I didn't supply him with funds. I never even saw or heard from him to do so and, as a fact, I haven't heard from him directly yet. He has never communicated with his mother or with me.

"I applied at once to the State Department, going to Washington myself and trying to see Mr. Lansing. In this I failed, but I saw others and asked that my boy be sent home. At that time, you understand, I did not know he was in trouble, but only that he had performed a foolish boy's trick, and, being still a minor, might be discharged from the navy and returned to me at my request.

Youth Was Unbalanced.

"I had no word from the State Department until the first of last month. Then I received the notice that my boy was under arrest and was to be tried as a spy. I hurried to Washington at once, taking my lawyer with me. This time I saw Mr. Lansing. I told him that my son was only a boy in years, that he was of German descent, and enthusiastically for the Fatherland. I told him that Kenneth had been upset mentally for some time, that I and all others who knew him believed that it was this condition that led him to run away from college and go abroad, and I asked that his trial be postponed only long enough to let me get evidence of these statements.

"Mr. Lansing succeeded in doing this much for me. My boy is a prisoner, but they held off his trial until I could get the evidence which I hope and pray may save his life. I went to Princeton and I got affidavits from his roomate, other students, and instructors, testifying that he had shown himself unbalanced mentally when he was in college. These I have forwarded to Mr. Lansing, and I can do nothing now but wait. I pray they may let my boy go. He was not himself or he never would have got himself in such a position. He is only a child, and all I want is to have him back where I can take care of him."

Mrs. Triest, who had listened sorrowfully as her husband talked, broke in excitedly the instant he paused. She was on the verge of tears, apparently, and evidently was keeping a tight rein on her emotions.

"Kenneth had Germany on the brain," she exclaimed. "He was trying to get to Germany. I know he was, and he thought he could do it by joining the English Navy. Would any one in sound senses do that? Doesn't it prove my poor boy's mind had given out under the great excitement of this war?"

Mr. Triest checked his wife to explain that he had told all he knew of the case. He said he hadn't heard when his boy's trial was to take place, but expected that Mr. Lansing would notify him.

A report received here from private sources in London said that the trial of young Triest had already been held and that he had been sentenced to die.

TEUTON ARMIES INVADE SERBIA; SERBS WELCOME FRENCH ALLIES; RUSSIA STARTS WAR ON BULGARIA

Russian Cruisers Bombarding Varna, One of the Gates to the Bulgarian Capital

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 7, (via London, Oct. 8.)—The Cologne Gazette reports two Russian cruisers actively bombarding the Bulgarian port of Varna.

Varna, 18 miles south of the Rumanian frontier and 145 miles by sea from the Bosporus, is the second Bulgarian port of any importance on the Black Sea, Burgas, 62 miles further south, being the first. The land approaches reflecting the lower course of the Danube resemble those of Antwerp—low and marshy. A railway runs from Varna inland to Sofia, the capital, 300 miles away, passing the historic fortress of Plevna.

The present strategic value of Varna is that it is one of the two eastern gates to Sofia, and its possession by the Russians would turn the east end of the Balkan range just as Sofia turns the western end. The other eastern gate, Burgas, is also connected with the capital by a railway.

Bulgaria's First Act of War

NISH, Oct. 8, (via London, Oct. 8.)—An aeroplane coming from Bulgaria this afternoon dropped numerous bombs on Nish, killing five persons and wounding two others, it then returned safely to Bulgaria.

GERMANS PIERCE LINES AT DVINSK

Hindenburg Reports Success of His Drive on a Front of Three Miles.

RUSSIANS KEEP UP ATTACKS

Heavy Fighting South of Dvinsk —Russian Torpedo Boat Reported Hit in Gulf of Riga.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The German offensive against Dvinsk is at last making some headway. The German official communication says that Field Marshal von Hindenburg has penetrated the Russian lines over a front of about three miles. Throughout the centre the Russians are still on the offensive.

The following official report on the eastern theatre was issued at Berlin today:

> Army Group of Field Marshal von Hindenburg: Before Dvinsk our troops penetrated the positions of the enemy extending over a width of five kilometers, (about three miles). South of Lake Drisitiata the enemy has been forced further back. An attacking brigade of Russian cavalry was destroyed by our fire.
>
> Between Lake Boginskoie and the region of Smorgon the Russians repeated their costly attempts to break through our lines, which, without exception, failed, after hand-to-hand fighting in some cases. Eleven officers and 1,300 men were taken prisoners.
>
> Near Raggasem on the Gulf of Riga, a Russian torpedo boat was damaged seriously by our land batteries.
>
> Army group of Prince Leopold: There is nothing to report.
>
> Army group of General von Linsingen: During a battle at Clartorisk the enemy was driven out of the woodlands west of the town.

The Russian War Office admits the loss of some trenches northwest of Dvinsk and reports very heavy fighting to the south. The official communication follows:

> On the front northwest of Dvinsk the Germans attacked in the region of the railway. A fierce combat was engaged in in the district of Grand Grundvald, where the enemy captured a portion of our trenches. The fighting continues.
>
> In the region of Chickovo, south of Grundwald, our troops have repulsed the Germans by counter-attacks. On the front of Lakes Demmen, Dreswiaty, and Obole the artillery duel continues.
>
> On the front south of Lake Boginskoie, approximately as far as the region of the town of Bogganioff, on the Lida-Molodechno Railway, hot fighting was indulged in, both sides displaying great violence.
>
> In the region north of Kozlany, the Germans were ejected from their trenches at Gospodskydvor.
>
> On the night of the 6th, we captured the village of Golovsk, and the town of Kozlany. In this section our troops had to surmount three lines of enemy trenches. A concentrated crossfire from the Germans compelled us afterward to abandon the town, but parts of the trenches remained in our hands.
>
> During our attack on enemy positions on the River Medziolka some of our troops succeeded in crossing the river, although the water was above their waists, and they were exposed to a violent fire.
>
> West of the Village of Mamulykopry, south of Kozlany, we succeeded also in capturing some enemy trenches.
>
> Near the Village of Zanapotch, on the southern shore of Lake Narotche, the Germans were dislodged from their trenches with the bayonet, but by counter-attacks they succeeded in retaking them.
>
> An engagement near the village of Semenki, south of Lake Vichnevskoie, ended in our capturing the village.
>
> Near the village of Bognuchi, south of Smorgon, our attack was successful, resulting in the occupation of part of the enemy's positions, in which we found arms, cartridges, and munitions of all kinds abandoned by the Germans during their retreat.
>
> It is impossible to refrain from again emphasizing the boundless courage our troops constantly manifested in their attacks on the enemy's trenches —in actions in which they surmounted lines of artificial obstacles with which the enemy incumbered all the ground between the lakes—and in their contempt for the arduous conditions of the Autumn fighting.
>
> South of the Pripet we took by assault the village of Lissovo, northwest of Czartorysk.

The Austrian official report on the main Russian theatre says:

> On the Putilowa, (west of Rovno,) the enemy commenced an attack at several points with strong forces and using large quantities of ammunition, but he was repulsed everywhere with great losses.

GREEK CABINET FORMED BY ZAIMIS

Premier, Who Is Also Foreign Minister, to Announce Policy on Monday.

HAS ADVOCATED NEUTRALITY

Five ex-Premiers in New Government—Venizelos May Give Provisional Support.

ATHENS, Oct. 7.—Alexander Zaimis has accepted the Premiership in succession to M. Venizelos, at the invitation of King Constantine. He completed his Cabinet today. M. Zaimis will serve as Foreign Minister as well as Premier. The new Cabinet is constituted as follows:

Premier and Foreign Minister—ALEXANDER ZAIMIS.
Minister of the Interior—M. GOUNARIS.
Minister of War—General YANAKITSAS.
Minister of Marine—Admiral P. COUNTOURIOTIS.
Minister of Finance—STEPHEN DRAGOUMIS.
Minister of Instruction—M. THEOTOKIS.
Minister of Justice and Communications—D. G. RHALLIS.

The Cabinet members will appear in the Chamber on Monday.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—"Five members of the new Greek Cabinet are former Premiers," says a Havas News Agency dispatch from Athens. "The fact that Premier Zaimis takes the portfolio of Foreign Affairs is significant, as he alone among the former Premiers has not opposed the Quadruple Entente, and it is considered his ideas best represent absolute neutrality.

"The Cabinet will appear in the Chamber next Monday and make public the declarations of its general policy, avoiding all reference to the Greco-Serbian alliance. The attitude of the Venizelos party will depend on the Government's declarations. It is regarded as probable, however, that the party will not refuse the provisional vote of confidence to the Cabinet.

"The Ministry as it is constituted is considered the best solution of the Ministerial crisis."

Alexander Zaimis has twice before held the office of Prime Minister. He is a nephew of the late Premier Theodore Delyannis, who was assassinated by a professional gambler in June, 1905, and is the son of Thrasyboulos Zaimis, several times Premier, and one of the three members of the national deputation delegated to offer the crown of Greece to Prince George of Denmark, who reigned at Athens as King George, and who was the father of Constantine, the present Hellenic ruler.

In 1906 M. Zaimis was appointed Governor General of the Island of Crete, in succession to Prince George of Greece, uncle of King Constantine, and his active policy in that post met with the approval of the Greek people generally. Subsequently he assumed the governorship of the National Bank of Greece.

NOTHING WILL STOP ALLIES.

Facts Alone Now Count in Balkans, the French Point of View.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—The semi-official Temps sums up French opinon of the Greek "coup de theatre" in a phrase:

"The difference of views between the King and Premier Venizelos may have considerable consequences for Greece, but cannot impede our Macedonian expedition, which is proceeding."

It is considered that the presence of the allied forces gives the Entente powers the key to the situation, as, the Temps continues, Greek acceptance of virtual collaboration renders their protest of no effect. The Allies are on their way to help Serbia. If they disembark in sufficient numbers—as it is asserted they will do—the possible opposition from the King can be ignored. The Temps concludes:

"The expedition is now a fact. Facts alone count in the Balkans. If we proceed promptly and strongly the crisis shaking the whole peninsula will terminate in our favor."

ATHENS, Oct. 7.—"There has been no real accord between King Constantine and myself since I resumed the Premiership," former Premier Venizelos told Greek Deputies and other friends after his rupture with the King.

400,000 MEN IN DRIVE

Austro-Germans Force Passage of the Danube, Save and Drina Rivers.

ITALY ALL READY TO ACT

But Gen. Cadorna, Commander in Chief, Opposes Participation in Balkan War.

UPRISINGS IN BULGARIA

Wholesale Arrests of Opposition Leaders Reported to Have Been Made by Radoslavoff

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 8.—The long-threatened Austro-German offensive in the Balkans, with the added menace of Bulgaria, has begun in earnest. Almost simultaneously with the rupture of diplomatic relations between Sofia and the Entente powers an Austro-German army estimated at 400,000 men, with an enormous weight of heavy artillery, started to attack Serbia from the north and west, and, according to the Berlin official report, crossed the Drina, Danube, and Save Rivers at many points, and firmly established itself on the Serbian side.

The Anglo-French troops, which were landed at Saloniki with the tacit consent of the Greek Government, are being hurried northward to assist Serbia and, if possible, keep the Bulgarians from capturing the Saloniki-Nish Railway, the only source by which the Serbians can be fed with munitions of war.

The hoped-for support from Greece has not been forthcoming, King Constantine, by the dismissal of Premier Venizelos, having shown that while his country sympathizes with the cause of the Allies, he is not prepared to go against the central powers or to fulfill the obligations of the Greco-Serbian treaty of alliance, which provides that one ally must go to the assistance of the other in the case of attack.

A new Greek cabinet, composed of men of pro-German and pro-Allies sympathies, has been appointed, and the expectation now is that unless public opinion forces the hand of the Government and insists on action on the side of the Allies, Greece will remain neutral. It is hardly conceivable to the Entente diplomats that Greece will go over to the central powers, for, they point out, Bulgaria is known to covet some of her territory, and the treatment of Greek nationals in Turkey makes it virtually impossible for her to become the ally of that country.

As in Greece, public opinion in Bulgaria is not entirely unanimous in support of the ruling powers and reports indicate that the mobilization is not being carried out without difficulty. King Ferdinand and Premier Radoslavoff, however, have finally thrown in their lot with Austria, Germany and Turkey, having, after consultation with the Ministers of those countries, rejected the demands of Russia for the dismissal of the Austro-German officers, who, it is alleged, have been engaged to command the Bulgarian army. Bulgaria, in fact, denied the presence of such officers, and the Russian, British, French and Italian Ministers have either left or are leaving Sofia. Italy has taken action also by giving the Bulgarian Minister at Rome, his passports.

Rumania, the other Balkan State, has not been heard from, but, like Greece, for the moment is bent on continuing friendly with all the belligerents.

TEUTONS FORCE WAY TO SOIL OF SERBIA

Little Kingdom's Population Greet French Allies with Intense Enthusiasm.

BERLIN, Oct. 7, (via London.)—Large German and Austrian forces have invaded Serbia by crossing the Drina, Save, and Danube Rivers.

The War Office today announced this action in the following communication:

> German and Austro-Hungarian troops crossed the Drina, the Save, and the Danube, at many places, and obtained firm footholds on the eastern bank of the Drina and the southern banks of the Save and Danube.

[The Danube forms the Austro-Serbian border from the Rumanian frontier to Belgrade, the Save from Belgrade to the northwestern corner of the country, and the Drina runs along the western boundary to a point not far north of the Montenegrin line.]

VIENNA, Oct. 7, (via London.)—The following report of operations against Serbia was issued by the War Office tonight:

> The Austro-Hungarian and German troops on several points have forced a passage of the Save and of the Danube Rivers, between the estuary of the Drina and the Iron Gate. The Serbian advance troops were repelled.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 8.—An official dispatch received in London states that the Austro-German armies concentrated against Serbia comprise a total of 400,000 men.

NISH, Oct. 7.—The following statement was given out by the War Office under date of Oct. 6:

A lively artillery duel occurred on the Save front, where, on Oct. 3, a battery of the enemy, advancing from Beljaia Heights, was driven back. Artillery engagements were intensified on Oct. 4. A heavy bombardment by the enemy of Serbian positions on the Danube front was ineffective.

Twenty aeroplanes dropped bombs on Pajarevatz and Goritza, without casualties.

During the night of Oct. 4-5 a gunboat and machine guns of the enemy bombarded the fortress of Belgrade without result.

Serbians repulsed an attempt of the Austrians to cross the Save opposite Banovo.

News of the landing of French troops at Saloniki spread throughout the country with great rapidity and caused intense enthusiasm. These troops, which already have passed into Serbian territory, are received at every station with the plaudits of the people. Women and children offer to the soldiers flowers, grapes, and every sort of present.

Macedonian notables presented the French officers with addresses affirming their Serbian nationality.

GREEK TROOPS NEAR AS ALLIES LANDED

Greek Officer Was On Pier With Serbians — British Staff Officers There.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Oct. 7, (Dispatch to the London Daily Mail.)—The Secolos Saloniki correspondent telegraphs under yesterday's date:

"At 8 o'clock on Tuesday morning great transatlantic vessels, followed by smaller transports with war material, and escorted by destroyers, entered the harbor while warships guarded the entrance.

"The landing, which took place at a quay at the western part of the harbor, began at 9 o'clock. Greek gendarmes under the command of the chief of the Macedonian gendarmerie, M. Toupakis, kept order. Waiting on the quay were Colonel Messalas, a Greek, two French Colonels, and two Serbian officers of the General Staff. At the opposite quay were anchored Greek transports with mobilized troops, who had come from Piraeus.

"When the first detachment of French troops landed the French Minister at Athens welcomed them in a cordial message.

"The landing operations proceeded quickly. At half-past 9 the first gun was landed. The soldiers in companies preceded by drummers and trumpeters marched to a camp which had been already prepared. They paraded the streets among the inhabitants, who were curious but silent. They arrived at the camp at noon.

"Four English officers of the General Staff were waiting for them. There the English encamped on the higher part of the land, the French on the lower.

"The transports were loaded with many batteries of 75 centimetre guns, quickfiring guns, munitions, horses, and food.

"The population received the Allies' troops without any manifestation, only admiring their splendid equipment.

"Salonica's streets are very lively. French and English officers and men are to be seen mixing with the Greek soldiers."

ALLIES JOINED RUSSIA IN DEMAND ON SOFIA

King and Premier Consulted German, Austrian and Turkish Ministers Before Replying.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—The circumstances which attended presentation of the notes of the Entente powers to Bulgaria are set forth in an official communication received here today from Sofia This announcement, filed in Sofia by the correspondent of the Havas News Agency on Tuesday and delayed in transmission, was issued by the Bulgarian Government before it made reply to the notes. The statement follows:

"On Monday, between 4 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon, the President of the Council received a visit from the representatives of France, Russia, and Great Britain. The first two presented notes, not identical, of the character of ultimata, in which, giving a forced interpretation of the armed neutrality proclaimed by Bulgaria and of the object of Bulgaria's mobilization, it was insisted, under threats of the rupture of diplomatic relations, that Bulgaria break off openly within twenty-four hours its relations with the Central Powers and send away the German and Austrian officers said to be among the staffs of the different Bulgarian armies.

"The representative of Great Britain presented a verbal note declaring that Great Britain would break with Bulgaria if hostilities should occur in the Balkans as the result of Bulgarian mobilization.

"In consequence of the absence of instructions, the representative of Italy has not yet joined his colleagues in this action.

"The Bulgarian Government today will hand to the representatives three notes, not identical, in which it will explain the spirit of armed neutrality of Bulgaria, while pointing out the danger that may arise from fresh encouragement given to Serbia. Rejecting categorically the accusation relative to the pretended presence of German and Austrian officers in the Bulgarian Army, it will declare it cannot drive away officers who do not exist.

"At the same time the Government will present a response to two preceding notes of the Entente powers, of which their representatives have been advised through the French Minister.

"The Bulgarian Government purposes to publish a Green Book on the conversations and negotiations with the powers of the Quadruple Entente."

CALLS IT BALKAN COLLAPSE.

Daily Mail Assails Government for Diplomatic Failures.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 8.—"The Balkan collapse," declares The Daily Mail editorially, "is the result of a series of diplomatic failures such as have rarely been recorded in the history of any country."

The newspaper says that in Constantinople the British Ambassador, Sir Louis Mallet, who was appointed in 1913, had no knowledge of Turkey or of the Turkish language and that neither did any of his three Secretaries.

"The position of this embassy was worthy of 'Alice in Wonderland,'" The Daily Mail continues,, "and there is good reason to believe this embassy typified the British legations at the other Balkan capitals. The Minister at Sofia was changed since the war began and few of his staff had been long in Bulgaria, so that King Ferdinand had no difficulty in deceiving them. Dilatory negotiations went on for months while the Bulgarian monarch chuckled in his sleeve at British simplicity.

"The third failure occurred at Athens. Great Britain appears to have counted on the active or passive support of Greece, but in the twinkling of an eye comes the transformation and the friendly Greek Premier vanishes. Of such a possibility our diplomats appear to have had no inkling. On such events as these the fate of the Empire may well depend. A diplomatic defeat is often the herald of a military defeat."

MADE BULGARS MANY OFFERS

Russia Promised Substantial Advantage for Support of the Czar.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 8.—A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph from Petrograd says:

"An exposition of the imperial policy in the Near East during the present war shows that in July of last year it was indicated to Bulgaria that she would secure substantial advantages by supporting Russian policy, which aimed at the restoration of the Balkan 'bloc' by reconciliation. At the same time she was warned that acts of hostility against Serbia would be regarded as directed against Russia.

"It was suggested to Serbia that concessions by her would be necessary if the policy of reconciliation was to be successful. On Aug. 29, 1914, the Triple Entente urged upon the Serbian Government that it should surrender territory to Bulgaria, and accept compensation at the expense of Austro-Hungary. This was agreed to in principle three days later.

"In the middle of October, concrete proposals were made to Bulgaria for her assistance against Turkey. She replied that she preferred to maintain strict neutrality.

"Toward the beginning of December Bulgaria was warned by the Triple Entente powers that they would guarantee Serbia and Greece against any attack on her part. Simultaneously she was informed that for real neutrality she would receive at the end of the war territorial ameliorations in Macedonia and Turace, down to the Enos-Midia line.

"In January last the Entente discussed the Russian proposal for guaranteeing Bulgaria a so-called uncontested zone in Macedonia as the price of her adherence and the compensation of Serbia with Austrian territory and broad access to the Adriatic. This was, however, eventually dropped in consequence of the coolness of its reception in Nish and Bulgaria's persistence on her expectant attitude.

"After the intervention of Italy the four allies on May 29 made to Bulgaria on condition of her active support with all her forces, the following proposals:

First—Immediate annexation to Bulgaria of Thrace to the Enos Midia line.

Second—A guarantee to Bulgaria at the close of the war of the part of Macedonia, bounded by the line of Egri Palanka-Sopot and Okhrida and including the towns of Egri Palanka, Kepriylia, Okhrida and Monastir.

Third—Pecuniary assistance.

"On June 15 Bulgaria asked for explanations of some of the points of the note and these were given on Aug. 4. At the same time the Allies guaranteed her the uncontested zone, according to the 1912 treaty, and undertook that only in event of Serbia's agreement to the concession, should the latter receive territorial enlargement after the war.

"On Sept. 1, the Government, at first intimated its acquiescence in the proposed fulfillment of the terms of the 1912 agreement, and on the 14th the Quadruple Entente made the following declaration to Radoslavoff:

"The four States are prepared to guarantee to Bulgaria the concession by Serbia immediately after the conclusion of the war of the portions of Macedonia, down to the 1912 line. This guarantee is conditional on the promise of Bulgaria that she be prepared in the near future to conclude with the allied States a military convention with respect to her action against Turkey. If a declaration in this sense is not received soon, the proposals made in the present note will be regarded as not having been made.

"Bulgaria's only reply to this note was order for general mobilization."

CLEMENCEAU IS BITTER.

Scores French Foreign Office for the Balkan Tangle.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Under the heading "the Balkanic adventure," Clemenceau attacks the foreign office, the censorship, and the Government with a savagery worthy of his nickname, "The Tiger."

"At the moment," he says, "when the dazed clumsiness of the Quai d'Orsay is about to crown with a supreme absurdity the incoherence of its lack of preparations it is time to raise the voice of common sense.

"Some day historians will discuss whether by Sofia, Bucharest or Athens his Mightiness, our foreign minister, has been most completely hoodwinked. His own explanations would certainly be a titbit. Meanwhile, forward, march, for Serbia, with nothing confronting us but an Austro-German offensive, plus the knives of their friends, Bratiano, Ferdinand, and Constantine.

"A rare accumulation of errors was committed during the attack on the Dardanelles, but it is doubtful if we profited thereby, for thanks to the censorship, Governments, blissfully oblivious of their blackest failures, can imagine they never occurred directly they have stifled criticism. Our Balkan negotiations, through even mediocrity, would have reaped a brilliant success. But our Poincaresque providence has denied us that advantage."

RUSSIANS NEAR RUMANIA.

Vienna Reports Their Attacks Repulsed on Bessarabian Border.

VIENNA, Oct. 7, (via London.)—The following official communication was issued today:

On the Bessarabian frontier and near Kremenets, in Volhynia, several Russian attacks were repulsed. Otherwise the situation is calm on the East Galician front and along the Ikwa River.

RUMANIA MAY MOBILIZE.

Geneva Hears Decree Is to be Issued Immediately.

GENEVA, Oct. 7.—Information reached Geneva by way of Munich today, from a source which is regarded as reliable, that Rumania will issue a decree for general mobilization within the next twelve hours.

EXPLAINS BULGARIA'S STAND.

Her Heart Is Fixed on Macedonia, Says David Starr Jordan.

Bulgaria's heart is fixed on Macedonia and she is on the side which will restore to her territory she has lost, is the view of Dr. David Starr Jordan, President of Leland Stanford University.

"All these Balkan folk," writes Dr. Jordan, "were for years under the dominion of the Turk, and none of them has been free for half a century. The Turk was most acceptable when asleep. When he was awake he had his own ideas of 'Union and Progress.' Union meant uniformity. A nation should have one ruler, one flag, one religion, one language. This was by massacre. And as the actual Turks were few in number, ruling over an empire of Slavs, Greeks, Italians, Jews, Armenians, Albanians, Kurds, Egyptians, Moors, and Arabs, it demanded eternal vigilance to keep them all in a state of union and progress.

"These people had had constantly before them the alternatives of revolt, conversion, assimilation, banishment, and massacre. At one time or another some of each race have chosen each of these alternatives, often two or three at once.

"Meanwhile, following the wicked lead of Bismarck and Disraeli, Europe has kept the Turk alive, because from financiers in each nation the Sultan had borrowed considerable sums of money. If the 'Sick Man of Europe' died his debts might be left unpaid; worse than that, they might be unsecured. And so the Balkans were kept in confusion, and the rest of the Ottoman Empire as well, in the hands of wild soldiers."

Dr. Jordan describes how one by one the Balkan States, in different fashion, escaped from Turkish rule, Macedonia and Thessaly and Thrace to be equally divided among their neighbors, and finally Albania became "an impossible kingdom under an impossible King."

WAR HAS TAKEN 2,000,000 LIVES

Wounded Now Number Nearly 4,000,000 and 2,000,000 Are Prisoners or Missing.

BILLIONS ADDED IN DEBT

Gen. F. V. Greene, Military Expert, Computes Losses in Men and Treasure.

FORCES NEVER EQUALED

Fabled Hordes of History Insignificant in Comparison and Our Great War Dwindles.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, Oct. 7.—Since the great war in Europe started more than 2,000,000 men have been killed; the wounded number nearly 4,000,000, while the total number of prisoners and of the missing is more than 2,000,000. These are conservative minimum figures compiled from the best available data, and were made public in Cullum Hall here tonight by Brig. Gen. Francis Vinton Greene, U. S. A., retired, in an address on the war, delivered before the members of the New York State Historical Association.

General Greene is an honor graduate of West Point of the class of 1870, and the author of many standard works on military history. He gave his hearers the benefit of what he called an "intelligent guess" as to the casualties of the war and submitted a table showing the increase of the national indebtedness of the European belligerents. The increase over 1914 approximately is $20,000,000,000. How much of this is war debt, of course, is problematical. The combined wealth of the Allies is estimated at $204,000,000,000, while that of the Teutonic Allies, with Turkey included, is estimated at $108,000,000,000.

General Greene also discussed the changes in the art of warfare that have made the great struggle not only the most frightful but also the most interesting, from a military point of view, of any war in history. Incidentally the speaker indicated what in his own opinion is required to make adequate the national defense of the United States.

In the present decade he said there had occurred more important changes in the art of warfare than in the previous fifty years, and in those fifty years more than in the five preceding centuries; in other words, since the first use of gunpowder in warfare.

What these changes in the art of warfare mean is learned by a study of the tables of casualties, financial expenditures, &c., compiled by General Greene. One of these gives the population, based on official figures, of the various countries concerned in the war. These figures are taken from official reports. Summarized, they show that on the side of the Allies there are in Europe 266,500,000 people as compared with 122,200,000 population of the Teutonic nations and their ally, Turkey. The colonies of the Allies have a population of 472,500,000 people as compared with 52,800,000 in the colonies that now or did belong to Germany, Austria, and Turkey. The total population upon which the Allies can draw is 739,000,000 as compared with 155,000,000 who owe allegiance to Emperor William, Franz Josef, or the Sultan

Another table gives the "armed strength" of the various belligerents, the estimates being based on figures to be found in various standard works. General Greene describes the figures as "approximate only," but "probably sufficiently accurate for comparative purposes." This table, which gives both the army and naval totals of the powers at war, follows:

ARMED STRENGTH.

	—Armies.—		—Navies.—
	Peace.	War.	Ships.	Tonnage.
Great Britain	156,000	700,000	545	2,700,000
France	800,000	2,780,000	368	900,000
Belgium	45,000	170,000	....	....
Serbia	25,000	190,000	....	....
Total	2,196,000	7,940,000	1,337	4,780,000
Germany	800,000	3,500,000	304	1,300,000
Austria Hungary	340,000	1,400,000	124	350,000
Turkey	220,000	360,000	41	100,000?

The most interesting of the tables is the one that gives the casualties in the present war. The figures are based upon official reports made in the House of Commons from totals printed in the newspapers and from data gathered from other sources.

"They are not much more than intelligent guesses," said General Greene tonight, "but I have used minimum figures." This table follows:

LOSSES IN BATTLE.

	Killed.	Wounded.	Missing.	Total.
G. Britain	86,000	251,000	55,000	392,000
France	400,000	700,000	300,000	1,400,000
Russia	500,000	800,000	900,000	2,200,000
Italy	5,000	15,000	5,000	25,000
Belgium	25,000	40,000	15,000	80,000
Austria	400,000	700,000	700,000	1,800,000

General Greene's figures dealing with the financial situation in Europe are as follows:

FINANCES.

(In Millions of Dollars.)

	National Wealth.	Nat'nal Debt. 1914.	1916.	Per Cap.	P.C.
Great Britain	$85,000	$3,485	$11,000	260	13
France	50,000	6,845	9,500	237	19
Italy	20,000	2,850	3,000	85	15
Belgium	9,000	825	825	110	12
Germany	80,000	3,735	9,985	153	12
Aus.-Hungary	25,000	1,050	2,000	39	8
Turkey	3,000(?)	675	675	188	22

"The figures relating to Great Britain and Germany," said General Greene, "are accurate. The others are approximate only. The estimates of the cost of the war vary from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 per day, which will bring the total cost on Jan. 1, 1916, to nearly $25,000,000,000, of which probably 80 per cent. has been borrowed."

Changed Methods of Warfare.

In his discussion of other phases of the war General Greene laid stress on the important part played by the aeroplane, the automobile, the submarine, and wireless telegraphy, which are for the first time effectively useful in warfare.

"We only dimly perceive, as yet," General Greene said, "the relation between these agencies and the stupendous scale of actual military operations. In the preceding fifty years the railroad, the steamboat, the electric telegraph, had first come into military use, and had gradually reached their complete perfection. It has often been said that had these means been at the disposal of Napoleon he would have conquered the world. This is mere opinion and speculation, but it is a fact that the means of transportation and of communicating intelligence were substantially the same in the time of Napoleon as in the time of Caesar.

"But from Napoleon's time to the present the art of war has benefited by all the wonderful improvements in the mechanical arts and sciences; all of which are the servants of war as well as of peace. Instantaneous communication of intelligence, marvelously rapid transportation of troops, the ability to feed and supply unheard of numbers in the field, flying through the air to detect the enemy's movements, swimming under water to destroy the enemy's ships, hurling projectiles of unprecedented size to destroy his forts, caring for hundreds upon thousands of wounded, which but for the automobile would have perished upon the field—these are some of the more important methods of warfare which now for the first time are being used to full effect, and which differentiate the war of today from all previous wars, and from those of comparatively recent years almost as much as from those of antiquity.

Huge Forces in the Field.

"The fabled stories of the countless hordes who crossed the Hellespont with Xerxes and Alexander have been far surpassed by the actual numbers of the forces engaged in the present conflict. The figures are certainly startling. In Europe 78 per cent. of the population at war, in all the world 56 per cent of the population involved in the conflict; 13,000,000 men actually under arms; 2,000,000 killed, nearly 4,000,000 wounded, more than 2,000,000 prisoners. We cannot grasp these figures, but we can get some idea of what they mean by comparing them with the results of previous wars. We were accustomed to speak of our civil war as the greatest conflict of modern times, but apparently it was only one-tenth the magnitude of the present conflict.

"At no time did the number of men actually under arms, North and South, exceed 1,300,000 men, and the total number of those killed in battle and died of wounds on the Northern side was 110,070, and on the Southern side probably not more than 80,000; so that in four years of war then the destruction of life was less than one-tenth of the destruction of life during a little more than one year at the present time. In the Napoleonic wars, from 1796 to 1815, the largest army ever assembled was that which Napoleon led into Russia in 1812, and this numbered somewhat in excess of 500,000. The German armies fighting today in Russia on the east and in France on the west are more than six times as large."

Referring to the war in the western theatre General Greene said that the reports indicated that 2,500,000 on each side occupied the trenches from the sea to the Vosges, which meant 8,000 men to the mile or five to the yard, more than the equivalent of a double-rank formation, in close order, with elbows touching, from end to end.

"Compared to these," remarked General Greene, "the celebrated lines of Torres Vedras in Portugal and of Petersburg in Virginia sink almost into insignificance. Imagine a continuous line in double rank across the State of New York from the Atlantic to Lake Ontario."

General Greene then took up a discussion of the manner in which the armies are supplied with food and rations, and the use of the motor truck.

"It would seem," he said, "as if the internal combustion engine as applied to the automobile has almost revolutionized that branch of the military science which has been called logistics."

The Financial Problem.

Taking up a study of the economics of the war, General Greene said:

"The war is already long and the end is no more in sight than it was a year ago. The financial transactions are on a scale even more stupendous than the numbers of men engaged, and the increase in national debts fairly staggers the imagination. Approximately $20,000,000,000 have already been borrowed, and there is more to come.

"If, however, we consider these figures relatively to the population and the estimated wealth of the nations engaged in war we find that they are not unprecedented. Per capita the debts are no greater than those of England and France at the close of the Napoleonic wars. Moreover, the per capita basis is not the only, and perhaps not the most important basis of comparison. Wealth has increased far more rapidly than population in the last hundred years; so that the debts at the present time are considerably less in the percentage of accumulated wealth than was our debt fifty years ago, or the European debts a hundred years ago.

"It is of course within the bounds of possibility that the war may continue until one or more than one of the nations involved become hopelessly bankrupt. But all, or nearly all of them, have still vast sources of credit untouched. It is beyond any question a fact that the military operations have not been anywhere restricted by financial considerations. Questions of finance have not made any change in the art of war, except as they have contributed through enormous resources of credit to make it possible to carry on military operations on a scale of such unprecedented magnitude."

Submarine's Status Undecided.

Taking up the naval operations in the war, General Greene, in a reference to the activities of the German submarines, said the result of those operations was "absolutely large, yet relatively small," explained by the fact that whereas the German undersea boats destroyed a British tonnage of 600,000, the merchant marine tonnage of Great Britain now exceeds 20,000,000.

"The damage done to vessels of war by submarines," he added, "does not appear to have been sufficient to produce any serious effects on the results of the war. It is therefore a question whether the submarine is a really important factor in a military sense. It his given rise to endless diplomatic disputes, but that it has in any way affected the issue of the war is not evident as yet. To say that it has rendered the battleship useless is certainly wide of the mark."

General Greene referred to the Zeppelin raids on London as constituting acts that were not war. The raids he characterized as "cruel and ineffectual," both those on London with Zeppelins, and those with aeroplans on Paris.

"Of minor importance," said General Greene, "is the use of asphyxiating gases, the modern succession of the long discarded 'Greek fire' and the 'Chinese stinkpot.' They have produced cruel suffering, but no important military results."

The Lesson for America.

In conclusion General Greene said:

"What lessons are we in the United States to draw from this war? In what manner and to what extent do these recent changes in the art of war affect us? The answer is that if we are to avoid the risk of a financial panic of such magnitude as has never been imagined, of the payment of enormous indemnities, and the possible loss of our freedom, then we must have:

"First—A navy somewhat larger than that of any other nation except one, and such a swarm of submarines as will enable us to make some sort of defense against the greatest navy.

"Second—A sufficient number of trained soldiers to prevent landing on our coasts in case the enemy should defeat or elude our navy; or, in case we do not succeed in preventing a landing, that we delay the advance until we can develop our immense latent resources in men and materials.

"Third—The co-ordination of our industrial development with our military requirements, so that, in case of war, we can utilize our vast economic strength.

"Our trained soldiers," General Greene said in summing up, "are barely 1 per 1,000 of population, while those of possible enemies are 60 per 1,000, and there is no co-relation between our mines, our factories, our means of transportation and communication on the one hand, and our military establishment and plans of defense on the other. That we are quick and resourceful in an emergency is universally conceded, but to rely upon this in place of military training and proper co-ordination of our economic resources is to invite certain disaster."

17,074 OFFICERS LOST.

British Army's Figures Up to Sept. 27—Killed Numbered 5,176.

LONDON, Sept. 28, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The total casualties among officers of the British Army from the beginning of the war up to Sept. 27 are shown by figures just given out to have reached a total of 17,074. Five thousand one hundred and seventy-six officers were killed or died, while 10,469 were wounded and 1,429 are listed as missing.

In the fortnight ended Sept. 27 the lists show 131 officers killed, 290 wounded, and eleven missing, a total of 432 casualties, indicating the comparative lull in operations. The Indian contingent lost twenty killed and thirty-nine wounded; the Australians eight killed and twelve wounded, and the Royal Field Artillery eight killed and fifteen wounded. Apart from these, losses in individual regiments do not exceed fifteen.

In the course of the fortnight two Brigadier Generals were wounded.

FRENCH STRIKE HARD AT RAILWAY

New Champagne Drive Penetrates German Trenches Near Souain, but Is Repulsed.

BERLIN ADMITS TAHURE LOSS

Six Strong Counterattacks Are Made to Regain Conquered Ground, but All Fail.

SOUCHEZ ASSAULT FUTILE

Violent Artillery Combats Rage at Many Points on the Western Front.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 8.—New attacks are being made by the French forces in the Champagne district in their effort to reach the Challerange-Bazancourt Railway.

The German War Office tells of six massed assaults by Joffre's soldiers northwest of Souain in the direction of Ste. Marie, which is on the railway. The French troops penetrated the first German trenches, according to Berlin, which adds, however. that the foe were beaten back with heavy losses.

The scene of this severe conflict is about five miles due west of Tahure, the important strategic point won by the French in yesterday's fighting. The Germans admit the success of the assaults at Tahure, but state concisely that "a counterattack is proceeding." This "counterattack," according to the official French bulletins, consisted of a series of six terrific attacks, all of which are said to have been repulsed.

Violent combats are going on at many other points on the western front, and the severity of the artillery fire is noted in all the official communications. The Paris night bulletin reports the opening of artillery duels in regions little affected hitherto since the allied offensive began.

The Germans delivered four counterattacks last night against the positions recently conquered by the French near Souchez, but were repulsed at all points.

Germans Admit Loss of Ground.

The German headquarters report says of the fighting in the western theatre of the war:

The French offensive in the Champagne continues. After a strong artillery fire, gradually increasing to the utmost intensity, attacks recommenced yesterday at daybreak.

Northwest of Souain six massed attacks by the French broke down, with a very heavy loss to the enemy. Two officers and 180 men were made prisoners.

To the west of the Somme-py-Souain high road sections of the newly arrived divisions succeeded at one point in penetrating across our foremost line of trenches in the direction of Ste. Marie. The enemy was driven out again by immediate counterattacks. Twelve officers, twenty-nine non-commissioned officers, and 550 men were left prisoners in our hands. Two machine guns were captured. East of the high road mentioned above the enemy was unable to achieve results worth mentioning.

By massed attacks in a small trench section east of the Navarin Farm, in which the enemy succeeded in holding out, a counterattack is still progressing.

Only at and near Tahure was the enemy successful after fluctuating engagements in capturing 800 meters of ground. The attack was brought to a standstill by our counterattack.

Attempts of the enemy to pierce our positions north and northwest of the Beausejour farm failed completely. Wherever the enemy succeeded in penetrating our trenches they were killed or taken prisoners. The positions remained in our possession throughout. Three officers and 300 men were carried off. Three machine guns also were captured from the enemy.

A fierce but fruitless attack during the early morning hours against our position in the brick yard northwest of Ville-sur-Tourbe was followed in the course of the day by weak advances only, which from the very beginning were either repulsed or frustrated by our artillery fire.

North of Arras there were only unimportant hand grenade engagements.

In the Aisne sector, at Sapigneul, a weak French surprise attack on a projecting trench section failed.

Artillery Activity Spreads.

The night bulletin of the French War Office says:

A violent bombardment by both sides has occurred in the environs of Nieuport and in the Sector of Het Sas-Steenstraete.

Artillery activity continued on all sides in Artois. We made slight progess to the south of Thelus, near the road from Arras to Lille.

A sudden attack, attempted by the enemy on one of our advance posts near Popincourt to the south of Roye, was completely stopped.

On the Aisne our batteries caused by their fire two very violent explosions in the enemy's lines in the region of Juvincourt, and set fire to the station at Guignicourt.

In Champagne the Germans during the course of the day delivered two counterattacks against our positions to the west of the Navarin farm; they were both repulsed. The enemy suffered heavy losses.

In the Vosges we dispersed a strong German reconnoissance which had started to attack one of our posts to the east of the Valley of Sondernach.

One of our aeroplanes shot down this afternoon in Champagne a German captive balloon which fell in flames within the enemy's lines.

French Repulse Fierce Attacks.

The day bulletin says:

The enemy last night bombarded violently all our front to the north of La Scarpe They undertook four successive counterattacks against the positions recently conquered by us in the forests to the west of the road between Souchez and Angres. Here they were completely repulsed.

There have been intense bombardments in which both sides took part to the south of the River Somme; in the sectors of Andechy, Dancourt, and Canny; at Matz; to the north of the River Aisne; in the vicinity of Tracy le Val, and at the Forest of St. Mard.

In the Champagne district the Germans last evening delivered a number of stubborn counterattacks, making use of successive lines of troops, against the positions which they recently lost to us to the north of Tahure. These attacks everywhere resulted in failure, and the Germans suffered very heavy losses.

At Eparges we caused the explosion of two mines which inflicted serious damage on the works of the enemy.

A Belgian official bulletin says:

There has been an intermittent bombardment of our advanced trenches to the south of Nieuport, Pervyse, and Oostkerke, and our trenches in the neighborhood of Dixmude, as well as to the south of Noordschoote. There was no infantry action.

CASTELNAU LOSES THREE SONS

Third of General's Family Dies from His Wounds.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Three sons of General Edouard de Curières de Castelnau have lost their lives at the front.

Two were killed some time ago, and the death of the other, Second Lieutenant Hugues de Castelnau, who was wounded in the recent fighting in Artois, was announced today.

LOSS OF TAHURE CALLED OMINOUS

Sign of German Weakness, Says Correspondent, Summing Up Teuton Casualties.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 7, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—The capture of the hamlet of Tahure and the hill immediately north, called the Butte of Tahure, is a mark of the resumption of the French offensive in Champagne and has besides great significance with regard to the whole position in the West.

The capture of Tahure the furthest northward thrust of the French in Champagne threatens the Germans on both sides. The village, formerly having fewer than 200 inhabitants, and situated at a lonely crossroads, has no importance in itself save that as is learned by bitter experience ruined villages make better fortifications than General Brialmont's concrete and steel forts. The possession of the crossroads is also something in this desolate countryside where highways were so little needed.

The Butte of Tahure commands the valleys and lower hills for some distance on either side. Whether in an artillery sense it immediately commands the Besancourt-Challerange railway is not quite clear, for there is a wooded hillside between; but that line, so vital for all the supplies and reinforcements of the German front in Champagne, is only two miles away, and there is a tunnel at the nearest point, the destruction of which would put it out of action. The next railway northward means a retreat of ten miles.

While nothing is known yet of the details of the fighting except that a thousand prisoners were taken, this must have been a great feat of arms. It can hardly be said in extenuation that there is any considerable element of surprise. The German prisoners admit that the beginning of the offensive eleven days ago had been expected. Now they have had a further ten days' notice and on ground of great natural strength and are still lacking. The four or five supplementary thrusts at intervals along the new front may well have left them uncertain where a heavy blow would fall. So much the worse for the German aircraft and scouting services.

With the knowledge of 16,000 unwounded men lost as prisoners, and several scores of thousands more killed or wounded on this narrow front, one may be sure that the German commanders would do their very best. If they have been unable to attempt any serious counter-offensive or to stem the progress of the French assaults, it is for lack of three essentials—men, material, and skill.

Colonel Feyler reckons that during the first year of the war the German total of men between 20 and 45 years available for active service decreased from 7,750,000 to 6,000,000, and that this number would fall to 5,500,000 by the end of the present month. During the last six months the casualties averaged 300,000 a month. The present rate is much higher, and few of those now wounded can hope to rejoin before the end of the war.

The holding of the eastern and western fronts against enemies, constantly reinforced, with 4,000,000 or 4,500,000 Germans and the remnant of the Austro-Hungarians, to say nothing of adventures on the Danube, is an impossible proposition. I say nothing also of the effect of the loss of nearly 3,000,000 men upon the minds of the German people, but he must be bold who doubts such an effect.

The recruits of the 1915 class and the first levy of the uninstructed Landsturm, called out in March, have been followed by the 1916 class and a further ban of the Landsturm. There remain now only the 1917 and half the 1918 classes, lads just over 17 years of age, unless it be decided to call men up to 50 years of age.

SAYS TURKS DESIRE TO DESTROY ZIONISM

Letter Tells of Commissioners' Alarm at Hearing a Reference to King David; Thought Him Alive.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 8.—A letter from Alexandria to The Morning Post says:

"Ever since the war broke out with Turkey, Egypt has been receiving thousands of refugees from Syria and Palestine. The influx lately has been increased by the arrival of 13,000 Armenians from northern Syria at Port Said, who were brought thither by French warships.

"Yesterday (Sept. 21) the American warship Chester arrived at Alexandria from Jaffa with nearly 400 British, French, and Russian subjects, and another large batch of refugees is expected by the American warship Des Moines.

"The refugees include 200 Jews with many leaders of the Zionists who have been expelled by Djemal Pasha. The Pasha is especially annoyed because of the Zion mule corps, which consists of volunteers from among the refugees from Palestine who are engaged in transport work at Gallipoli. The idea that these Jewish refugees should be helping the Allies has infuriated him, and he is continually upbraiding the Jews with ingratitude to Turkey.

"About five hundred Jewish women and children are confined at the Bella Vista Hotel at Jaffa and are undergoing much privation. The refugees declare that Djemal Pasha has announced that he will extirpate Zionism root and branch and that not a single Jew will be allowed to re-enter Palestine.

"Much gratitude is expressed for the action of the American Consul at Jaffa, Dr. Glazebrook, who is doing his best to safeguard the subjects of the allied powers.

"One of the Jewish refugees, Dr. Deinard, an American subject, tells a curious tale of Turkish nervousness on the subject of Zionism. Some years ago he arrived in Palestine from the United States, and settled down at Ramleh, an hour's journey from Jaffa. He brought his library with him from America, consisting of some thousands of books. Lately the library was confiscated by the Turks and a commission was selected to examine the works. The commissioners had hardly begun their investigation when on the cover of one of the books they noticed the inscription, 'If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, may my right hand lose its cunning.'

"The Turks considered these words highly suspicious, as savoring of Zionism, and gave orders to send for Dr. Deinard, who was asked to give an explanation. He stated that he was in no way responsible for the words and that they had been uttered by King David regarding Jerusalem. The members of the commission were aghast at this reply, and, in a state of great excitement, said, 'So, indeed, there is really a Zionist King of Jerusalem?'

"One of the Turks seized hold of Dr. Deinard and cried out, 'Tell us at once where this so-called Jewish King is, for he must be found without delay, since by the arrest of this traitor we shall be able to destroy the Zionist movement.'

"Dr. Deinard explained that the King in question was dead, but this did not satisfy the Turkish Commissioners, who announced that he must give satisfactory proofs that the King had really expired, with full details as to his decease. It was only after a long explanation by Dr. Deinard, who was able to make them understand that King David had breathed his last twenty-five centuries ago and had been buried in Jerusalem, that the Commissioners were satisfied that the Zionists had not as yet gone so far as to elect a monarch of their own."

were in full agreement," he added, "was the mobilization of the Greek forces in view of Bulgaria's equivocal attitude."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, Wednesday, Oct. 6, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—This day has been spent by King Constantine in the reception of heads of various parties, and this evening it was announced that M. Zaimis, Governor of the National Bank, who had had an audience of the King last night immediately after the resignation of Premier Venizelos, had consented to form a Cabinet.

After the events of the week it would be unwise to hazard any opinion as to the probable course of events. The new Cabinet must meet the Chamber, because the powers of the Crown in regard to prorogation are already exhausted for this year. It is believed M. Venizelos and his followers will not refuse the Zaimis coalition Cabinet a vote of tolerance, mainly on the ground that under present circumstances every effort must be employed to avoid a dissolution of the Chamber.

Further particulars are now known concerning the resignation of M. Venizelos. The King told him he regarded the Prime Minister's declarations in the chamber as too sweeping, as having gone too far. M. Venizelos, in reply, stated that the policy set forth before Parliament was known to his Majesty. The Premier could not abandon that policy, as it constituted, in his belief, the basis of that line of foreign policy which he regarded as the most advantageous to the country.

Venizelos added that his Majesty had known that at the proper moment he (Venizelos) would take the opportunity to outline that policy before the House, for he had held that when Greece found herself faced with the menace of one of her neighbors that time would be most favorable for stating definitely the position of Greece.

The King and the Premier then had a long argument, but Venizelos failed to convince his Majesty, who stated that he found himself in open disagreement with the policy of the Government. Then Venizelos tendered his resignation, which was tacitly accepted by the King.

There has been no demonstration in the city, though the crisis has continued to keep public interest at a high pitch.

This evening news became known in Athens of the Entente's rupture with Bulgaria. That event was generally expected, as Greece never had any doubts as to the direction in which the Sofia Cabinet's policy was driving Bulgaria. What effects that momentous move will have on Greek policy it is yet too early to state.

GERMAN VIEWS OF CRISIS.

Outlook for Allies in the Balkans Regarded as Dark.

BERLIN, Oct. 7, (by Wireless to Sayville, N. Y.)—Comment in the morning newspapers on the Balkan situation is summarized by the Overseas News Agency as follows.

"The Vossische Zeitung notes that the Entente Powers in occupying Lemnos and Tenedos (in the Aegean Sea) entered upon what might be called doubtful territory, but declares that at Saloniki they have touched what beyond doubt is Greek soil. The newspaper makes a comparison of this act with the British attitude in the case of Belgium.

"The Deutsche Tageszeitung points out that the Balkans are considered by Great Britain as a fortress of which she wished to make use for the protection of her Egyptian possessions during the prosecution of the campaign in the Dardanelles. This campaign is declared to have been a great failure because of the brave defense of their soil by the heroic Turkish troops. The Tageszeitung argues that the British idea was that the landing at Saloniki would attract new allies, but the newspaper doubts whether Great Britain and France will find their opinions justified in this respect.

"The Boersen Courier declares that Russia assisted the Balkan States only so long as they were obedient to her and served the purposes of Russian diplomacy, working for the conquest of Constantinople. The Balkan States, it holds, now must decide whether they shall be vassals or sovereign States. It considers the war to be entering upon a new and important phase."

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 8.—Reuter's correspondent at Amsterdam sends the following, gleaned from German newspaper comment on the development in the Balkans:

"The dramatic situation in Greece is widely, but for the most part cautiously, commented upon by the German press. Theodore Wolff in the Tageblatt declares it to be the heaviest blow that could have been given the policy of the Entente Powers and that it confronts them with an extraordinary danger. Herr Wolff considers King Constantine's action somewhat daring, but he argues that a revolutionary movement in Greece is improbable, as the army is devoted to the King.

"The Lokal Anzeiger thinks the maintenance of the sort of neutrality contemplated by King Constantine requires an unusual measure of sangfroid, and is only practicable when the Parliament, the country and the army are in agreement in regard to it."

ITALY ACTS WITH ALLIES.

Salandra Says Army Is Ready for Trouble in Balkans.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 8.—The Italian Foreign Minister yesterday handed passports to the Bulgarian Minister to Italy, according to a Stefani News Agency dispatch from Rome.

TURIN, Oct. 6, (via Paris, Oct. 7.)—Premier Salandra announced at an important Cabinet council, according to the Stampa's Rome correspondent, that the Italian diplomatic policy in dealing with Bulgaria had been all along in line with that of the Allies and would continue to be. He declared that any diplomatic action taken by Italy's allies would be taken also by Italy and that such action was imminent.

The Premier is reported to have asserted his Government viewed the Balkan situation calmly, believing it might have the advantage of shortening the war and bringing about the final success of the Allies. He announced that all military measures had been taken both for the war now in progress on Italy's frontiers and that impending in the Balkans.

Cadorna Against Acting in Balkasn.

UDINE, Italy, Oct. 7, (via Paris, Oct. 8.)—It is reported that Lieut. Gen. Count Cadorna, Chief of the Italian General Staff, is strongly opposed to the participation of Italy in an expedition to the Dardanelles or Saloniki, maintaining that it would be a mistake to divide the military and naval forces of the country while the campaign in Isonzo, which has a national character, is still unsettled.

As a result General Cadorna has sent General Porro, Under Chief of the General Staff, to Rome to explain verbally General Cadorna's opinion to the Premier and the Ministers.

The Cabinet, however, considers that Italy must further extend her participation in the war. Two projects to assist Serbia have been studied. One consisted of landing troops at Durazzo, from which point they could reach Serbia across Albania. This was abandoned because the expedition would need to traverse a hundred miles over an almost impassable road.

The other project—to reach Serbia from Avlona—is considered more practicable owing to the splendid ancient Roman roads from Avlona to Lake Ochrida.

Refugees Say Germans May Force Natives to Fight Russians.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—In a dispatch from Petrograd Reuter's correspondent says:

"Polish refugees arriving here say that German officials declare that Poland will be surrounded by a triple line of trenches and barbed wire entanglements and that the Russians will be quite unable to dislodge them, for if there is a shortage of men they will arm the entire masculine population of Poland and force them to fight the Russians."

RATIFY $500,000,000 CREDIT

J. P. Morgan and Bond Salesmen Are to Meet Today to Map Out a Vigorous Selling Campaign.

PARIS, Oct 7.—Alexandre Ribot, the French Minister of Finance, introduced in the Chamber of Deputies today a bill ratifying the negotiations for the $500,000,000 Anglo-French loan in the United States. The bill consists of a single article, which reads:

> The Government is authorized to issue in the United States, conjointly and collectively with the British Government, one or several loans, of which the amount and conditions will be fixed by the Government according to the best interests of the treasury. Bonds of these loans will be exempt from all taxes, present or future.

The Chamber unanimously adopted the loan bill.

A memorandum accompanying the bill says:

> France and England having reached an agreement for issuing jointly a loan in the United States, delegates from the two countries were sent to New York to conclude the necessary arrangements. The negotiations, favored by an animated movement of public opinion, have resulted in the formation of a powerful syndicate which directs the issue of the loan.

The memorandum recites the terms previously published, concluding with the explantion of their purpose.

Authority was asked to negotiate other loans in the United States in combination with the British Government "to assure payment for our purchases and to ameliorate conditions of exchange."

After Finance Minister Ribot had read the American Loan bill to the Chamber, Albert Matin of the Appropriations Committee explained that the proceeds of the loan would be used exclusively to pay for what France was buying in the United States and to stabilize exchange. He alluded to the welcome the loan had found in America.

M. Ribot asked the Chamber as a mark of confidence to pass the bill immediately. A lively campaign had been conducted in the United States to hinder the completion of the loan, he said, but without result. He expressed the thanks of the Government to the delegates who had negotiated the agreement with American bankers, and the Chamber without further debate unanimously passed the bill.

The agreement under which a syndicate of American banks is to take the issue of $500,000,000 bonds from the Governments of Great Britain and France, will probably be signed Monday, it was said yesterday. For this country the signatures of representatives of the sixty banks and firms in New York which are taking an active part in the formation of the country-wide syndicate will be affixed. It is expected that approval of the loan by the British Parliament will have been obtained by Monday.

The first real step in the great selling campaign shortly to be inaugurated, will be taken today, when practically all of the bond salesmen employed by the New York underwriters will be assembled at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria for instruction. J. P. Morgan will preside at the meeting, at which plans will be laid for getting the bonds into the hands of investors with as little duplication of effort as possible.

THINKS CONSCRIPTION SURE

Forbes-Robertson Positive England Will Resort to the Draft.

Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, the English actor-manager, who arrived yesterday on the American liner New York from Liverpool, said he thought the war would last another two years. He also said the most painful thing to him was the lack of patriotism in England among the working classes and he recited the following case as an example of the difficulty the firms had in carrying out the Government contracts on time.

"A few weeks ago," he said, "the firm of Thornycrofts on the Thames had a contract for submarines and torpedo boat destroyers to be constructed with the utmost possible dispatch. The firm has always been noted for its kindness to employes and for paying good wages. Two weeks ago one thousand of the workmen struck and held up the construction of the boats needed for the protection of their wives and families from the enemy. They did not strike for higher wages or shorter hours, mark you, but because the Government had sent some mechanics who were not union men back from the trenches to assist in the work.

"As a nation we believed that the first line of defense was the Navy, but today the first line of defense for Great Britain is in France and England. Lord Salisbury and Lord Roberts in their day did the best they could to wake Englishmen up to realize the danger that threatened them, but it was impossible. The country was not willing to pay the insurance. If we had been able to throw 500,000 troops into Belgium or France at the beginning of the war all this terrible loss of life and property might have been prevented.

Sir Johnston said he was positive conscription would have to come and would be put in force before Nov. 1.

Cosmo Hamilton, the English author and playwright, who arrived on the New York to lecture on "Sex Hygiene for Children," said most of the members of his family were in the navy. His cousin, De Courcy Hamilton, is the head of the submarine flotilla at Devonport, England. Mr. Hamilton said that England had plenty of ammunition now, and the supply would be kept up until the war was over.

BRITISH COMMERCE JUMPS.

Imports Gained $126,430,000 and Exports $28,170,000 in September.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The Board of Trade figures for September show an increase in imports amounting to £25,286,000, ($126,430,000.) Of this amount £10,000,000 was in food, £5,000,000 in raw materials, and the remainder in manufactured articles.

Exports increased £5,634,000, of which £1,250,000 was in coal and the remainder in cotton and textiles.

COMMERCE HONORS ENVOYS OF ALLIES

Seth Low, President of Chamber, Welcomes Anglo-French Commissioners as Guests.

WAR TOPICS ARE AVOIDED

Responses by Lord Reading and Octave Homberg—Eulogy on Late S. S. Pratt by J. H. Schiff.

The large assembly hall of the Chamber of Commerce was filled to the doors yesterday noon when the six members of the Anglo-French financial mission were received as special guests at the regular monthly meeting. The attendance was so great that J. P. Morgan, who was among the later arrivals, could not find an unoccupied chair, and sat on the bottom step of the raised platform at the back of the room throughout the proceedings.

Lord Reading, Lord Chief Justice of England and Chairman of the mission, sat at the right hand of President Seth Low, and Octave Homberg, one of the French representatives, at his left. Both responded to the welcome extended by Mr. Low, Mr. Homberg replying in French. President Low said:

"By authority of the Executive Committee, the English and French Finance Commissioners have been invited to attend this meeting of the Chamber, and it gives me great pleasure to welcome them in your name. It has not been forgotten that this Chamber is made up of men whose natural sympathies differ, so that every one of the countries so unhappily engaged in war in Europe has its sympathizers in our membership. This invitation, therefore, is not to be construed as a departure from the neutrality which is becoming on the part of a body so composed.

"It is rather to be looked upon as a recognition due from the Chamber of Commerce of the very eminent character in the domain of finance of the distinguished gentlemen who are our guests, and also of the very great service which, in serving their own countries, they have rendered to ours. Every one who has had experience in international trade understands how fatal to such trade is a market for exchange which is subject to sudden and violent changes. The most normal business under such conditions becomes a species of gambling. In the abnormal conditions affecting international trade with Europe in these days we in the United States are fortunate indeed that this problem was committed to the hands of men so entirely competent as our guests."

Lord Reading in Light Vein.

Lord Reading replied with a happily phrased acknowledgment of the honor paid the mission, in which he carefully avoided any reference to the war or the work of the Commissioners. He said in part:

"Mr. Chairman, I have had conflicting emotions as I have sat here during your deliberations. May I say that I very nearly committed a natural but an unpardonable error. So accustomed am I in my own country to presiding at a desk like that, with a chair of those dimensions, that I very nearly found myself occupying it, did I not readily recognize, Sir, that you in every respect more worthily and fully fill it than I.

"Mr. Chairman, you have given me a strange pleasure and an unaccustomed luxury, perhaps one which has never fallen to the lot of any of you. We have had the advantage of sitting and listening to discussions on new taxation which were most interesting. We have had our difficulties in taxation. I have been privileged to play some small part in the past in my own country, but may I say that never have I been present at any gathering where it was made so manifest that there was to be a raid upon your pockets, when the result apparently was received with such equanimity; and, except for one protest which descended probably more from the method than the substance of the matter, you all seemed to be agreed that taxation was to come.

Commissioners Thank Americans.

"Will you let me say on behalf of my colleagues that we appreciate the honor and the privilege of the invitation which you have been good enough to give to us today very highly, and not the less so because we realize that the membership of your chamber is composed of so many diverse elements and that you must have among you differences of opinion on the great questions which must necessarily fill the minds of all. And we esteem it therefore a higher honor than usual when an assembly such as yours, composed as it, has done us the honor to invite us to be present here today. We should ill requite your great reception of us if we attempted to say one word which could even ruffle the feelings of any one here present.

"You have indicated, Mr. Chairman, the lines upon which anything that is to be said must be limited, but will you permit me to say that we fully appreciate, and that even without the ruling from the chair—which we are accustomed in England to treat as absolutely sacred—that we should have enforced during our stay here the same rules to guide us throughout all the public duties which we have had to perform.

"During our stay here we have, of course, been well aware of the growth, the extension, the extraordinary development of your own country. We view it with satisfaction, and, if I may say so, also with pleasure. We recognize that you, after all, in your prosperity, in your strength, in your greater development, are actuated by the desire to benefit humanity and the world at large, and for that reason we wish you and those who are assembled here all the further prosperity and all continued success to the Chamber of Commerce."

At the usual luncheon following the meeting a special table was reserved for officers of the chamber and the guests. Those seated at the table were Seth Low, Lord Reading, Jacob H. Schiff, Sir Edward H. Holden, E. H. Outerbridge, Basil B. Blackett, Martin Vogel, J. G. Cannon, Welding Ring, I. N. Seligman, W. H. Porter, W. C. Skinner, George T. Wilson, J. P. Morgan, E. W. Fairchild, Ernest Mallet, J. R. Waterbury, Sir Henry B. Smith, Octave Homberg, and H. L. Satterlee.

Eulogy by Jacob H. Schiff.

Most of the time of the regular business meeting was devoted to the adoption of resolutions on the death of Sereno S. Pratt, late Secretary of the chamber, and to eulogies by President Low, E. H. Outerbridge, J. G. Cannon, Jacob H. Schiff, and George A. Post. Mr. Schiff said:

"The opportunity you give me to express the esteem I have held for the late Mr. Pratt is a great privilege even if a sad one. Sereno S. Pratt as Secretary of this chamber was not an employe in the strict sense of the word. It is but a short number of years since he was appointed Executive Secretary, but in the short space of time which he had been with us he not only gained the respect of the entire membership, but he understood and was thoroughly imbued with the spirit of the work of his important office. Executive officers and committees ever relied upon him for the thorough preparatory work he knew so well how to do and which made it possible at our monthly public meetings to solve the often intricate problems so frequently confronting us promptly, concisely, and effectually. But what endeared Mr. Pratt to us all more than anything else was his rare tact, his great modesty, his never-to-be ruffled patience and geniality, which were characteristic of his intercourse with all of us who were thrown into contact with him. Because of this his spirit is certain to live in our hearts. But to some of us, and I believe to many of us, his early unexpected demise comes with a sense of personal loss, and we shall cherish his memory as we pray that he may sleep in peace."

Welding Ring spoke in favor of affirmative action on the referendum calling for the appropriation of money to finish the barge canal, and the chamber voted $2,000 to be spent on an educational campaign.

CRITICISES MR MORGENTHAU

London Times Correspondent Says He Wasted Energy on Zionists.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 8.—The Times published a long account, from a correspondent, of the Armenian massacres in which he says:

"Attempts of the American Ambassador to procure some alleviation of the lot of the Armenians have thus far proved unsuccessful. Mr. Morgenthau, in the opinion of good observers, has wasted too much diplomatic energy on behalf of the Zionists of Palestine, who were in no danger of massacre, to have any force to spare.

Talaat and Bedri simply own that persecuting Armenians amuses them and turn a deaf ear to American pleadings.

"German and Austro-Hungarian residents in Turkey at first approved of the punishment of Armenian 'traitors,' but the methods of the Turkish extremists have sickened even Prussian stomachs. True the Jewish Baron von Oppenheim, now in Syria, has been preaching massacre, and German Consular officials at Aleppo and Alexandretta have followed suit perhaps with the idea of planting German colonists in the void left by the disappearance of the Armenians when the war is over.

"But the German Government has grown nervous. On Aug. 31 the German and Austro-Hungarian Ambassadors protested to the Grand Vizier against the massacre of Armenians and demanded a written communication to the effect that neither of their Governments had any connection with these crimes. Turkey has not so far given her Allies a certificate of unblemished character and the bestowal of the order Pour le Merite on Enver Pasha by the Kaiser is not likely to give the impression that Germany is in earnest."

The correspondent also says:

"The sale by Bedriss police of Armenian children of both sexes to the keepers of disorderly houses and Turks of bad moral character has provoked protests in Constantinople.

"The object of the conversion of children reported from some districts and the very general sale of women and girls appear to be political. Foreigners believe Talaat has countenanced these crimes with the object of breaking up the strong social structure of the Armenian community in Turkey."

WAR ON THE HYPHEN IS POPULAR AT ONCE

Appeal for Undivided Allegiance to America Meets Instant Response.

LUSTGARTEN GETS LETTERS

Writers of Foreign Extraction Assure Support of Movement Against Dual Citizenship.

The war on the hyphen that was started a few days ago by William Lustgarten, a New York lawyer, and several other American citizens of foreign birth or extraction, who declared that they felt they owed allegiance only to the United States, has already met with popular approval among a great number of foreign-born citizens and particularly among persons of German extraction.

The appeal, with twenty-five signers, most of them born in Germany or Ireland, was published on Wednesday morning, and called on Americans of foreign birth or extraction who were loyal to the United States and had no sympathy for the element that had "bowed to the monstrous idea of dual citizenship and lent themselves to the manipulations of foreign interests" to send in their names, declaring their allegiance to this country. This, it was explained, was done to offset the reflection cast upon all persons of foreign extraction by propagandists and hyphenated foreigners in America.

A stream of letters commenced pouring into Mr. Lustgarten's office at 68 William Street yesterday morning, scarcely twenty-four hours after the appeal had been published. Several hundred were received during the day. Without a single exception, he said, the letters gave approval to the plan and most of them expressed disgust for the element that admitted by publicly expressed opinions that it had not dropped the hyphen. Many telephone calls were also received during the day from New York and nearby points in New Jersey.

Letters Come From Teutons.

From the fact that many of the letters and telephone calls were from persons of German or Austrian origin, Mr. Lustgarten was convinced that the opinion he had previously expressed to the effect that those who had made themselves heard the most in recent months were the least representative of the great mass of their fellows in this country, was a correct one. Here are two letters which show the attitude of those who are supporting Mr. Lustgarten's campaign:

> Nelson, Lee & Green, Inc., Real Estate, 47 West Thirty-fourth Street.
> Oct. 6, 1915.
>
> My Dear Mr. Lustgarten—
>
> You voice my sentiments from the bottom of my heart and I am thankful that some representative man has taken up the cudgel against these traitors in disguise. I was born in Wurttemberg, Germany, which is not Prussia My parents emigrated to the United States when I was 5 years old. Cordially yours,
>
> WILLIAM M. NEWMAN.

> Lustre Fibres, Limited,
> 445 Broome Street.
>
> Dear Sir: This morning's TIMES presented to me something for which no doubt a great many Americans loyal to the flag, although of foreign birth, have been looking for for a great many months past.
>
> I am heartily in accord with your sentiments so ably expressed, and take this means of assuring you of my active support to the end that a loyal American foreign born society or association be formed whose main object will be to separate those of us who have discarded the despised hyphen from those who still insist on dual or divided loyalty.
>
> I am a service member of the American Legion, and a resident of Corona, L. I. Please let me hear from you with reference to the scope of the proposed organization. Yours very truly, Movement Bound to Spread.

There had not been time up to yesterday for news of the appeal to foreign-born to reach distant cities and for letters from persons in accord with the plan in these cities to write to Mr. Lustgarten, but he expressed the hope that the movement soon would become nation-wide. Confidence that it would do so was expressed in several of the letters. Correspondents of out-of-town newspapers called up during the day to make inquiries about the appeal and whatever plans had been formulated for a permanent organization, Mr. Lustgarten said. He said no definite plans for an organization had yet been made. He thought the right occasion to do this would be at a meeting of unhyphenated Americans. Such a meeting probably will be called in this city in the near future, and it is expected that similar meetings will later be held in other cities.

One of the writers who hoped to see the movement "sweep the country" was C. H. M. Rose of 334 Fourth Avenue. He wrote:

"I read in THE TIMES this morning the appeal to 'American Citizens of Foreign Birth.' It was time that some protest was made against the shocking attitude of the 'hyphenated,' and I cannot believe that a majority of those of German descent really approve of the pro-German propaganda that has been so scandalously forced in this country. My ancestors were Danes, with a few Germans among them from the lost provinces of Schleswig-Holstein. I was born in Denmark, but I am wholeheartedly American and would resent being called anything else.

One letter was received from the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia, written by Richard Bondy of Gloversville, N. Y. The appeal signed by Mr. Lustgarten and others, he said, "struck home." Mr. Bondy wrote that he was born in Austria and had been a citizen of this country for a number of years. He expressed his views of "a certain class of German-Americans" as follows:

"They come here to escape conscription, change their names from Schmidt to Smith, Bauer to Bower, or Mueller to Miller; they can speak neither German nor English correctly; they are neither Germans nor Americans; they would not return to Germany if they could—they are traitors to their country of origin and to that of their adoption. All success to you."

Charles Bizzozer of 28 West 123d Street wrote:

"I sincerely congratulate you for your letter in THE TIMES of today. Truly a good idea, as I believe most of the foreign born will be glad of a chance to prove they are not to be mistaken for the 'hyphenated, royal-minded dupes' subsidized by foreign governments."

American Born Approval.

Letters were received not only from the persons to whom the appeal was addressed, however, but from others who wanted to congratulate the original signers on having taken a step in the opposite direction from the hyphenated variety of Americans. A representative letter of this class was from C. Augustus Haviland, a lawyer of this city, who said:

"It is a great pleasure to note that some of our German citizens are moving to force their fellows to show their colors and say whether they are to be loyal or disloyal to the country of their adoption. A very few of German extraction are casting reflection upon their loyal brothers by their infamous course. You are doing our country a great service."

WASHINGTON WATCHING NEW STEEL COMBINES

Attorney General Promises Close Scrutiny of Any Move to Reduce Competition.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Attorney General Gregory said today that any attempt to bring about a combination of independent steel companies would be subjected to close scrutiny by the Department of Justice. His statement had reference to reports that the Midvale Steel & Ordnance Company and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation probably would become the centres of two great organizations of companies outside of the Steel Corporation. In a formal review of the position of the Department of Justice, Mr. Gregory said:

"It cannot be questioned that if it was lawful to unite through the United States Steel Corporation one-half of the competitive units in the steel trade the other half would also have the right to combine, and, of course, what could be done in the steel trade could be done in every other branch of trade, thus virtually putting an end to competition.

"But the decision of the Circuit Judges of the Third Circuit in the Steel case is not yet the established law. It is because of just such consequences that the Government is appealing from that decision. Besides, in the Harvester case, a court of equal rank took a very different view of the law.

"The question is now pending before the Supreme Court. In the meantime attempts to combine able and efficient competitors, affecting trade over a wide area, will be subjected to the closest scrutiny by the Department of Justice."

While Directors of the Midvale Company declined to comment on Attorney General Gregory's statement, it was learned that there is no fear that plans being worked out would come into conflict with the Sherman law. The three companies so far joined in the Midvale organization did not compete with one another in any line. The old Midvale Company made a specialty of heavy ordnance and armor plate, the Remington Arms Company made rifles, and the Worth Brothers Company is expected to direct most of its facilities to the manufacture of pig iron.

Charles M. Schwab was absent from his office all day and assistants said that nothing further had been done in regard to purchasing the Pennsylvania Railroad's controlling interest in the Pennsylvania Steel Company. Directors of the Midvale Company held a meeting which was said to have been devoted entirely to organization matters.

FAMOUS REMBRANDT SOLD

Price Paid to Lord Spencer Said to Approximate $175,000.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 8.—The Times understands that Lord Spencer has just sold out of his famous collection at Althorp for a price which cannot be ascertained with certainty, but may approximate £35,000, ($175,000,) his "Portrait of a Boy," by Rembrandt.

The Times says it is probably the earliest portrait of Rembrandt's son Titus extant.

SAY CENSORS HURT ENGLAND'S CAUSE

London Papers' Indignation Increases—Declare the People Are Deluded.

NEWS KEPT FROM AMERICA

Thousands of Words from Sofia and German Lines Withheld Yesterday, Says Associated Press.

LONDON, Friday, Oct. 8.—The Daily Mail asserts that German and Italian newspapers give the name of the British officer in charge of the Anglo-French force landing at Saloniki, although the censor prevents the British public from knowing it. The Mail cites several other instances of this nature which it terms "absurdities" of the censorship, and adds:

"We can state in a very few words the opinion to which we have been forced by fifteen months of experience with the censorship. Nothing has been done more to lower our reputation abroad for honesty and good sense, and nothing has been done more to delude our people at home, to hide from them the realities of the war and dull the edge of their interest in its progress."

"The time has come," says The Morning Post in an editorial article today, "for the Government to deal fairly with the country—to tell the people the truth, to record misfortunes as freely as successes, to suppress only such information as may help the enemy. If the Government persists in its policy of sugared secrecy the consequences may be serious.

"After fourteen months of war so much has become known which has been concealed by the authorities that the people have become impatient."

Asserting that probably no journal has supported the censorship with more loyal patience, The Pall Mall Gazette devotes its leading article to a vigorous denunciation of the manner in which the censorship has been applied.

"Evidence of abuse in the exercise of power by that department have become too glaring to be ignored," says The Gazette. "The legitimate function of the censorship is to blind England's enemies, not England herself. When it withholds from Englishmen what the enemy already knows, or when it suppresses unpleasant news for the sake of preserving an atmosphere of false optimism, it is perpetrating a combination of insult and injury which the country has every right to resent.

"The treatment of the news of Premier Venizelos's resignation seems a clear instance of the reluctance to let unpleasant facts reach the public ear. The intelligence was sent from Athens in plenty of time to be published yesterday morning, when it appeared in French journals. Yet the people of this country were deprived for many hours of news which was fully at the disposal of both their allies and their enemies.

"When a quotation from Kipling is mutilated in a dispatch through being mistaken for an item of news it is a sufficiently humiliating exhibition of ignorance in public office, but that is overshadowed by indications of a positive breach of trust in the relations between the censorship and the public."

The Tribuna of Rome said on Oct. 3 that General Sir Ian Hamilton, British commander at the Dardanelles, had been at Saloniki to inspect arrangements for the landing of the Allied troops.

The London office of The Associated Press sent cable advices yesterday that thousands of words of dispatches from its correspondents in Sofia and from the German lines on the western battle front were being withheld by the British censors.

TO STOP ALL DRINKING IN NATIONAL GUARD

Gen. O'Ryan Posts General Order Urging Abstinence for Health and Discipline.

Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan, commanding the National Guard, has issued an order urging abstinence from liquor, to be posted on the bulletin boards of all armories for ninety days. While a few officers criticise the order, officers generally declare themselves in favor of it.

General O'Ryan first points out the beneficial results of prohibition at the School of Application for officers at Peekskill in 1913, and also during the field exercises at Fishkill Plains last Summer, where 5,000 officers and men were on duty. The General then goes on to say:

> The decision to prohibit the use of liquor, made, in the first instance, at the Infantry School of Application in 1913, was not based on a fear that there might be excesses, nor was the action intended as a movement in support of the moral aspect of the non-use of liquor. But it was known that the course of instruction was such that the student officers would require the application of their physical and mental powers unimpaired by distracting conviviality, late hours, digestive disorders, and superstimulation.
>
> In addition to the educational and disciplinary advantages accruing from the non-use of liquor, there results a benefit to the individual which is now authoritatively recognized, and concerning which officers of the line charged with the physical welfare of the men intrusted to them should have accurate knowledge.

General O'Ryan then quotes extracts from recent bulletins of the Department of Health concerning the evil effect of liquor on the individual using it.

Concluding his remarks on prohibition, General O'Ryan says:

> The State military service now exacts from its soldiers a high standard of discipline and a vast amount of arduous training. No greater opportunity in this regard exists than for officers, by precept and example, to inculcate in the minds of their men an intelligent knowledge of the subject of this bulletin, looking to their own self-interest and to spread among them a high conception of the underlying principle of military service—self-denial.

"I most heartily indorse the views of General O'Ryan," said Colonel Daniel Appleton of the Seventh Regiment yesterday. "I might also add that the Seventh has been living up to these views as long as I can remember."

SAN FRANCISCO SHAKEN.

Well-Defined Earthquake Shock Felt in the Coast City.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—Well-defined earthquake shocks were felt here at 9:26 o'clock tonight.

There were two distinct tremors, both sharp enough to sway buildings slightly and rattle doors and windows. At 9:35 another disturbance, much milder, was experienced.

Four shocks were felt in Berkley, across the bay from San Francisco, the first registering on the seismograph at the University of California an intensity of "6." The earthquake of 1906 was classed as an "8."

Considerable excitement was caused by the earthquakes, especially to strangers in the city, but alarm quickly subsided. So far as could be learned no damage was done.

No reports were received from other parts of the State, and this led to the belief that the disturbance was not as general as the series of earthquakes experienced Saturday throughout the Pacific Coast, and as far East as Utah.

Ridder for a German Bank.

Herman Ridder printed a signed appeal in yesterday's issue of the Staats-Zeitung to German-Americans to unite in the formation of a great "public service" bank. There is no reason, says Mr. Ridder, why $100,000,000 of deposits should not be gathered together for the undertaking, and the stock of the institution offered for popular subscription.

Calder, Brooklyn; George H. Cobb, Watertown; James R. Day, Alan C. Fobes, Edward Schoeneck, Horace White, and Horace S. Wilkinson, Syracuse; Hiram H. Edgerton and David Jayne Hill, Rochester; Louis P. Fuhrmann and Ansley Wilcox, Buffalo; ex-Governor Odell, Newburg; Thomas R. Proctor, Utica, and Jacob Gould Schurman, Ithaca.

CLAIMS FATHERSHIP OF ADVISORY BOARD

L. W. Luellen Urged President to Call Inventors to Help in the Nation's Defense.

Lawrence W. Luellen, manufacturer and inventor of 220 West Nineteenth Street, said yesterday, after reading the address, by Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels to the members of the Civilian Advisory Board of the Navy, that he had written to President Wilson more than fourteen months ago suggesting that a committee of about 100 of the best-known scientists and inventors be brought together to study the needs of this country in time of war.

Secretary Daniels said the idea was born in his mind when he read an interview with Thomas A. Edison in THE TIMES on May 30. The claim by Mr. Luellen is that he not only called the matter to the attention of the President, but that he suggested a much more comprehensive scheme than that which was adopted, and one, he feels, which would be a greater benefit to the country.

Mr. Luellen thinks that the duties of the present board, as he interprets them by reading Mr. Daniels's speech, are scarcely creative in the sense he believes they should be. His plan would be to obtain the co-operation of all inventors who might have a valuable suggestion. He would have the Government arrange that these inventors should have the opportunity of developing their ideas in the great manufacturing plants of the country. In this way, he said, some great invention which would otherwise be lost might be brought to the attention of the country.

Luellen Plan as Submitted.

In his letter to the President, under date of Aug. 5, 1914, Mr. Luellen wrote in part:

> At this time, when Governments are active, and the most powerful fighting machines that man has thus far been able to devise are being used in offense and defense, it occurs to me that the United States Government should not only have its army and navy engineers, inventors, and officers on the alert, making observations, passing judgments, and making plans in her interest, but she should also have the best creative minds in the country secretly concentrated on the problem which now confronts humanity.
>
> Who can say that there will not be new developments in means of protection and warfare in the near future? Means of destroying great armaments are easily within the realm of possibility without the human sacrifice necessary for their destruction today.
>
> While the air seems to be filled with all kinds of thoughts and suggestions, I believe the creative minds are best able to devise means of preventing wars, or plan and produce apparatus for defense that will add protection to the people of the United States and to the peace of the whole world.
>
> I believe you will see the wisdom of having the creative mind busy while armaments, devices, plans, mechanisms, explosives, and ideas are being used and destroyed, all of which were planned and developed by creative minds.
>
> It seems to me there should be at least 100 inventors picked from among those who have attained commercial success and directed by the United States Government to lay aside their present work and concentrate their minds in the interest of the Government. They should observe and study, first, the cause of war; second, devise means of preventing war, and, third, produce means of defense and protection, making a full detailed and secret report of their labors.
>
> Who knows but that we may find among them a modern Archimedes, who would render helpless these great armaments and armies and insure peace to humanity?
>
> If such a plan were put into effect, the United States Government might immediately advance many years toward universal peace, and the least that could come from such a plan would be that our best minds would be set working upon this great problem, which would redound to the benefit and honor of the people of the United States in future years.

Filed in War Department.

Mr. Luellen showed a copy of this letter, which he got in reply:

> August 14, 1914.
>
> Mr. Lawrence W. Luellen,
> 220-228 West 19th Street,
> New York City.
>
> Sir—I am directed by the Secretary of War to acknowledge receipt, by reference from the White House, of your letter of Aug. 5, 1914, addressed to the President, suggesting the formation of a committee of inventors to study the causes of war and devise means for its prevention, and to inform you that same has been placed on file. Very respectfully,
>
> H. O. S. HEISTAND,
> Adjutant General.

Mr. Luellen said it was not beyond the range of possibility that by the comprehensible scheme he suggested some invention might be perfected which would put an end to war.

SEEKS AID OF 100 MAYORS.

National Security League Asks Them to Name Committees.

Telegrams were sent yesterday by the National Security League to the Mayors of 100 cities requesting each to appoint a citizen's committee to co-operate in the work of preparing for the national defense. In fifty other cities, where the league has branches, the officers of the latter will be instructed to place a similar request before the Mayors. The message to the Mayors read:

> Following suggestion National Security League, Mayor Mitchel will appoint Citizens' Committee to urge preparedness. Will you do likewise? Although league's campaign indicates strong support for preparedness measures, entire country must now unite in demand for proper defense, so Congress will realize preparedness is its first and most important duty.
>
> S. STANWOOD MENKEN, President.

The National Board of Trustees of the American Defense Society decided yesterday to appeal to the public to unite in calling the attention of Congress to the public desire for an adequate preparedness by observing Dec. 6, the date of the opening of Congress, as "American Defense Day." It is suggested that on that day mass meetings and other public demonstrations be held and that letters be sent to the press and members of Congress.

EVERYBODY HAPPY ON RILEY'S BIRTHDAY

It Begins with a Serenade in Little Old Lockerbie St. and Winds Up with a Banquet.

GETS FROSTY 'PUNKIN' CAKE

And Letters, Telegrams, and Poems from Friends, Big and Little, All Over the World.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 7.—James Whitcomb Riley, celebrating his sixty-second birthday, received probably the greatest ovation ever accorded any man of letters in modern times in a series of all-day festivities in this city today. The culmination was a banquet held at the Claypool Hotel tonight, at which were gathered many of the foremost literary notables of the United States. They were here to do the great Hoosier poet homage and represented all sections of America.

Mr. Riley, in the best of spirits, but still suffering from paralysis on his right side, which has stilled his pen forever, was frequently brought to tears by the heartfelt messages of good cheer that came to him from all parts of the world. President Wilson was among those who sent a message and Mr. Riley referred to it in his speech at the banquet.

Ex-Vice President Fairbanks was toastmaster at the banquet, and the toasts and speakers were: Governor Samuel M. Ralston, "The State of Indiana"; Senator John W. Kern, "Riley in the Making"; Dr. John H. Finley, "From Cadmus to Riley"; Young E. Allison, "Our Southern Cousins"; Albert J. Beveridge, "Friendship"; William Allen White, "The Day We Celebrate," and George Ade, "The Centre Table." Colonel George Harvey and Lorado Taft, the sculptor, spoke extemporaneously.

Mr. Riley was almost overcome by emotion when he got up to speak, but as he looked about over the assemblage and waited for the applause to subside the familiar smile broadened on his face and he began:

"Everywhere the faces of friends, kindly, generous faces, some marked with serious thought and retrospection, some simply glad in the spirit of the moment, but all, all the faces of friends, friends proudly to be owned because they are old friends, or friends newly discovered, or Hoosier friends—at home, or from abroad—friends with kindly hearts, friends eminent in the nation's love, friends no less dear because their worth is more humbly known; a beautiful throng of friends, among which are to be missed only the faces of the women and the children. And yet, like them, friends greatly to be cherished—warm, tender, brave, and strong—and all smiling like very boyhood restored to us, gently smiling, thoughtfully smiling, smiling wistfully, twinklingly, tenderly—a host of friendly faces, uplifted and continuous as the stars in truth, like Wordsworth's 10,000 daffodils, until even a pseudo poet

Could not but be gay
In such a jocund company!

"But to one who has been blessed with length of years and a somewhat vivid memory the brilliant gathering here tonight can but recall numberless other like scenes in which have been brought into prominence many of those dear old friends who have, alas! passed on. And yet, as memory insistently recalls them, the radiant faces about the board tonight grow still more radiant and exalted with the faces that long since have faded from our real vision."

Mr. Riley then mentioned similar scenes in which Thomas A. Hendricks, Benjamin Harrison, William Pinkney Fishback, John L. Griffiths, Walter Q. Gresham, and a number of others figured.

"And there is gladness all along the line," he continued, "from the first immortal entrance of jovial character to the very present company tonight—the faces all filled with the like pleasure and happiness. And to this presence here I make my glad obeisance, and my thanks as well to those friends in alien quarters who have so kindly sent their words of cheer and godspeed. While the distinguished guests who have spoken in tribute here may be sure of my most feeling gratitude.

"And may I express particular appreciation for the words of the President of our beloved country, who has found opportunity in the stress and worry of these imperiled times to remember and to honor us with his participancy in the spirit of the hour. And no less are we all grateful for the message of Mr. Howells, our master of letters—the master worthy as beloved, and beloved as worthy.

"To him, to these, to all of you, and every one, I thank you, and, in the words of little Tim Cratchit, 'God bless us, every one!'"

Dr. John H. Finley, Commissioner of Education of the State of New York, read a poem entitled, "From Cadmus to Riley," which ended thus:

As I sit his verses reading,
  While his bees hum all the day,
(With Queen "Armazindy" leading,
  Who must always have her way,)
All the evil man's invented
  With his letters I forget—
Riley makes me quite contented
  With my age-old alphabet.

Riley's verse, would I could praise it
  In the language of Beaucaire,
I let Dante's master phrase it:
  "It is honey born in air."

As the the magic of "The Raggedy Man" had played a mystic part in its creation, the birthday of the poet jumped out of the dawn and carried after it a trail of October sunshine that made all Indianapolis happy. The poet himself got up smiling and was greeted by a perfect flood of congratulatory telegrams, letters, and gifts.

There was a big round birthday cake, shaped and colored like a pumpkin. Crowning it was a layer of frost, the whole typifying Riley's "Th' Frost Is on th' Punkin," and the card with it bore the sentiment that the baker of the cake wished only to be known as "Old Aunt Mary."

Another gift was a silver horseshoe from C. M. Wilson, a Richmond blacksmith. The inscription was:

Hang your neckties in this shoe,
It's hand-made and made for you.

Another blacksmith, Ed Patterson of Louisville, known as Pat, the Blacksmith, sent the poet a tiny hammer, declaring it was "big enough for all the knocking you will ever want to do."

It was in the receipt of all these happy greetings that the poet's birthday began. Letters, letters, letters, came from children the country over. "Poems to Riley" were as numerous as the sunbeams that played on the poet's cheek when two motion picture men called him to his Lockerbie Street doorstep this morning.

"We're Hoosiers and want your picture," one of them said.

"All right," Mr. Riley said with a laugh and out to the doorstep he went.

And Indianapolis was ready to receive the poet's friends. In thousands of places "Old Glory," the poet's favorite piece of fabric, danced on the October breeze. Here and there in downtown show windows his picture was displayed.

In the city schools the children celebrated Riley Day with fine affection. They recited Riley poems and sang them to music written by Fritz Krull and Barclay Walker, Hoosiers who have given the touch of melody to Riley's beautiful rhymes. The schools throughout Indiana joined in the observance of the day.

This afternoon Mr. Riley attended the presentation of "An Afternoon with Riley," a musical and dancing spectacle produced under the direction of Ona B. Talbot. The poet occupied a box. With him were seven friends—William Allen White of Kansas, Dr. John H. Finley of New York, Ellery Sedgwick of Boston, Frederick W. Stevens of New York, Meredith Nicholson, Hewitt Howland, and Edmund Eitel of Indianapolis.

The poet's birthday had a sentimental beginning. At 12:01 o'clock this morning the brass quartet of the Indianapolis Orchestra and about forty members of the Musikverein of the German House entered little Lockerbie Street and serenaded him. A large basket of flowers, beautifully embellished with ribbons of white and red, was placed on the poet's doorstep.

The darkened house took on a faint glow of light and the serenaders knew that their mission of song was not in vain. The Musikverein, scanning their music by candle glow, and with Alexander Ernestinoff directing, sang two German folk songs, "Heart's Desire" and "The Chosen One." The brass quartet concluded the serenade with "Good Night," an old lullaby.

A message from within the house brought H. P. Lieber of the Musikverein to the door. He was told that Mr. Riley was awake and had enjoyed the serenade. Mr. Riley, catching the old-fashioned spirit of the occasion, sent word to the singers that he "would send out the cigars," but his callers returned the word that they would smoke with him another time, and, wishing him a happy night of rest, left Lockerbie Street as silently as they had come.

That the poet's birthday has more than national significance was realized with the announcement tonight that congratulation cablegrams had been received from Ambassador Page in London; Brand Whitlock, Minister to Belgium, and Henry van Dyke, Minister to The Netherlands.

On tables were huge piles of telegrams and letters—literally hundreds of them—from friends and admirers from every part of the United States, all congratulating the poet.

PLAN RECOGNITION FOR CARRANZA SOON

Saturday's Conference of Envoys Expected to Indorse First Chief's Claims.

SILLIMAN SUPPORTS HIM

Tells Secretary Lansing Stronger Faction Will Be Able to Restore Order and Form a Government.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—It is understood that at Saturday's meeting of the Pan-American conference on Mexican affairs steps will be taken for the recognition of the Carranza faction in Mexico as being a de facto Government strong enough to receive the moral support of the United States and other nations. Secretary Lansing is making no announcement of the probable action of the Pan-American conferees on Saturday, but it is understood to be the present purpose of a majority of the members of the conference to vote in favor of the recognition of the Carranza Government.

John R. Silliman, who for some months has been the State Department's special agent at Vera Cruz, arrived in Washington today from that place and had a conference with Secretary Lansing regarding the Mexican situation, during which he presented data regarding the Carranza faction. Mr. Silliman strongly urged the recognition of the Carranza Government. Secretary Lansing conferred with Romulo S. Naon, the Ambassador from Argentina, regarding the Mexican situation, and also with President Wilson. From the State Department Mr. Silliman went to the White House and arranged to see President Wilson later in the week.

Mr. Silliman, it is understood, came here at his own suggestion to report on the situation at Vera Cruz. After his talk with Secretary Lansing, Mr. Silliman was instructed to remain in Washington pending further orders from the State Department. While Mr. Lansing had no announcement to make after the conferences with Ambassador Naon and Mr. Silliman, the Secretary of State, said that Saturday's conference would be held as planned and that it would then be decided whether further meetings would be necessary.

It is understood that Mr. Silliman gave a favorable report of the Carranza cause in his conference with Mr. Lansing, asserting that Carranza's organization was rapidly extending its influence over Mexico and was able, in the opinion of Mr. Silliman, to restore order and establish a stable Government. He said that the Carranzista movement was unified and developing strength, and he expressed the opinion that Carranza's Generals were sincere in their expressions of allegiance to him.

Mr. Silliman thought that the greatest difficulty in the situation now was to be found in the raids by Zapastistas on railroads between Vera Cruz and Mexico City, and while this was a difficult problem to solve, Mr. Silliman believed that Carranza would be able to crush the Zapatistas. Carranza's plans, as explained by Mr. Silliman, were to conform to the so-called Plan of Gaudaloupe, adopted at the outset of the revolution against Huerta, under which Carranza would hold the executive power until the election of a President in Mexico.

The State Department received a report today from Vera Cruz stating that many passengers on a train between Vera Cruz and Mexico City were killed in a train wreck near Maltrata, southeast of Pueblo, several days ago. According to the report, the train was dynamited by bandits, or Zaptatistas and fifty persons were killed and sixty wounded. There were no foreigners injured so far as known.

VILLISTAS ENTER SONORA.

Advance Guard Reports Defeat of Carranza Force.

EL PASO, Oct. 7.—The advance guard of Villa's western army, under Colonel Pablo Lopez, met and defeated a Carranza force on Sunday night at Bavispe Pass, Western Sonora, according to a message received today by Colonel Hipolito Villa, Financial Agent of the Villa Government at Juarez. The details of the battle, which lasted a day, were not given.

Official reports at Juarez today say that General Rosalio Hernandez, who was reported to have revolted from Villa, was shot by his own men when they learned of his intended defection.

NEW FRYE NOTE READY.

Safety of American Passengers and Crews Must Be Guaranteed.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Secretary Lansing has completed and will forward to Berlin this week another note to Germany regarding the settlement of the case of the American ship William P. Frye, which was sunk by the Prinz Eitel Freidrich.

The note acknowledges Germany's acceptance of the American proposal that the Treaty of 1828 be submitted to arbitration for an interpretation on whether or not it permits the destruction of American vessels carrying contraband, and also agrees to the proposal for the naming of the commission of two experts to fix the damages in the case.

It is understood, however, that the American Government while taking into account Germany's assurances that ships carrying conditional contraband will not be destroyed in any circumstances, asks also for assurances that if it is found necessary to destroy American ships carrying absolute contraband, there shall be ample warning given and passengers and crew removed to a place of safety. It is considered likely that the correspondence will open up in this connection a new point as to whether the transfer of passengers and crew of an American vessel to small boats in the open sea constitutes "a place of safety," within the meaning of international law. In the case of the Frye, the commander of the Eitel Freidrich took the passengers aboard his own vessel and did not thereafter engage in any operations which might have endangered the lives of Americans aboard.

When the American ship Leelanaw was sunk by a German submarine, because she carried a cargo of absolute contraband, the crew was taken aboard the submarine itself and reported having been well treated.

SMILEY'S SON TO BELLEVUE.

Mental Strain Blamed for His Starting Fire in Home.

Harold Wesley Smiley, 21 years old, son of Randolph M. Smiley, President of the European Light Company of 100 Chambers Street, and living at 223 West 131st Street, was arraigned in Harlem Court before Magistrate Cornell yesterday on a charge of arson and committed to Bellevue Hospital for observation.

Young Smiley, who is said to have been studying beyond his strength, was arrested at the Smiley home yesterday morning after two fires had been discovered there. Harold admitted, according to Policemen Willis and Tulley, having started the fires.

GOETHALS TO STOP ALL CANAL SLIDES

Won't Reopen Panama Route Until Convinced That Channel Is a Permanent One.

BLOWING UP THE HILLTOPS

Dredging Engineers Bringing Into the Channel Loose Dirt, Which Is the Source of the Slides.

PANAMA, Oct. 7.—The Panama Canal will remain closed until all danger of serious slides in the Gaillard Cut is passed. Major General Goethals, Governor of the Canal Zone, today issued orders to the dredging engineers to blast away the tops of the hills in order to bring into the channel all loose dirt and thus permanently remove the source of the slides. General Goethals was unable to say when the canal would again be in condition for the passage of ships, but said he would leave Nov. 1, the date to which the canal has been officially closed, unchanged.

General Goethals, however, expressed the personal opinion that the canal would be closed much beyond that date. No effort would be made to maintain a temporary channel for the use of a few ships. When the canal was reopened, the Governor said, it would be with a permanent channel through the cut, even if this work should take the remainder of the year. The work will be done by the dredging fleet. Steam shovel operations will not be resumed.

General Goethals made an exhaustive study of the situation this morning, being accompanied to the slide by Lieut. Col. Chester Harding, Engineer of Maintenance, and Dredging Engineers Comber and McFarland.

Of the ninety-five ships here many are departing for their destinations by way of Cape Horn, while others are transshipping their cargoes across the isthmus by rail. The steamer Finland, which is at Colon, and the Kroonland, which is due to arrive here tomorrow from San Francisco, will exchange their passengers and cargoes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Officials of the War Department, while not alarmed over the slides in the Panama Canal, are taking a most serious view of the situation. Since Sept. 20 there has been a series of slides in the Gold Hill section of the Gaillard Cut. The action of General Goethals in announcing the withdrawal of his resignation as Governor as soon as he returned to the Canal Zone yesterday is pointed to by officials here as an indication of the seriousness of the problem confronting the army's engineers at Panama.

The losses in commercial and shipping circles will be heavy by reason of the interruption of traffic. Aside from the commercial there is the military aspect of the canal. The present series of slides has determined the extreme importance of keeping the canal open at all times, not only to commerce but to the American fleet.

General Goethals will endeavor to clear up the slides question by the time Congress meets in December. Should the canal then be still obstructed, General Goethals will be asked to appear before the House Appropriations Committee, and Congress would be asked for a special appropriation to facilitate the solution of the slides problem. Secretary Garrison is keenly interested in the matter, and will keep in close touch with General Goethals.

SUFFRAGISTS CLAIM NEW JERSEY BY 25,000

Women Confident Wilson's Support Has Removed All Doubt of Success.

HE HAS MADE HISTORY

Mrs. Colby Tells Him He Will Take His Place by the Side of Abraham Lincoln.

"We will carry New Jersey by at least 25,000 majority and this State will have the proud distinction of leading all the Eastern States in its justice to women," said Mrs. E. F. Feickert, President of the New Jersey State Woman Suffrage Association, yesterday in discussing the influence of Woodrow Wilson's support upon the fortunes of the suffragists on Election Day.

The State Association has an enrolled membership of 100,000 in its 150 branches.

"President Wilson's support," she continued, "will certainly mean a suffrage victory in New Jersey and we are rejoicing that he has made his announcement at this time. With such a man as our President this decision can only be the result of earnest conviction. His policy in all public affairs, indicating as it does a careful and thoughtful study of questions before announcing a decision, makes us feel that he has given this intelligent consideration.

Mrs. Otto Wittpenn, a friend of President Wilson, and who was formerly Caroline B. Stevens, whose family founded the famous Stevens Technical Institute at Hoboken, says:

"I rejoice in the President's declaration not only for its value to suffrage, but as one more proof of his unwavering belief in trusting the destinies of the nation to the people themselves, men and women alike."

Mrs. Wittpenn is a county probation officer of Hudson County, of which her brother, Richard Stevens, is chief probation officer. She is also President of the New Jersey State Board of Children's Guardians, and of the Wanaqua Women's Reformatory.

Mrs. Minnie J. Reynolds, Secretary of the Woman's Political Union of New Jersey, and now manager of the campaign, because of the bereavement and withdrawal of the President, Mrs. Mina Van Winkle, was at one time a voter in Colorado. Mrs. Reynolds believes the recent announcement of the President a thing of great historical importance.

Mrs. Everett Colby, acting for the Co-operative Committee of the Women's Political Union, sent the following message to the President:

> The Co-operative Committee, representing the suffrage organizations of New Jersey, congratulates and thanks you for your magnificent statement in favor of the New Jersey suffrage amendment. This is the most important aid given the cause of political equality since Lincoln took his stand in 1836, and your name will be linked with that of Lincoln in the suffrage calendar.

Mrs. Colby said she believed the President's announcement will carry the day for suffrage on Oct. 19.

Of those of social prominence who will be in the squad will be Mrs. Willard Straight, Mrs. W. Bourke Cockran, Mrs. Sumner Gerard, Mrs. Ogden Mills Reid and Mrs. Seymour Cromwell. The scheme for the flag squad has now been worked out by Mrs. John W. Alexander, widow of the late President of the National Academy, who is Chairman of Decorations.

The twenty-six nations affiliated in the International Woman Suffrage Alliance will be represented in the squad by twenty-six groups of twelve women each, with a leader. The Chief of Staff will be Mrs. Leonard Thomas.

EVERY "live wire" in America wants the New York look, the smart, snug-fitted appearance of the man who has arrived. To get it used to be a question of price. Now it's a matter of judgment.

You can pay $50 for a suit and not get the class that modern men want; you can pay $19.75 and be sure of it if you're keen. It's not a matter of materials, but of mind—masterful designing by the best brains in the clothing business.

It remained with Macy's to discover these clothes. We hunted the markets of the entire country to find them. And we've added to the discovery a common-sense price. That, after all, is the Macy idea, the open secret of the Macy success.

These suits are generously hand-tailored, reproduced in the season's newest materials that we back to the limit, and you know what that means. Some of them are silk lined.

VICTOR RECORDS

CITY EXTRAVAGANT, LEGISLATORS HEAR

Senator Mills Is Unable to Confine Hearing to Taxation Methods.

RICH GO TO CITY COLLEGE

L. M. D. McGuire Says Policy of Paternalism Has Made Burden on Real Estate Too Great to Bear.

Real estate experts yesterday told the Mills Legislative Committee, which is investigating tax problems in the rooms of the Merchants' Association in the Woolworth Building, that city real estate was assessed to the limit and that if new sources of revenue were to be found they should come from different forms of taxation. Several advocated a tax on incomes and others attacked the city administration for extravagance.

Laurence M. D. McGuire, President of the Real Estate Board of New York, said city officials who talked economy did not practice what they preached. There was no use of finding new sources of revenue, he said, until present extravagance was stopped, and he instanced the proposed new County Court House as a waste of money. He called it outrageous and criminal extravagance. If city officials really wanted to economize, he said, they could save at least $17,000,000.

The College of the City of New York, which costs $800,000 a year to maintain, he said, is applying advanced education to non-residents of the State. Sixty-five per cent. of the students, he said, are sons of wealthy men who could pay for their tuition if the city demanded it.

Senator Mills, the Chairman, told the witness that the committee was not considering economies, but a better distribution of taxation and methods of finding new sources of revenue. He added that the Mayor, the Controller, and other officials had given their word that there would be retrenchment wherever possible.

"You can rest assured," said Senator Mills, "that this committee will recommend no tax methods unless we feel assured that expenses, both in the city and State, are going to be pruned to the lowest possible figure. The city officials have already given us their word for that."

McGuire Sees No Economies.

"That may be true," said Mr. McGuire, "but they are not sincere. Those people have told us of their economies, but they vote for a committee to study port and terminal facilities which is to cost $325,000 in three years. Is that economy? They permit the worst municipal outrage possible in the Court House proposition. I have no quarrel with these officials, but I would like them to practice what they preach."

At another point Mr. McGuire said:

"The effect of a direct annual permanet tax of $24,000,000, with the certainty of an increasing city budget, would be a confiscation of real estate equities. As the owner of property looks for the net return, any increase of tax would mean ordjarily, a increase of rents, which at the present time, however, is impossible. In my opinion, taxation should be general and uniform in all localities throughout the State.

"The aggregate investment in real estate mortgages in New York City, is about $4,800,000,000, and the principal holders of mortgages are mortgage guarantee companies, title companies, trust companies, insurance companies, saving banks and estates. In my opinion, the proper supporter of Government is the individual, and methods should be devised whereby every adult should, in some way, feel the direct burden of the cost of Government.

"It is perhaps unnecessary to remind you gentlemen that the cost of Government in the State has increased from $8,000,000 a year, twenty years ago, to $80,000,000 at present, ad that the city budget this year will contain an item for debt service nearly as large as the entire budget in 1900. The expense of the Board of Education alone has increased $15,000,000, and this is true in proportion of almost every other department of the City Government. During the past year, $1,000,000 was added to the city pay roll. The Real Estate Board, I believe, has conclusively shown that economies approximating $17,000,000 can be inaugurated, and the only aswer was the action of the Tax Commissioners in endeavoring to secure $70,000,000 additional taxes by increasing the personal assessment roll."

Cyrus C. Miller, former Borough President of the Bronx, said there is no such thing as a personal property tax, that it is a legal fiction because its terms are too easily evaded.

The witness said that in his opinion the chief defect in the present tax system is the imposition of too great a burden on real estate.

Real Estate Is Over-Assessed.

Robert S. Simon, President of the Henry Morgenthau Company, pleaded for some new sources of revenue, in order to save the real estate of the city. He doubted the feasibility of an income tax, because the man who could best afford to pay it could also best afford to move away from it, thereby leaving the burden to fall upon others. He favored, as a substitute, the taxing of private automobiles, theatres, and other luxuries.

"There may be a few cases of undervaluation in this city," said the witness, "but, taking in all the five boroughs, I venture to say that property is over-assessed from 25 to 40 per cent. I sold private last week a piece of property at just 50 per cent of its assessment, and that was no curiosity at all."

J. Clarence Davies, a Bronx real estate broker, said real estate owners are paying 50 per cent. more in increased taxes than twenty years ago. Asked to give reasons for the present financial situation in the city, he said:

"I think there are two main reasons. First, we have been sending abroad philanthropists, reformers, politicians, and committees who return full of ideas of privileges granted to European citizens. They are enthusiastic over what may be termed the paternal system of privileges granted. They put them into vogue here, forgetting that the European pays for those privileges in a direct tax. Try that here and a politician faces probable assassination, certainly extermination. The other reason to my mind is the difference in our municipal help to that abroad. We have here about 40,000 employes who get on an average from $1,000 to $3,000 a year, and who, if thrown on their own resources, could not make 50 per cent. of that. Abroad there is real efficiency at very little cost."

Robert E. Dowling, Chairman of the Committee on Taxation of the Real Estate Board of New York favored the mortgage tax and also a low rate on personal property. He told how a parcel of land was offered to him years ago for $550,000 and said that the owner was now willing to sell it for $450,000. The assessors, he said, had taxed it at the rate of $1,125,000. The property, he said, is still for sale.

"I know of only two spots in this city where there has been any real increase in values within several years," said Mr. Dowling. "One is around Seventy-second Street and the other on West End Avenue."

The city, the witness said, gave very little service in proportion to taxes paid on downtown buildings. He cited the case of a building he owned downtown in front of which a street cleaner had not been seen for two years, he said.

Stewart Browne, President of the United Real Estate Owners' Association of New York, was the first witness of the day. He said in part:

"There are 101 different sources of revenue other than real estate, but the City Administration and the Legislature at Albany have not got the nerve to raise taxes from other than real estate. They are afraid to lose votes."

The City of New York, the witness said, would never get an economical and efficient government unless everyone residing in New York was made to pay an annual tax, proportionate to protection afforded and benefits received, or only taxpayers be allowed to vote for members of the Board of Estimate or that "a mentally and financially honest" Mayor be elected for ten years with the nerve to "cut things wide open."

Among the witnesses today will be Mortimer L. Schiff, Max Morgenthau, and one or two Tax Board officials.

SWEARS PROSECUTOR MADE HER PERJURER

Woman Who Convicted Owney Madden Recants and Accuses Walter R. Deuel.

SAYS SHE WAS THREATENED

Admits Living Since Trial with Members of Gang—Another Witness to Deny Her Story.

Charging that she had been instructed by Deputy Assistant District Attorney Walter R. Deuel to commit perjury, Margaret Everdeane, 20 years old, recanted before Judge Nott in General Sessions yesterday the testimony which she gave for the State in the trial of "Owney" Madden, a west side gangster, who was convicted of manslaughter last May. The girl said she accepted the prosecutor's advice because he had threatened to implicate her in the murder unless she told a story that would convict Madden.

She also said that Mr. Deuel was assisted in procuring fake evidence against Madden by Mrs. Marion Goldman, an investigator for the New York Probation and Protective Society. According to her story, Mrs. Goldman brought to her from Mr. Deuel statements which she was directed to commit to memory for use at Madden's trial.

Both Mr. Deuel and Mrs. Goldman deny the girl's charges. They will take the stand to show that the girl was terrorized into a retraction of her original testimony by members of the Madden gang, among whom she has been living since his conviction.

Six members of this gang were in the courtroom yesterday while the girl told the story. They were "Owney" Lawlor, with whom Margaret Everdeane is now living in a flat at 163 West 145th Street; "Barney" Cavanaugh, "Jack" Marrin, "Dody" Fitzsimmons, "Jo" Dean, and Vincent Kelly. Both Margaret Everdeane and Frieda Horner, also a witness for the State at the Madden trial, who intends to recant, came to court with Lawler in a taxicab.

TARIFF COMMISSION DINNER.

Magazine Men Hear Plea for Permanent Non-Partisan Body.

To bring before the publishers of periodicals the importance and advisability of a permanent non-partisan tariff commission, George W. Perkins and William H. Childs, Directors of the Tariff Commission League, and H. Walters, a member of the Advisory Committee, gave last night at the Lotos Club, a dinner to about sixty magazine publishers and editors. It was one of a series of dinners, which are being given over the country in furtherance of the objects of the league.

These aim at the appointment of a commission of men of the highest standing, with adequate salaries and long tenure of office, who will investigate the tariff question from a broad American standpoint and make reports and recommendations to Congress after taking evidence and hearing complaints. The league expressly declines to identify itself with any political party or form of tariff and proposes to consider the question entirely from the standpoint of sound economics.

Among those present were James Heye, Charles H. Towne of McClure's, Fred A. Duneka of Harper's, Arthur Page of World's Work, Frank N. Doubleday of the Doubleday-Page Company, Frank A. Munsey, William S. Woods of The Literary Digest, Hamilton Holt of The Independent, Otto Koenig and Theodore Waters of The Christian Herald, Lawrence Abbott, and H. W. Mabie of The Outlook, Douglas Doty of The Century, Dr. Albert Shaw of The Review of Reviews, and S. S. McClure.

Speeches were made by Senator Owens, William M. Bennet, George W. Perkins, H. R. Towne, Mortimer Schiff, and otherst, and letters indorsing the plan were read from Samuel Gompers, James J. Hill, E. P. Ripley, W. Fellowes Morgan, F. A. Vanderlip, John Wanamaker, and others.

Gasologue No. 3

"Ever have any trouble starting?"

"No, never. Well, hardly ever."

"What do you mean, 'hardly ever?'"

"Well, sometimes when my tank is low—"

"What difference does that make? You say you always insist upon high gravity gasoline."

"Yes, I do, but—"

"Ever hear of homogeneity?"

"No, is that—?"

"That's what's the matter with your gasoline."

"I see, too much homo—"

"No, too little. Your gasoline is light at the top and heavy at the bottom. It's probably a mixture of a very light fuel with a heavy fuel. The average gives you what passes for a high gravity gasoline, but that doesn't do you much good when you've used up all the light stuff and are trying to run on something that's a first cousin to kerosene. Good gasoline is a straight-distilled product, the same right through—top, bottom, and in the middle."

"But how am I to be sure I get it?"

"Just ask for SOCONY Motor Gasoline. It's homogeneous—every drop the same as every other drop—and every gallon the same as every other gallon, whenever and wherever you buy it."

"But suppose I do ask for SOCONY Motor Gasoline—how do I know whether I'm getting what I ask for?"

"Look for the red, white and blue SOCONY sign on the garage or supply station. It means the same thing as 'Safety First' when it comes to gasoline buying."

52,437 REGISTERED IN RAIN ON 4TH DAY

MAY EQUAL 1914 FIGURE

Another Five Hours Tonight and All Day Tomorrow Expected to Bring Out Large Numbers.

Registration was very light yesterday. This applies to all the boroughs. In the entire city only 52,437 went to the registration booths, bringing the grand total for the four days of registration this year up to 369,538.

The rain undoubtedly caused many would-be voters to stay away from the registration booths. With about half the time allotted to registration elapsed, the total of those already registered indicates that at the present rate the registration this year will equal, if it does not exceed, that of 1914. This would be a remarkable showing, in view of the fact that there was a gubernatorial election last year, while this is a political off year.

The following table shows the registration yesterday and the total for the four days:

GANG KILLS LIVERYMAN LIKE 3 PREDECESSORS

Fifteen Bullets Found in Greco's Body—Police Have No Clue to Assailants.

As he walked from a livery stable he owns at 334 East 108th Street at 8:40 o'clock last night, accompanied by two brothers and several friends, Ippolito Greco of 230 East 107th Street was shot down from behind and killed. His assailants, the police believe, used automatic revolvers. Fifteen bullets were found in Greco's body. Horse thieves or members of gangs who frequented a saloon Greco ran in East 107th Street are suspected, but no one was arrested last night or charged with the actual killing.

Greco was the fourth owner of the stable to meet a violent death within three and one-half years. On March 20, 1912, the stable was owned by Mrs. Pasquelina Spinelli, who prospered, and won the name of the "Hetty Green of Harlem's Little Italy." On the evening of that day she was shot to death. On April 8, 1914, Joseph Lazzaro, then owner of the place, was was stabbed to death while standing near the building. On Dec. 16, 1914, Amilo Prisco, who had an interest in the stable, was shot and killed. These murders have never been solved.

There was another strange angle to the series of murders. In 1910 "Tricks" Monaco, who was well known in the Italian colony, was shot to death in Mrs. Spinelli's house and the guilty person was not apprehended.

The men who were with Greco when he was killed last night were held pending a further investigation.

Mrs. Blighton Held in $2,500.

Mrs. Ida Miller Blighton, 42 years old, writer and astrologer of 69 Madison Avenue, was held for the Grand Jury in $2,500 bail on each of two charges of grand larceny by Magistrate Krotel in the Yorkville Court yesterday. Mrs. M. L. Symonds of 22 West Thirtieth Street and Roy E. Boynton, a clerk of the Hotel Seymour, were complainants. Mrs. Symonds said she gave Mrs. Blighton $100 for speculation and the money was never returned. Boynton said he cashed a check for $100 for the prisoner. Mrs. Blighton waived examination.

Asks Police to Find Mother.

Eugene Kirk of 838 Freeman Street, the Bronx, last night reported to the Bronx Detective Bureau the disappearance of his mother, Mrs. Mary Kirk. On Sept. 26 she went to visit a cousin, Mrs. Mary Downs, of 211 East Twenty-sixth Street. Next day she left to return home, but did not arrive there. He described her as 65 years of age, 5 feet 2 inches tall, 145 pounds in weight, with gray eyes, iron-gray hair; two gold wedding rings, and dressed in a black cape and skirt and white shirtwaist.

DEMOCRATS UNEASY ABOUT CONSTITUTION

State Chairman Osborn Surprised at Action of the Republicans.

LOOKED LIKED A CHALLENGE

Sees Danger of New Organic Law Being Involved in a Partisan Political Fight.

Whether or not the State organization should take any action on the proposed new Constitution following its indorsement Wednesday by the Republican State Committee was a matter of much discussion among Democrats yesterday. Many thought the action of the Republicans was more or less of a challenge and that the State Committee should be called into session at once. Others said that while the action of the Republicans put it up to the Democrats to fight the Constitution, formal action by the Democratic State Committee would serve only to solidify the Republican vote.

All prominent Democrats who expressed an opinion—some of them being supporters of the Constitution as individuals—said they didn't think the action of the Republican State Committee had helped the chances of the Constitution's ratification.

State Chairman William Church Osborn said the action of the Republicans came as a distinct surprise to him. He said he had hoped and believed that the new Constitution would be voted upon on its merits and without regard to party politics. He said he had received no request to call a meeting of the State Committee, and that, this being an "off" year, there would be no meeting unless there was a strong demand for it.

"The Democratic organization has taken no position on the proposed Constitution," he said, "and I do not consider that any action should be taken. A decision upon the new Constitution should be arrived at without involving the proposed organic law in the fights of party politics. I am sorry that there appears a danger of that happening."

Democrats who were delegates to the Constitutional Convention and who voted for the articles written into the proposed Constitution did not conceal their resentment at the Republicans' taking unto themselves credit for the document. One prominent Democratic delegate said:

"I think the public should know that the action of the Republican committee was taken by a vote of less than half of the committee, and I do not believe it represents the wishes of the majority of the Republicans, who, I believe, think that the idea of Senator Elihu Root, that the Constitution should be voted on as a non-partisan measure, is the proper idea. There are 150 members of the Republican State Committee, and the meeting at which the action was taken was attended by only 78. Mr. Tanner was able to marshal only 70 votes for his proposition to make the Constitution a party measure.

"There is no question but that the action of the Republican committee will lose many votes for the Constitution in the Democratic ranks, although it may, of course, swing some Republican votes in its favor. That may be what the up-State Republicans are after."

Another Democratic delegate said that if Republicans who opposed in convention the adoption of the proposed reforms which constitute the new Constitution had started a movement to defeat the Constitution, they had wrought well.

"Suppose, for instance," he said, "that the astute Mr. Barnes of Albany had decided to try to defeat the Constitution. Remembering how he fared in the Convention, and knowing the complexion of the State Committee, he could send his representatives down from Albany to oppose the indorsement of the Constitution with all the assurance in the world that it would be indorsed. He could well imagine that such action by the Republican committee would force the Democrats to take action against the Constitution. This is only natural, with the Republicans claiming that the proposed Constitution is a combination of Republican platform planks.

"Democratic delegates to the Constitutional Convention from New York City took the proposed articles as the best they could get from the Republican controlled convention, and the result of the reapportionment fight did not satisfy them. On the other hand, there are not a few up-State members who believe the proposed Constitution favors the city as against the rural sections.

"Any way one looks at it, the Republican committee has certainly gummed up the situation."

SCHOOL POLLS PROVE SUCCESS.

Election Board Indorses New System and Will Extend It.

President Boyle of the Board of Elections said yesterday that the use of schoolhouses for election purposes had proved on Primary Day and in the registration this week to be an unqualified success, and that the system would undoubtedly be greatly extended next year. Fourteen schools are now in use for election purposes.

LAUER HEADQUARTERS OPEN

Campaign Committee Organizes for Municipal Court Justice.

A meeting of the non-partisan campaign committee for the re-election of Edgar J. Lauer, the present Justice of the Municipal Court for the Ninth District, was held at the committee headquarters, 47 West Forty-second Street, Wednesday night and these officers were elected: Ogden L. Mills, Chairman; Ezra P. Prentice, Courtlandt Nicoll, William Bondy and Stanley M. Isaacs, Vice Presidents; Joseph R. Purcell, Secretary; Lucien L. Bonheur, Treasurer.

A committee of seventy-five has been organized, composed of men of all parties, to work for the re-election of Justice Lauer. Among them are ex-Attorney General George W. Wickersham, Louis Marshall, ex-Mayor Seth Low, and Charles H. Strong, former President of the City Club.

PRESIDENT FAVORS BANK AGENCY PLAN

Indorses McAdoo's Suggestion as to Strengthening Trade Relations in South America.

EXPAND RESERVE SYSTEM

Scheme Should Be Fruitful of Most Desirable Results, the President Asserts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—As a step toward strengthening commercial, financial, and industrial relations between the United States and the Latin-American countries, President Wilson has approved a suggestion from Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury for the establishment of joint agencies by Federal Reserve Banks in the leading cities of Central and South America. These agencies, it is understood, would perform for the Federal Reserve system those foreign functions permitted by the Federal Reserve act.

Mr. McAdoo regards the establishment of the proposed agencies as a logical sequence of the Pan-American financial conference, held here several months ago. He referred to it in his report, and promptly got the President's approval. No Congressional action is required to put the plan in operation, but the active support of the Federal Reserve Banks is needed. Presumably the agencies will be established by all the Reserve Banks together that want to extend their foreign enterprises.

Whether these agencies would compete with the branches already established or to be established by member banks is a question. Several days ago a Senator who had studied the subject thought the Treasury Department might recommend new legislation under which a foreign agency of a Federal Reserve Bank could do a regular banking business and receive individual deposits, which a Federal Reserve Bank now may not do. But there is no intimation of any such intention in the correspondence given today at the Treasury Department.

Mr. McAdoo today received the following letter from the President:

The White House,
Washington, Oct. 5.

My Dear Mr. Secretary—I have read with a great deal of interest the report on the Pan-American financial conference, and your suggestions about the establishment by the Federal Reserve Banks of joint agencies in the leading cities of Central and South America. These suggestions meet with my entire approval and I sincerely hope that it will be possible to carry out so promising a plan. It ought to be fruitful of most desirable results. May I suggest that you bring the question to the attention of the Federal Reserve Board and enlist, if possible, their co-operation?

Cordially and sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

Hon. William G. McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury.

In accordance with the President's suggestion, the Secretary referred the question to the Federal Reserve Board in the following letter:

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.

The Federal Reserve Board:

Gentlemen—Permit me to submit for your consideration the inclosed copy of a letter from the President, addressed to me under date of Oct. 5, 1915, in which he expresses his approval of the suggestion made in my report to him on the Pan-American Financial Conference that the Federal Reserve Banks establish joint agencies in the leading cities of Central and South America. You will observe that the President suggests that I bring the matter to the attention of the Federal Reserve Board and enlist, if possible, its co-operation. I hand you herewith copy of my report to the President on the Pan-American financial conference, dated Sept. 6, 1915, and shall be very happy indeed if you will give the President's letter and the report in question such consideration as you deem the subject merits. Faithfully yours,

W. G. McADOO.

The provision of the Federal Reserve act permitting the establishment of foreign branches is contained in Section 14, enumerating the powers of Federal Reserve Banks, and reads as follows:

(E) To establish accounts with other Federal Reserve Banks for exchange purposes, and, with the consent of the Federal Reserve Board, to open and maintain banking accounts in foreign countries, appoint correspondents, and establish agencies in such countries wheresoever it may deem best for the purpose of purchasing, selling, and collecting bills of exchange, and to buy and sell with or without its indorsement, through such correspondents or agencies, bills of exchange arising out of actual commercial transactions which have not more than ninety days to run and which bear the signature of two or more responsible parties.

The foreign operations of the Federal Reserve Banks, which may be facilitated by the establishment of agencies, include the rediscount of foreign acceptances; the purchase and sale from or to foreign banks, firms, corporations, or individuals, cable transfers, bills of exchange, and acceptances; dealing in gold coin and bullion at home and abroad, and the buying and selling at home and abroad of bills, notes, revenue bonds and warrants with not more than six months' maturity.

Branches established abroad by a member bank may, of course, in addition, perform the ordinary functions of a private bank. It may be required also to act as fiscal agent of the United States.

REGISTER TODAY AND ENROLL.

This is the fifth day of registration. Booths open at 5:30 P. M. and close at 10:30 P. M. Unless you register you cannot vote. Register today and enroll.

YALE CALLS FORMER STARS OF GRIDIRON

Defeat by Virginia Gives Cause for Worry—Deny That Hinkey Will Resign.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 7.—Expecting a hard struggle with Lehigh on Saturday, the Yale coaches today omitted scrimmage work entirely. The eleven proved to have been worn down by the Virginia defeat, and has been slow to regain its buoyancy. In today's signal practice Captain Wilson and Harry Legore played for the first time since last week, Wilson resuming his place at left half back and Legore going to full back on the second team. Legore is out of the competition for Saturday because of his bruised shoulder, but will resume scrimmaging next week. Way and Baldridge were laid off, but both have been promised by Trainer Mack for Saturday's game. Baldridge slightly injured his knee Tuesday. Osgood took the place of Baldridge at right tackle, and Carl White replaced Way at centre, which was his regular position last season.

There is little choice between "Chub" Sheldon and Gates at left tackle, though Sheldon had the position today. The coaches plan to start him Saturday. Mal Scovil was again at right half back, after a three days' absence, and will be used against Lehigh.

Ned Glass coached the guards today, and it was announced tonight that efforts were being made to bring back more former players. Johnny Field and Johnny Kilpatrick have promised to spend part of next week here.

Two Western stars have joined the squad, one a cousin of Tom Shevlin and the other "Murph" Edwards, a former University of Illinois player.

LIGHT WORK FOR TIGERS.

Syracuse Formations Tried Out Against the 'Varsity.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 7.—A drizzling rain shortened the Princeton football practice this afternoon, the actual time of the workout being cut down to a little more than one hour. Rush was afraid to have the men take any chance of injuries on the slippery field and was content with a short signal drill and a brief scrimmage. The second team opposed the 'Varsity at first, but later the scrubs came on the field with the Syracuse plays, which the 'Varsity broke up with comparative ease.

In the absence of Glick and Ames, Arrott and Donahue ran the opposing teams. Donohue is as good a quarter back as there is on the field, driving the team with tremendous energy, but is handicapped by extreme lightness.

Later Dave Tibbott was put in at quarter on the 'Varsity and ran the team througout the rest of the practice. In the event of Glick and Ames being unable to play against Syracuse, Tibbott will probably be seen at the pivot position. The others of the backfield were Shea and Lamberton, half backs, and Driggs at fullback. Halsey, a second string guard, was tried out at tackle, but it is not likely that he will have a permanent place. Rahill and Wilson were on the ends, with Nourse and Hogg at guard. Gennert played centre.

The frequent changes in the backfield have seriously impaired the development of an offense, but it is believed that the coaches are looking now to the big games and refuse to point the team for the secondary encounters. Only a light workout will be attempted tomorrow.

Fordham Primed for Union Game.

Fordham held its last preparatory scrimmage yesterday before the opening game of the season at Schenectady tomorrow with Union. The "Prep" opposed the Maroon and tried out all their trick plays against the college players. Particular attention was devoted to defense against forward pass attacks, the high school players using every conceivable kind of pass. Frisch and Williams of the Prep were fairly successful, but once the regular 'Varsity linemen got into action the plays of the youngsters failed.

The scrimmage also marked the first time any attempt has been made to score in the practice games. The 'Varsity was successful in pushing the ball across three times, Dave Dunn making the first touchdown of the year. Morcaldi and Yule also crossed the line for a score. Three players were injured. Golden, the regular left half, proved the biggest loss. He twisted the muscles on his left side when tackled by Bush. Agolia and Diamtre of the Prep were also put out of play, both suffering from badly bruised legs.

Amherst Will Not Play Columbia.

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., Oct. 7.—While athletic officials here refuse to make any definite statement, it was learned today that plans for an Amherst-Columbia game, to be played in New York the latter part of November, had been vetoed by the faculty. Coming at least two weeks after the close of the regular season, and after the three hardest games Amherst plays, it was thought unwise to add another game to the schedule. It is hoped that a game may be scheduled for next Fall.

Night Football at Amherst.

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., Oct. 7.—Amherst's new lighting system is finished, and practice after dark with a whitewashed ball has begun. It is expected that in a few days classes will be shifted back half an hour in order that additional time may be had for practice for the final games of the season. In today's scrimmage, the last before Saturday's Brown game, the Amherst backs scored repeatedly against scrubs.

Raincoat Wins St. Leger Handicap.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 7.—Raincoat, C. Straus's three-year-old gelding, ridden by Jockey Merys, won the St. Leger Handicap at two miles and a quarter at Churchill Downs today. Hidge was second and Waterwitch third. The time was 3:53, clipping 4¾ seconds from the track record. The race was run over a fast track. Two-dollar mutuels tickets on the winner paid $46.30.

HARVARD SCORES TWICE.

King Playing Strong Game in Crimson Backfield.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 7.—Hard practice was continued for the Harvard 'Varsity players today, but there will be a let-up tomorrow so that the men may be rested for their game against Carlisle. The return of Parson to left tackle bolstered the regulars' rush line, and with him in the game the team twice swept up the field for touchdowns. King scored both of these, Horne and Mahan being in the backfield with him. Both did splendid work in interference. Cowan and Dadmun were the guards, and, barring accidents, will be Harvard's final combination. Willcox again ran the first team in place of Watson and now appears to have the call over last year's first snubstitute. Half Back Rollins again showed wonderful broken-field running, today's play being even more brilliant than in Saturday's game. He made several good runs, one being for forty yards through the scrubs' rush line for a touchdown. The team has made much progress in the last two days and is in much better trim than it was a week ago.

N. Y. U. Preparing for Hamilton.

Head Coach Reilly of the New York University eleven yesterday put the Violet team through the last vigorous scrimmage and practice that it will have before it plays the Hamilton collegians tomorrow, when the University Heights team opens its home season. In addition to a long-continued scrimmage between the 'Varsity and scrub elevens, yesterday's work also included a punting practice and a stiff defensive drill for the 'Varsity line in charging through and blocking points. In the kicking side of the game the work of Cann, the regular left half back, stood out prominently, and in the scrimmage with the second eleven he displayed accuracy. Coach Reilly laid out some difficult work for the 'Varsity line men to do when he gave them the task of breaking through an opposing line and blocking kicks. In this work Zimmerle, the left guard; Sokolower, the centre; Schweidle, a candidate for a tackle position, and Williams, the Violet left tackle, showed up in good form. Scrimmaging against the second-string players, the 'Varsity gave another exhibition of its superior prowess in the offensive game, and made repeated gains both through the line and by means of flanking movements.

NEWS OF OTHER TEAMS.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The Cornell 'Varsity team will go into the Williams game Saturday with three of the regulars missing, namely: Shelton, left end; Jameson, left tackle, and Bailey, right tackle. Shelton is again in scholastic difficulties over his recent registration, but everything will be cleared up next week, and he will again be eligible to play. Zander and Eckley are slated to hold down the wing positions. Jameson is out of the game for a week owing to a fractured wrist bone, and Russ Welles, the 'Varsity crew man will have his place in the Williams game. This afternoon the first secret practice of the season was held in the Bacon baseball practice cage. Various new play formations were taught the men, and these will probably be given a trial against Williams.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The Army eleven took things easy today. The squad got in a signal drill of an hour and the kickers did some light work, but a special dress parade, and a heavy shower that followed, broke up the afternoon and the men were sent to the gymnasium to listen to a talk by the coaches. Tomorrow the squad will get its final scrimmage in preparation for the Gettysburg game.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 7.—The Midshipmen practiced football in the rain this afternoon and made fair progress though experiencing much difficulty in holding the slippery ball. The first team had a quarter of an hour of hard work against the scrubs. Orr, the fourth class man who has been placed at quarter, started the work of the afternoon by taking the ball on the kick off and running seventy-five yards for a touchdown. Captain Miles was at halfback this afternoon, and Von Heimburg and Westphal completed the back field.

More than forty members of the Republican Club of New York visited the links of the Sleepy Hollow Country Club yesterday for a day at golf. B. B. Stuart and Robert Burgess, with respective cards of 93, (104-197) and 105, (92-197,) tied for the Haviland Trophy for the player who made the best gross score.

Hoppe Plays Fast Billiards.

Willie Hoppe averaged better than thirty in both of his games at 14.1 balk line at Thum's Academy, Broadway and Thirty-first Street, yesterday. In the afternoon he defeated George W. Moore by a score of 300 to 54, and established an average of an even 30, with high runs of 108 and 48. In playing against the Austrian, Class B Champion Jacob Klinger, in the evening game, he made a higher average, 33 1-3. Klinger scored 143 points as against 400 by the champion. Hoppe made high runs in this game of 133 and 61, while Klinger gathered clusters of 37 and 36, with the creditable average for Class B billiards of 11 11-12.

Intercollegiate A.A.A.A. to Meet Here

Plans for the holding of the second annual indoor intercollegiate track games will be considered at a special meeting of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America Executive and Advisory Committees at the Waldorf on Sunday at 3 P. M. A number of changes in the program of the meet to be staged in this city early next Spring will be proposed and discussed. A report upon the advisability of such changes will be made at a special meeting of the association to be held the night before the annual intercollegiate cross-country championship run scheduled for Boston on Saturday, Nov. 20.

MORRISTOWN HORSE SHOW HELD IN RAIN

Children's Pony Jumping Class One of New Features of Exhibition.

With almost 500 horses to be judged, the eighteenth annual Horse Show of the Morristown Field Club opened yesterday on the club's grounds at Morristown, N. J.

The cold, dreary weather, which turned into a heavy rain during the afternoon, had a great deal to do with keeping down the attendance, although the owners of motor cars were there in large numbers and the parking space was fairly crowded. But these spectators viewed the show from the inside of their cars, instead of walking around the promenade. The boxes were only partly filled.

The Morristown exhibition has a number of novel features each year, which always add interest to the program. Yesterday there was a class for bronchos or branded ponies under saddle, draught horses shown to halter, and a pony jumping event, with children in the saddle. The military events for U. S. Army oficers in uniform will be judged tomorrow.

The snow opened with a class for jumpers, in which only performance counted. This brought together fifteen first-class fencers. With few exceptions, all the entrants made a clean showing over the wood and brush, and it was some time before the judge could make a decision. Finally he gave the blue to A. A. Fowler's Gloversville, an aged chestnut mare, 15.3 hands. Hamilton Farms' Kilkee received second prize. Mr. Cloister's Sturgis was third, with Mr. Fowler's Gold Pitcher fourth.

Paul Moore, son of Judge William H. Moore, carried off the honors in the novice saddle class, 14.2 hands and over. James Cox Brady's Hamilton Farms Holyport Brunella was second. The same owner took the yellow ribbon with Primrose of Whitegate.

Miss Mary S. Stevens of Bernardsvillee was the blue ribbon winner, with Halyard in the class for maiden saddle horses 14.2 and over. Hamilton Farms was again successful in the pony pairs, with two perfectly matched roans, Sequel and Sequence. J. Macy Willetts' Irvington Peggy and Dainty Eccles were second. The Misses Jane and Ruth Brady took the first and fourth ribbons when Berkley King and Sequel were adjudged the prize winners in the event for ponies in harness to be driven by either amateurs or children.

Five children, none over 15 years, took part in the pony jumping class. Dot, a wonderfully compact little animal, 13 hands, received the blue. The red went to Miss Josephine Jenks, who had the mount on Wendy, a small buckskin mare. Miss Ruth Brady rode Miss Helen Fiske's Maidstone, with which she took the reserve. Seven branded ponies were shown in the class for broncos. They were judged by Joseph Laroque of Bernardsville. The first prize went to H. Le Roy Whitney's Silver Heels; Mrs. David Wagstaff's gelding, Cream Puff, received the red. A polo pony shown by the Whippany River Club, named Monte, was third.

Belia, a bay mare, which met with little success at the White Plains show, came in first in the saddle horse class, 14.2 and not exceeding 15.2 hands. C. Douglass Frank's Lefton Girl, whose conformation and general appearance were superior to the winner, took the red. Powelton Farms received the yellow with Natasha. Mrs. David Wagstaff took her first blue with Pointex, a black gelding, over 15.2 in the saddle horse class, in which ladies were to ride.

Miss Clare Blume was the only woman driver in the roadster class, in which pacers were barred. Miss Blume held the lines over Fairy Queen. Although the mare showed well, she was unable to obtain a ribbon, the blue going to Bardon J., exhibited by George E. Bardon of Montclair. Another first prize went to the Hamilton Farms' entries, when Holyport Brunella and Queen of Earth were adjudged the best pair of harness horses, before a lady's phaeton, driven by ladies. Paul Moore's Kara and Morrell were second.

March Wind, shown by Miss Mary S. Stevens, had fine conformation and manners in the lightweight, green hunter class, and received the blue in this event over twelve other entries.

Among those present were:

J. A. P. Ramsdell, Miss Margaret Tompkins, Mr. and Mrs. Mumford, Mr. and Mrs. Philander B. Pierson and daughter, Mrs. Cornelius B. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bradley, Charles H. Raymond, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. H. Pitney, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Brinley, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fillmore Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. William, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scribner, General Edward P. Meaney, U. S. A.; Paul Moore, W. Parsons Todd, Joseph W. Ogden, Bexley, Hocombe, Mrs. George F. Cornell, Mrs. S. Harold Freeman and friends, Mrs. Richard Stevens, Dr. and Mrs. G. M. White, Miss Alice Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mellon, Mrs. T. Ashley Sparks, Mr. and Mrs. H. Le Roy Whitney, Mrs. Henry Hentz, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent S. Mulford, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Whitman, Major A. White, Mrs. John M. Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Nesser, and Mrs. Allan Russell, Warrenton, Va.

Columbia Crew Loses Ferris.

D. B. Ferris, member of the 'Varsity crew at Columbia, has been obliged to withdraw from rowing on account of parental objections. Coach Jim Rice received word yesterday before practice, and when the shell left the boathouse at Edgewater Tichborne filled the vacancy. Ferris rowed on the freshman eight in the Spring of 1914. All last Fall and Winter he worked in the junior boat until two weeks before the Poughkeepsie regatta, when he was promoted to No. 7 in the 'Varsity and rowed in that position in the big race.

Tichborne rowed at No. 3 in the 'Varsity boat at Poughkeepsie, but this year was found in the junior eight on the first day of practice. He will now take O'Laughlin's seat at No. 3 and O'Laughlin will displace Ferris in the bow. Lorenz has succeeded Tichborne in the second crew.

Freshman crew prospects at Columbia are the worst in history. Of an entering class of close to 500 students, only fourteen men reported for the first practice yesterday afternoon at Edgewater. Coach Jim Rice took no measures to hide his disappointment and refused to allow the freshmen to engage in regular practice.

Columbia Tries Out New Plays.

The Columbia football squad had an easy practice yesterday following the workout with the Erasmus eleven on Wednesday afternoon. Head Coach Metcalf formulated several new plays, and while the first team demonstrated them in practice the remainder of the squad watched the work. Later three teams devoted nearly an hour to snappy signal practice. Two changes were made in the 'Varsity line-up. Brown, 1918, displaced Noble at centre, and Van de Water was sent back to the second eleven to make room for Healey at left tackle. Several players on the injured list for the past few days returned to practice. Mansbach was again at right half back on the 'Varsity, and Monroe was at his old position on the scrubs. Coach Metcalf is devoting considerable time each day before and after regular team practice in developing punters. Simonds continues to boot the sphere fifty yards or more, and Mansbach has no difficulty in sending the pigskin long distances. These two men and Miller are also daily receiving extra practice in forward passing.

TENNIS IN THE RAIN.

Miss Wagner Advances in Montclair A. C. Invitation Tournament.

Miss Marie Wagner, the New York State tennis champion, won her way into the semi-final round of the women's singles invitation tournament of the Montclair Athletic Club yesterday on the club courts at Montclair, N. J., and will oppose Mrs. R. A. Pope in that round. Miss Wagner defeated Miss Florence Sheldon in straight sets at 6—0, 7—5, while Mrs. Pope won from Miss de Gerstede by default. Miss Wagner played a strong game in the first set and held her opponent scoreless, but a splendid rally by Miss Sheldon forced the second set to extra games. In the upper half of the draw Miss Edith Handy and Miss Marion Vanderhoef will be the opponents. Miss Handy was forced to the limit to win from Miss Jane Rowson after three hard-fought sets at 4—6, 6—3, 6—3.

Nearly all the matches were played in rain, which fell so heavily during the latter part of the day's play that the mixed doubles match between Miss Wagner and G. L. Wyeth and Mrs. William H. Pouch and Otto Hinke was left unfinished with the score at 4—6, 6—1, 5—4. Mrs. S. F. Weaver and Charles M. Bull, Jr., advanced to the semi-final round by defeating Mrs. Harold Bradley and J. R. Reynolds, and Miss Vanderhoef and E. S. Moore of the West Side Tennis Club qualified through a victory over Mrs. R. A. Pope and F. A. Seller, at 6—0, 6—1. The summary:

Montclair Athletic Club, Invitation Women's Singles, Second Round—Miss Edith Handy defeated Miss Jane Rowson, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3; Miss Marie Wagner defeated Miss Florence Sheldon, 6—0, 7—5; Mrs. R. A. Pope defeated Miss de Gerstede by default.

Mixed Doubles, Second Round—Mrs. S. Fullerton Weaver and Charles M. Bull, Jr., defeated Mrs. Harold Bradley and J. Reynolds, 6—2, 6—2; Miss Marion Vanderhoef and E. S. Moore defeated Mrs. R. A. Pope and F. A. Seller, 6—0, 6—1; Miss Marie Wagner and G. L. Wyeth vs. Mrs. William H. Pouch and Otto Hinke, 4—6, 6—7, 5—4, unfinished.

Handicap Tennis at Knollwood.

The men's doubles tennis handicap will start at 11 o'clock on Sunday on the courts of the Knollwood Country Club at White Plains. Entries close with the committee at 10 o'clock on that day. The committee will arrange byes for the members who desire to play in the club handicaps.

Professional Basket Ball League.

Professional league basketball will be tried in Brooklyn this Fall and Winter, with the formation of the Inter-State Basketball League, in which the Knights of St. Anthony A. C., an organization affiliated with the Amateur Athletic Union, holds one of the six franchises. Eugene Kinkead, Sheriff of Hudson County, New Jersey, is President of the new organization, which will succeed the inactive Hudson River and New York State Leagues. Other officers of the new league are John J. O'Brien of Brooklyn, Secretary, and W. J. Downey of Paterson, N. J., Treasurer. Up to date franchises have been granted to Brooklyn, Kingston, Stamford, Elizabeth, Paterson and Jersey City, and unless some other cities signify their intention of entering teams before Oct. 22 the above circuit will remain intact for the season. The teams entered have already signed the best of the professional players in the East. Brooklyn's season will open on Friday, Oct. 22, on the Knights of St. Anthony's Greenpoint court, with Kingston as the opposing team.

John L. Sullivan Redeems Belt.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—The famous championship diamond belt presented to John L. Sullivan by admiring friends in 1887, and later left by him in Chicago as security for a four-thousand-dollar loan, is again in the possession of the veteran heavyweight pugilist, it became known today. Sullivan redeemed it from a jewelry firm yesterday, paying $5,300. The celebrated trophy is made up of 350 diamonds and fourteen pounds of gold. The former champion regarded the belt as his most cherished possession until shortly after he was defeated by Corbett in New Orleans in 1892.

WORLD'S BASEBALL SERIES OPENS TODAY IN PHILADELPHIA—FULLERTON PICKS BOSTON

RAIN AND GLOOM IN BASEBALL ZONE

But Weather Man Says It Will Not Rain When World's Series Starts Today.

"ROYAL ROOTERS" ARRIVE

Shore May Be Opponent of Alexander in First Game—Speculators Get High Prices for Tickets.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Oct. 7.—With the rain pattering playfully on the ball park at Broad and Huntingdon Street tonight, soaking the green lawns of the diamond, the outlook for the opening of the world's baseball series tomorrow between Pat Moran's Phillies and the Boston Red Sox is far from encouraging.

Philadelphia weather is nothing to brag about, and tonight reminds the thousands of out of towners of 1911, when the Giants and Athletics were marooned here under exactly the same weather conditions that exist here tonight. The Weather Bureau is hopeful. It says it may be cloudy, but that it will not rain.

The only man here who likes the rain tonight is Pat Moran. All the others see nothing but gloom and rain. He figures that if the first game is not played until Saturday it will give him a chance to send Grover Cleveland Alexander against the Red Sox again on Monday. Alexander is regarded here as the whole show, and on him Philadelphians are placing all their hopes. The Phillies planned to have a little practice here today, but the rain kept them indoors, and they sat around the clubhouse in the last session with Moran and listened to his entreaties to keep their minds off the world's series.

"Keep cool," said Pat. "For goodness sake, keep cool." They are naturally nervous and fidgety on the eve of the big battle, but Moran has absolute confidence that the coolness of his trump card, Alexander, will keep the other men in line and they will rally behind the "big gun" as they have all season.

Speculators are running wild on the streets and are getting bigger prices for the coveted pasteboards than have ever been paid at a world's series. Prices ranging from $30 to $60 are being offered for sets of three tickets. It is almost impossible to get single game tickets and at the ticket agencies tonight, the brokers are willing to pay as high as $15 for single tickets, which means they will sell them at $20.

Red Sox Are Confident.

The Red Sox arrived tonight from New York at 10 o'clock and went to the Aldine Hotel. They feel confident of winning the series. It is the general impression that Manager Bill Carrigan will pitch Ernie Shore in tomorrow's opener. When Shore pitched against the Yanks in New York on Wednesday he showed so much speed and so many deceptive tangents that he was withdrawn after he had fanned three men and was told to rest. This is taken as an indication that the big rawboned collegian from Guilford College in North Carolina will be pitted against Alexander, the Great, when the big series gets under way.

Carrigan will depend more on his pitchers than on his batters. The Red Sox have been in a batting slump for more than a week, and it is feared that their hitting prowess will not return in its full strength against such a master as Alexander. Therefore, the Bostons look for their pitching to carry them through. Boston has a quartet that is in fine fettle. Shore, Leonard, Foster, and Ruth are in great shape, and not even the short right field wall and the batting talent of "Cactus" Cravath and Fred Luderus scares them.

Philadelphia is making a greater fuss about the Phillies than they did about the Athletics. National League interest is deep-seated here, and thirty-four years of failure to land a pennant has not lessened the interest in the older league. Everybody is rooting hard to see Moran and his team of makeshifts nip the grand old streamer which signifies the championship of the whole universe and way stations. If the Phillies capture the series, that old weather beaten bronze of Bill Penn on the top of the City Hall may come down and Pat Moran, in marble, may go up in its place.

Grizzled Grand Army men just back from their reunion in Washington are here in numbers, and the old boys are all staying over for the series. Old-time firemen, real honest and true fire-eating "vamps," who had a big parade here today, are also remaining over for the ball games. Some of these old fellows are paying big prices for tickets, but they have not seen a ball game in so long a time that they are showing much more interest than the younger generation.

The bitter feeling between the Philadelphia Club and the politicians and police is still rife, and this afternoon Superintendent of Police Robinson announced that the police detail at the game would be reduced from 400 to 200. The police boss did not get the tickets he wanted, and he is not well pleased, as one might believe. Mayor Blankenburg asked for no tickets, but got all he wanted.

To get back to an old subject, the weather, it is, to say the least, deplorably discouraging. Yes, and more than that it is sticky, muggy, damp, and uncomfortable. If it clears up enough to permit the playing of tomorrow's game, men who have been "wise" to Philadelphia weather conditions here for years will be surprised. Their advice is to listen to what the Weather Bureau says and then figure on just the opposite.

Light Betting on Series.

After last year's unusual upset, nobody is going about boasting about who will win the series. There is a little conservative betting, but not as much as in former years. In fact, the bettors are so very careful, it is hard to get a line on the two clubs by this method. As the wiseacres see it they are about evenly matched. Philadelphians, more through sentiment than supreme confidence, are betting on the Phillies. They expect that Alexander can carry the brunt of the burden in the pitching line, and that the bat of Cravath is likely to raise havoc with the pitching of the Boston stars. Philadelphia expects that at this time next week the whole country will be singing the praises of "Home Run" Cravath just as they shouted about "Home Run" Baker. Philadelphia expects that Cravath will hit them further and more often than Baker.

The "Royal Rooters" of Boston, 400 strong, who arrived tonight listen to all this stuff about Cravath, and say to each other: "We shall see; yes, we shall see."

Neither Manager Moran nor Carrigan would give out an official playing order tonight, but it was generally conceded that, if the game is played as scheduled, the order would not be changed to any extent from the formation of the last few days of the season. Killifer, the Phillies' best catcher, appears to be out of the series, but all the other members of both teams are reported to be on edge for the battle.

The probable batting order for the first game is as follows:

PHILADELPHIA.	BOSTON.
Stock, 3b.	Hooper, rf.
Bancroft, ss.	Scott, ss.
Paskert, cf.	Speaker, cf.
Cravath, rf.	Hoblitzel, 1b.
Luderus, 1b.	Lewis, lf.
Whitted, lf.	Gardner, 3b.
Niehoff, 2b.	Barry, 2b.
Burns, c.	Cady, c.
Alexander, p.	Shore, p.

Umpires—National League: Klem and Rigler. American League: O'Loughlin and Evans.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—With the Royal Rooters and other baseball enthusiasts already in Philadelphia to bring a cheering word to the Red Sox from the city which they represent, the remainder of local fandom tonight sat back and waited for the opening of the world's series tomorrow. Red Sox followers have not seen their team in action for more than a week, but faith in their success in the series was generally strong, in spite of an uncertainty of feeling regarding the ability of the Boston men to overcome Alexander.

President Joseph Lannin of the Red Sox and members of his family and of his executive staff accompanied the Royal Rooters on their special train. Secretary Edwin L. Riley was unable to obtain tickets for the games in Philadelphia until the last moment, his personal application having been refused.

Before President Lannin left he saw the first of the reserved seats for the games at Braves' Field distributed. The opinion of observers was that the speculators would obtain few of the 25,000 reserved seats.

THE WORLD'S SERIES.

Schedule of Games.

Boston at Philadelphia Friday and Saturday; Philadelphia at Boston Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 11 and 12; Boston at Philadelphia, if fifth game is necessary; Philadelphia at Boston if sixth game is necessary.

Place of seventh game, if necessary, to be decided by toss of coin.

In case of ties or postponements, games will be played off on following day in the city originally scheduled, and all succeeding games will be put forward.

All games start at 2 P. M.

In order to win, one team must take four games.

Prices of Admission.

Boston—Box seats, $5; grand stand, $3; first base pavilion, $2; third base pavilion, (general admission,) $1; 3,000 centre field bleacher seats, 50 cents.

Philadelphia—Box seats, $5; grand stand, $3; right field pavilion, $2; bleachers, $1.

Tickets are sold in series for three games in Boston and Philadelphia. In case it is unnecessary to play any of the games, the money will be refunded by the National Commission.

Division of Receipts.

Players get 60 per cent. of gross receipts of first four games after 10 per cent. has been deducted for the National Commission. The players' share is divided again, 60 per cent. to the winning team, and 40 per cent. to the losing team. The remaining 30 per cent. of first four games' receipts is divided equally between the club managements. After the first four games clubs get all of the receipts, after 10 per cent. has been taken by the National Commission.

Seating Capacity of Two Parks.

Philadelphia National League Park, 20,600; Braves' Park, Boston, 45,000.

Records of Two Teams.

In both leagues the race for the pennant has been closest of several years. Philadelphia took the lead in the National League race early and have held it by playing consistent ball, although their lead has been constantly threatened by Boston and Brooklyn.

Boston through the later weeks in August and early in September had a difficult job in holding the lead against Detroit, and earlier their advantage was threatened by the White Sox also.

How They Compare.

On the face of the whole season's work, the performance of the Boston Red Sox is better than that of the Philadelphia club. However, this criterion does not always hold good in a short series. Outside of Alexander, the Philadelphia pitchers have shown better work than the others on the Phillies' staff. The Red Sox have been more consistent hitters with the exception of Cravath, who leads both leagues in home runs. The series should be closely contested.

The Rival Managers.

Pat Moran, the successful manager of the Phillies, was formerly a catcher with the Chicago Cubs. Later he went to Philadelphia, where he coached the young pitchers under Dooin's management. This is his first year as manager. His methods of working are quiet, and he has developed perfect harmony and team play in the club. From a baseball standpoint he has worked wonders with much mediocre material.

Bill Carrigan, manager of the Boston Red Sox, has been with that club a number of years, joining them after he had played at Holy Cross College. Carrigan is a catcher, and is considered one of the brainiest leaders in the younger league. When the Red Sox won the world title in 1912, Carrigan was the chief adviser of Manager Jake Stahl, and received much of the credit for the victory over the Giants in that year.

The Umpires.

National League—William Klem and Charles Rigler.

American League—William Evans and Frank (Silk) O'Loughlin.

Record Attendance.

The largest attendance and largest receipts at a world's series were in 1912 in the series between the Boston (American League) and New York (National League) teams. The attendance was 252,037, and the receipts, $490,833. Last year the attendance was 111,009, and the receipts, $226,739. In 1912 winning players received $4,022 apiece, and the losers $2,500. The largest crowd at a single game was in the second game in 1911 between the Giants and the Athletics, which was attended by 32,281 persons who paid.

WHITE SOX SHUT OUT.

Cubs Make Chicago Series Even—Lavender a Puzzle.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—The National League evened up the series with its American League opponents today, when they shut them out, 4 to 0 in the second game for the championship of Chicago.

The pitching of Lavender was the deciding factor. Only one of the White Sox reached third base, and that was in the first inning when a base on balls to Murphy, a sacrifice and an infield out allowed the American Leaguer to reach third base. Score:

New York Teams' Odd Finish.

Some strange freak of destiny appears to have guided the Giants and the Yankees through the baseball year so that now, when the race is over, New York guided by figures alone may cherish one no more than the other. The Giants may be the tailender in the National League, while the Yankees are riding in fifth place in the American, but for victories gained and losses bemoaned, there is no choice between them. Each team has the same percentage of .454 and each has won 69 games and lost 83. Now, just by way of settling the dispute as to merit, the Yankees and Giants are to play a game today in Hartford. But what if that ends in a tie?

The "dope" figures declare that the Boston Red Sox will be the world's champions, and that the series now about to start will return to Boston the flag that Philadelphia claimed on first mortgage until the Braves foreclosed on them in the name of Boston last year. The figures are indisputable. Boston has the stronger team in every department, the best fortified against accident, and the anaylsis, reduced to its final form, proves that Alexander will not be able, alone, to overcome the handicap and by his own pitching overthrow the five stars of the Red Sox.

The latest news from the inside of the two camps is that Killifer's arm is not yet in proper condition. He injured it by careless throwing, and against Moran's orders tried to work before it was ready, setting himself back again. He will probably be able to work in part of the games, but the arm is not what it was, and that cuts Philadelphia's strength considerably. Burns is a hustling, aggressive, and willing worker, brainy and full of promise, but he lacks the class of Killifer and he lacks the experience. The report from the Philly camp on third base is that Stock will satrt the series, but Byrne is in condition to play. His broken finger has mended, and Moran probably will have him in the games early to gain through his experience.

Janvrin May Replace Gardner.

From the Boston camp the only "bear" news is on Gardner and Barry. Gardner is said to be going bad, and it is rumored that, unless his work picks up, Janvrin may be in the series. Also, the inside Boston fans are discouraged a bit about the showing of "Duffy" Lewis. They say he is dull and off color at bat, and hitting in poor style. Since Lewis needs encouragement rather than criticism, this is a bad sign. Barry has had carbuncles, and, although Boston clamis he is all right, a carbuncle does not help base running.

The report on pitchers is better. There is no acceptable alibi in the case. Alexander has had a fair rest during the closing fortnight of the season, perhaps just enough. Chalmers is pitching better than he was, and Rixey is being prepared for one big game, which means a great deal of difference in the outlook and a big difference in Philadelphia's chances.

The Phillies' great hope appears to lie in that one game. They know that if Rixey happens to have a big day, no club in the world has the license to hit him at all. I expected to find that the dope would show him due for that big day—but it doesn't. He figures to be beaten, and, in fact, I expect that he will fail, and that Mayer, in all probability, will finish the game for him.

Moran knows that a good left-hander, working right, troubles the Rex Sox terribly, and that by using a left-hander he forces Carrigan to switch first basemen and weaken the Red Sox defensively. But it does not seem as if Rixey can be lucky enough to pick a good day. The odds are against him, although Moran is a mignificent judge, and has been getting Rixey ready for the test. As far as knowing the team work of each other, neither side has much advantage. If there is any, it lies with the Phillies, since a swarm of Moran's admirers and friends in Boston have beep keeping the closest kind of watch on the later work of the Red Sox and reporting everything to the Philly leader. Moran used to play in Boston; he is a Massachusetts boy and popular there. These little details may help, especially they may help a man of the Moran temperament who studies the methods of his opponents very closely.

There are two facts about the series that seem settled. First, that it will probably be the lightest hitting world's series in a long time, and, second, that the two teams are about the worst base-running clubs in the two major leagues. That helps out Moran in his plight for catchers and makes Killifer's crippled arm of less consequence. However, the doping is done. All that remains is for these teams to get out there and earn their money.

Alexander vs. Wood.

The best dope is that the first game is to be a battle of speed, and we are to have a visual test as to whether Joe Wood can throw a ball faster than Grover Alexander. Having drawn in a seat near Walter Johnson, we hope to get some valuable pointers on that question from an authority. Moran is figuring all the time upon saving Alexander as much as possible, and if Rixey shows himself in form Alex will not even be called upon to warm up on the second day, and, therefore, will get two days' rest, counting Sunday. The weather man may cut a big figure also. A couple of days of rain would bring Alexander into condition to pitch the entire series, and I am informed he is ready and willing to do it if Moran says the word. Leonard looks so good that he is Carrigan's logical choice for the second game, with Shore or Foster for the third. Ruth has not been working so well lately as he was in midseason.

As for overconfidence on one side or depression on the other, there is not a sign. The Red Sox aren't overconfident. They saw what happened to the Athletics last Fall and are keyed up for the struggle. The Phillies know they are facing a ball club that is their superior in strength in many departments. They rely upon team work, hard work, and pitching. If anything, their nervous condition is the better. Moran has kept the temper of his men well under control. I was with them during the final fight in the West to hold their lead in the National League and they were not worrying. They were playing the games one at a time and not fretting about world's series or games to come. Their temper is that of the fellow who has everything to win and nothing to lose, and they are going out there to fight for everything in sight—you may rely upon that. Also, you will find them a better ball club on the field than they appear to a lot of the critics on paper.

It looks all Red Sox to me. I can't see a logical chance for the Phillies to grab more than two games, but I hope my eyesight is poor. I'm not naturally prejudiced in such matters, but last Spring the Philadelphia owners refused to give Pat Moran more than a one-year contract, and if he wins a world's championship—Gee, in his place, we'd be practicing making ciphers now to add to the club figures.

RED SOX LOSE TO YANKS.

Bill Donovan's Men Close Local Season with 4 to 3 Victory.

No matter what the Yankees have done in the past, they at least closed the New York baseball season in fitting manner yesterday when they defeated the Red Sox in the last game of the year at the Polo Grounds by a score of 4 to 3. The Boston men didn't care, as it was just a bit of practice for them.

The Bostonians got a tally in the first inning when Scott singled to right, went to second on a wild pitch, and scored on Hoblitzel's double to centre. In the third the Red Sox added a pair of runs. Scott started it again with a single to Peckinpaugh. Speaker walked, and both advanced after a fly had been caught in centre field. Lewis zipped a single to centre, and both Scott and Speaker scored.

24 HITS FOR GIANTS.

They Take Last Game of Season from Braves with 15 Runs.

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—Giants and Braves closed the season today, the former in last place and the latter in second position. The game was marked by an avalanche of hits and runs, made possible by indifferent pitching and lax fielding. New York scored fifteen times to Boston's eight. Under the easy hitting conditions Captain Larry Doyle of the Giants bolstered his hitting average so that, unofficially, he leads the league batsmen. Notwithstanding all the action crowded into the contest, it was completed in 1 hour and 2 minutes, a record for the season in both major leagues. The score:

Handicap 18.2 Billiards.

A handicap 18.2 balkline billiard tournament with Willie Hoppe on scratch, will be played at the New York Theatre Concert Hall during the week of Nov. 15. A purse of $2,500 has been contributed by the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company, to which will be added the entrance fees, which will be $150 for each player. The players will be limited to six. If a larger number enter a preliminary tournament will be held. The games are to be played according to the rules which at present govern the 18.2 balkline game, excepting that the anchor space shall be seven inches square, and will be on a basis of 500 points. The winner of the largest number of games will receive $1,000, with the other five prizes ranging from $750 to $300. Entries will close Oct. 20 at Chicago or New York.

Yamada Again Defeats Gallagher.

Koji Yamada scored his third consecutive victory over Tom Gallagher when he defeated the veteran last night in the third block of their 1,000-point match at 14.1 balk line billiards at Maurice Daly's Academy, Forty-ninth Street and Broadway, by the score of 300 to 52. Yamada completed his string of 300 points in eleven innings, making an average of 27 3-11, with high runs of 51, 54 and 71. Gallagher's average was 4 8-11.

Shoemaker Again a Winner.

J. Howard Shoemaker, amateur champion pocket billiardist, won the fourth block in his contest with Louis Kreuter at Doyle's Forty-second Street Academy last night. The score was: Shoemaker, 100; Kreuter, 39, making the total score 400 to 339 in favor of the champion. The final block will be played tonight.

Otis Defeats Lamothe.

Charles Otis, the Brooklyn representative in the Intercity Three-Cushion-Carrom Billiard League, last night defeated George Lamothe, who represented Cincinnati, in an interesting and closely contested game at the Brooklyn Billiard Academy, Brooklyn, by the score of 50 to 42, in seventy-four innings.

FANS TO SEE GAMES IN TIMES SQUARE

Big Board on Times Building Will Show Every Play of World's Series.

There is going to be some consolation for New York baseball fans who will be unable to see the games of the world's series between the Phillies and Boston Red Sox in the fact that every play in all the games will be portrayed with remarkable exactness on the Star Ball Player, which has been installed at the southeast corner of THE TIMES Building in Times Square.

When the first of the baseball battles start at the Philadelphia National League Park this afternoon at 2 o'clock, the information will be flashed over a special wire to the operator at the scoreboard, and from that time on until the last man is out in the final inning, it will be possible for the fans to watch every move that is made during the games.

This wonderful mechanical device, which is the finest that has been constructed for reproducing the national game of baseball, not only shows the men on bases and running the bases, but it shows the ball actually in play. When the pitcher throws the ball, the board shows the ball leaving the box and travelling in the direction of the plate. If it is a strike, the ball crosses the plate, and if it is not a strike, the ball travels outside the plate.

The ball used on the board is similar in every way to the regulation baseball and even the seams on the ball are plainly visible. Long hits, short hits, fouls, balks, single, double, and triple plays, home runs, and in fact every play that is possible on a diamond can be shown on the board, and shown in such a simple manner that it is clearly understood by the fans.

When a play occurs, the ball moves and the player moves, and one doesn't know how the play resulted until it is actually completed on the board. On either side of the diamond are the list of players taking part in the game, and opposite their names are blocks to show where they are playing, the number of hits, runs, and errors made by each player, and the score by innings. Strikes, balls, and put-outs are registered and tallied on the board.

White squares will represent the runners on the base lines, and when a batter is thrown out at first base on a hit to an infielder the square will leave the batter's box and move down to first base and will be out when the ball arrives at that bag ahead of the batter. If it should be an infield hit, the ball will move to that part of the field where it is actually batted and the square will reach the base ahead of the ball.

Stolen bases will be displayed on the board. A man will be shown edging off first base when he is getting ready to steal. He will be shown sliding back when the pitcher throws to catch him, and the ball will actually depict the play at second base when the catcher throws there to nail the runner stealing. If a fly is rapped to the outfield, the path of the ball is shown and the word "fly" flashes on the board. If it is dropped, the word "muff" is shown.

When Umpire Bill Klem shouts "Play ball" at 2 o'clock in Philadelphia this afternoon the big crowd waiting at Broadway and Forty-second Street will know it half a minute later. The course of the ball during the entire game will be shown on the Star Ball Player board, and whenever one of the players over in Philadelphia tosses the ball the news will be flashed to the board and shown a few seconds after its actual occurrence.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT WORLD'S SERIES.

Series is best four in seven games.

Sixth world's series to be held in Philadelphia.

Phillies' first pennant in 33 years of major league ball.

Players share in receipts of first four games only.

Braves' field is largest in country; Phillies smallest.

Three victories is best any pitcher has won in world's series.

Braves' four straight victories over Athletic last year was only time feat has been accomplished.

Dates of games are the same as last year's contests, when first two games were played at Shibe Park, Oct. 8 and 9.

The Braves' share of last year's triumph was $2,708.88 each.

No spectators will be allowed in the field either at the Phillies' ground or Braves' Field.

Second baseman Jack Barry of the Red Sox is one of the famous Athletic infield. He was sold to the Red Sox this year.

Boston nines have won nineteen pennants, five being captured by the American League representatives.

The Red Sox's six pitchers top the American League in victories this year.

Southpaw Eppa Jeptha Rixey of the Phillies stands 6 feet 5 inches and is 24 years of age.

Alexander has struck out more than 1,000 National League batsmen in his five years' pitching.

Manager Pat Moran of the Phillies was with the Chicago Cubs in 1906, 1907 and 1908 when they won the National League pennants.

Both Carrigan and Moran are catchers, although the latter is no longer active.

The Red Sox have yet to lose a world's championship.

There has not been a Western club in the world's series since the Cubs lost to the Athletics in 1910.

Seventeen home runs have been made in the last eleven world's series.

Grover Cleveland Alexander may oppose Ernest G. Shore in the opening game of the big series. Alexander has great speed. Shore has slightly less. Alexander has a great curve ball. So has Shore. Alexander has a fadeaway that is puzzling to left-hand batters. Shore has a fast ball that drops away from a left-hand batsman.

George (Babe) Ruth, the premier southpaw of the Red Sox, is 21 years old. Alexander as 28. Shore is 24.

A total of forty-six players will share in the distribution of the prize money—twenty-three on each of the teams.

Only two of the thirty-five players who figured in the 1903 Red Sox vs. Pittsburgh series are still in the major league. Both played with the Pirates. One is "Hans" Wagner, the other is Tommy Leach.

With the contests between the Athletics and Giants in 1905 the National Commission took charge of the world's series.

The best attendance for a world's series game at Philadelphia was on Oct. 17, 1910, at the opening game with the Cubs, when 26,981 fans attended.

Pitcher Ed Reulbach's one-hit game for the Cubs against the White Sox in 1906 is the nearest approach to a no-hit game in the classic.

The year 1906 marked the first and only time that two teams of the same city played in the world's series—the Cubs and White Sox being the National and American League pennant winners that year.

The total attendance at the three games of the first world's series in 1884 was less than 5,000.

Mathewson of the Giants won three games from the Athletics in the 1905 series, all of them being shut-outs. Adams of Pittsburgh beat Detroit three times in 1909. Jack Coombs downed the Cubs three times in 1910, and Joe Woods of the Red Sox landed three victories over the Giants in 1912.

Centrefielder Cravath of the Phillies leads both leagues in home-run hitting.

Umpire William Klem will appear in his seventh world's series.

Alexander, besides his four one-hit games this season, has pitched three two-hit games, one three-hit game, five four-hit games, and two five-hit games. His one-hit games were as follows: June 5, beat St. Louis, 3 to 0, the hit being made with two out in the ninth; June 26, beat Brooklyn, 4 to 0; July 5, beat Giants, 2 to 0; Sept. 29, beat Braves, 5 to 0.

The greatest crowd which ever saw a world's series game was in New York on Oct. 14, 1911, when 38,281 fans paid $77,359 to witness the first contest between the Giants and Athletics.

The smallest attendance at a world's series game turned out for the fifth and deciding game between the White Sox and the Cubs on Oct. 14, 1908, when 6,210 paid $9,577.50.

It is interesting to recall that in the thirty-two years of its unsuccessful fight for the flag the Philadelphia National League club finished in the second division only ten times—in 1889 they were sixth, but there were twelve clubs in the race that year. Three managers, Wright, Shettsline, and Dooin, were most successful, as each landed one of the three second places. Shettsline is the business manager of the team at present.

The victory of the Phillies leaves St. Louis and Cincinnati as the only two cities which have never won a pennant in the National League.

Business Manager Bill Shettsline of the Phillies has been with the team all the thirty-three years it has been trying to accomplish this year's result.

The right field wall of the Phillies ground is 273 feet from the home plate, from which point it is 334 feet straight down the left field foul line to the bleachers, a drive into which, either on the bounce or fly counts a home run. To get a home run on a hit to right field the ball must pass over the wall into Broad Street at a height of about forty feet from the ground or be caught in the screen that tops the wall.

Collectively Wood, Shore, Ruth, Foster, and Leonard of the Red Sox have better pitching records than Alexander, Mayer, Demaree, Chalmers, and Rixey of the Phillies.

Manager Carrigan may rely upon his right hand pitchers to check the batting of the Phillies, because eight of the National League champions who it is expected will take part in the first game are right-handed hitters, the only exception being Captain Luderus.

In batting in the American League the Red Sox have a team average of .253 as compared with the Phillies .247. The Red Sox rank second and the Phillies sixth. In other departments of the game the two teams are more nearly evenly matched. In team fielding the Phillies are fourth, with .965 and Boston second with the same percentage. They are almost of equal ability in speed, neither team being particularly strong as base-runners.

There are five of the Phillies who have played on championship teams in other world's series. These are Al Demaree the pitcher, who was with the Giants in 1913; Dugey and Whitted, who were with the Boston Braves last year; Becker of the Giants in 1911 and 1912; and Bobby Pyrne who was with the Pirates in 1909 when they beat Detroit 4 out of 7.

The Red Sox have what is generally regarded as the best pitching staff in baseball. The stars are Dutch Leonard, "Babe" Ruth, "Tex" Foster, Joe Wood, Ernie Shore, Ray Collins, Carl Mays and Gregg. The Phillies have Alexander, Mayer, Chalmers, McQuillan, Ben Tincup, and Al Demaree, right-handers and Baumgartner and Rixey left-handers.

Eighteen home runs have been made in the last eleven world's series of sixty-four games. Frank Baker, formerly of the ex-champion Athletics, leads with three. Pat Dougherty, who played with the Red Sox in the 1903 series and with the White Sox in 1906, has two to his credit, so has ex-Manager Fred Clarke of the Pittsburgh team, registered in 1903 and 1909. Those who have made single-circuit clouts are Jimmy Sebring of the 1903 Pirates, Danny Murphy when with the Athletics, Larry Doyle and Fred Merkle of the Giants, Wally Schang and Rube Oldring of the Athletics, Davy Jones and Sam Crawford of the Detroit, Joe Tinker of the Cubs, and Larry Gardner of the Red Sox, while Hank Gowdy joined the select few last year by slamming out a home run off Bush against the Athletics.

Until last year's four-game sweep by the Braves against the Athletics, ten series had been played in the modern world's championship series, and not once had any team secured the honors before at least five games had been played. Only once before had a team gone through a series without a victory. This happened in 1907, when the Cubs and Detroit tied at three runs each in the first game and the Cubs won the next four. Five times in the series five games have been necessary to decide the winner. In 1903, when Boston and Pittsburgh battled, eight games were played. The White Sox won four out of six from the Cubs in 1906. The Athletics and Giants played six in 1911, Detroit and Pittsburgh seven in 1909, and the Giants and Red Sox six in 1912, because one game ended in a tie. Boston and the Pirates played an eight-game series in 1903. The series was best five out of nine games. Since then the series has been best four out of seven.

RAIN KEEPS AUTOS OFF THE SPEEDWAY

Elimination Trials Postponed, but Monoplane Does Stunts for the Crowd.

The rain hoodoo is still lurking around the Sheepshead Bay Speedway. Yesterday the supplementary elimination trials were to have been held, but the rain made the track too slippery, and the trials were postponed until this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Bob Burman was out on the track in his Peugeot for a few minutes, and he reported to Starter Fred Wagner that the track was too wet and dangerous for the trials.

But the few hundred persons who went down to the track in the cold, rismal mist were treated to a number of thrills when John Domenjoz, the Swiss aviator, sailed high into the air in his Blériot monoplane and performed daring stunts that startled the spectators.

A few minutes before 3 o'clock Domenjoz started his engine and, after skipping along the track for a hundred feet, rose smoothly into the air and sailed around the track a few times. Then he started to drive his plane high in the air and soon it was lost to sight in the heavy clouds. The wind was blowing almost a gale at the time and the plane made little headway. A faint purr from the engine could be heard, then it suddenly ceased. With all eyes turned upward, the Swiss aviator shot into view again, coming straight down from the clouds. It was a daring volplane, but the sky mariner quickly righted his machine and sailed past the grand stand.

Domenjoz looped the loop, frontward and backward, in his twenty-minute flight, and he rose to a height of about 1,000 feet. He drove his plane through the air upside down for nearly a mile, and just before he landed he climbed up about 1,000 feet and volplaned straight down, landing as lightly as a feather on almost the same spot from which he started.

There is still doubt about Ralph De Palma starting in the Astor Cup race tomorrow, but Speedway officials assert that he will be one of the drivers. De Palma has been seen at the track only once since the Speedway was opened for practice. Report has it that his Mercedes car is not conditioned for racing, and it is probable the Mercedes will not be one of the starters. De Palma was to have driven a Stutz in the races at Trenton Wednesday, and he may drive a Stutz tomorrow.

EASTERN TRADE GOLF.

W. A. McPhail Captures Net Prize with Score of 71.

The Eastern Trade Golf Association ran off one of the biggest golf tournaments in its history yesterday, at the Essex County Country Club. More than fifty golfers started. When all the cards were returned W. A. McPhail, with 86—15—71, had won the first net prize. E. S. Aitwen, with 98—17—72, and W. C. Mattlack, with 98—22—76, took second and third, respectfully. The chief cup was offered by James M. Heatherton.

McPhail also showed the way in the bogey handicap, finishing five up, but as he could not take two trophies it left the first prize for Walter B. Lasher, who was all even with the "Colonel."

J. Barton Garfield, Captain of the association, distinguished himself by going around in 77, the best actual score of the day, for which no prize was offered. However, he had consolation in the fact that he won the prize for the least number of putts on the round. He had only 30, one putt only being taken on six greens. He had two twos, one on the twelfth and another on the seventeenth greens. Joseph I. Simmons, was the winner of the driving contest from the second tee, getting 250 yards with one stroke. Farnham Yardly and G. E. Sly won the foursomes with 87—15—72.

Brokers to Play Golf.

The Fall golf tournament of the Consolidated Stock Exchange takes place at the Wheatley Hills Golf Club course, East Williston, L. I., tomorrow. There will be three classes, A, B, and C. About fifty players have entered, an unusually large field for the Fall of the year. Archie Graham, three times New Jersey champion, is President of the Exchange Golf Club. After the tournament, a dinner will be served to the broker players at the Wheatley Hills Golf Clubhouse.

Weights for Sullivan Fund Boxing.

The committee in charge of the boxing tournament to be held at the New York A. C. and Crescent A. C. on Oct. 29 and 30, for the benefit of the Sullivan Memorial Fund, yesterday selected the following weights for their program: 108, 115, 125, 135, 145, 158, 175 pounds and heavyweight. It is still undecided what arrangement will be made for admission to these boxing exhibitions, but the Crescent A. C. appears to favor charging an admission of $1 and selling tickets to all who desire to attend. The Mercury Foot organization's intentions are undefined, but they probably will conduct the bouts as they have their tournaments in the past, permitting a member to invite a friend or two to the gymnasium.

WHITEHALL CLUB GOLF.

F. B. Geddes First in 36-Hole Medal Play Handicap.

A novel event of the annual Fall golf tournament of the Whitehall Club which was held at Scarsdale was the team match, the winners of which were to be the guests of the losers at luncheon at the Whitehall Club next Monday. Team A, composed of J. H. Burton, J. J. Cushing, James Barber, George Linn, Jonathan Moore, F. B. Geddes, Augustus Schoonmaker, H. D. Hawkes, F. H. Hall, W. H. Swenarton, and C. L. Watkins, had no difficulty in gaining the supremacy, the score being 13 to 6.

The winner of the 36-hole medal play handicap was F. B. Geddes, who turned in a card of 206—54, 152, and second to him was C. L. Watkins, whose card was 164—10, 154. The latter took first place in the other two events. In the match play against par, with a handicap of 4, he was but 3 down and he had the best of the selected scores for eighteen holes with 74—3, 71.

Under the rules of the tournament no player could receive two prizes. In view of this the committee gave first place in the 18-hole medal play, selected scores, to James Barber, who actually finished third, and second prize was a tie between H. D. Hawkes and F. H. Hall. The trophy in the match play against par went to E. C. Kerr, who was second to C. L. Watkins in the competition. E. C. Johnston and R. P. Walden were the winners of the best-ball foursome. The 36-hole event stood as it was played. The scores:

SHAWNEE GOLF STARTS.

James C. Parrish, Jr., Wins Medal in Qualifying Round.

Special to The New York Times.

SHAWNEE, Penn., Oct. 7.—By the comfortable margin of three strokes, James C. Parrish, Jr., representing the National Golf Links, won the medal in the eighteen hole qualifying round of the Autumn invitation golf tournament at the Shawnee Country Club today. Parrish made the round in 82. His playing companion, E. H. Worthington, of the home club, returned an 85 after going out in 39. An innovation in this affair is the presence of Mrs. Florian Krug, of New York, and Miss Marion Scott of Chicago, as contestants. As they had been playing here regularly they were invited by Charles C. Worthington, founder of the club, to enter the competition. The women consented and they played together in the medal play test, Mrs. Krug getting 105, but Miss Scott took nine strokes more.

Mrs. Krug is a member of both the Englewood and Shawnee clubs and Miss Scott is recognized as one of the leading women players at the Onwentsia club, near Chicago. The summaries:

First Sixteen—James C. Parrish, Jr., National Links, 82; E. H. Worthington, Shawnee, 85; Alex Coles, Shawnee, 87; R. S. Worthington, Shawnee, 88; R. M. C. Glenn, Upper Montclair, 93; Montford Mills, Englewood, 95; Joseph M. Byrne, Jr., Deal, 95; Samuel Allison, Midland, 96; C. B. Cummings, North Hills, 96; Frank J. Sheble, Shawnee, 98; Hugh Halsell, Dallas, 98; Cornelius Pinkney, Knollwood, 101; W. N. Price, Philadelphia Cricket Club, 102; H. L. David, North Hills, 102; Mrs. Florian Krug, Englewood, 105; W. S. Van Clief, Richmond County, 105.

Second Sixteen—J. F. Meehan, North Hills, 106; J. J. Adams, Upper Montclair, 107; Joseph M. Byrne, Sr., Deal, 109; Dr. Florian Krug, Englewood, 110; W. W. Umbenhauer, Lulu Temple Club, 113; Miss Marion Scott, Onwentsia, 114; H. R. Rice, Woodmere, 114; W. S. Kidd, Wykagyl, 115; H. H. Cornish, Aronimink, 125; R. P. Schenck, Baltusrol, 127; F. W. Shriver, Shawnee, 127; A. Corson, North Hills, 128; F. Breitinger, Philadelphia Cricket Club, 132; B. Sour, Woodmere, 135.

The second sixteen lacks two names on account of withdrawals.

J. B. Kremer Leads Insurance Golf.

Insurance men took possession of the links of the Country Club of Glen Ridge yesterday for a thirty-six hole medal play handicap. J. B. Kremer took the thirty-six hole gross prize with a card of 90, 88—178, while second prize went to O. W. Gott with 93, 93—186.

First net honors were taken by J. T. Harrison, with 193, 40—153. There was a tie for second between E. W. McCrea and R. D. Jones, who had respective cards of 207, 48—159 and 209, 50—159.

A special prize was offered for the best eighteen hole performance, and J. B. Kremer won with 88, while the net went to W. T. Larned for his 209, 30—179.

A flag competition was won by A. Duncan Reid, and Nelson Sterling was the successful player in the putting. S. P. Smith carried off the thirty-six hole scratch prize for guests.

A PRIMARY TAX PRINCIPLE.

Controller PRENDERGAST testified regarding tax reform in this State that "instead of two or three or four "taxes it would be better to find one "form of taxation to meet all your "requirements, and put your effort "on that." He could not have struck a stronger blow against the parody of all principles of taxation embodied in our present system and made worse by maladministration. The theory of our present system is to tax everything, every rod of land, every single person on everything except realty, and then to the taxes on all realty and all personalty are added certain other taxes which would be needless if even our bad laws were enforced, and which would be a ridiculous superfluity if the tax laws of the State approximated what is known about how to lay taxes.

The first thought on reading the testimony is the hopelessness of the finances of city and State. The second thought is that the true resources of neither are appreciated or used even under our bad system, and that the ability of New York to produce taxes levied intelligently is so great that there is danger in discovering it. The true use of the present crisis is to force an improvement of tax method, not to enlarge spending power. Hitherto the finding of a dollar in the till has instantly been followed by hasty studies of ways to spend it. We ought to have reached the maximum of expenditure for a while. The discovery of new taxes should be reserved for the relief of taxpayers for a time.

Meanwhile the truly shocking testimony daily ought not to be wasted, or allowed to strengthen the plans of those with nostrums to recommend. There are no very new ideas in taxation worthy of an instant's thought compared with the old. The trouble is that the New York methods date back to the era of the first Erie Canal, before even European communities had studied local taxation. Our present laws were drawn by men who never saw a locomotive and had never dreamed of our corporate development. There have been additions in the modern manner, but all attempts at general revision have failed. What is called for is not patchwork, but a new garment. The first step in that direction is to understand how wrong and impossible it is to tax everybody and everything equally.

Correct taxation calls for equality of treatment of all subjects of taxation of the same class. Equality of taxation of things of different character or of different income yield is inequality of the worst sort. Good practice is along the lines of the Controller's testimony; that is, taxation is better concentrated than diffused. It is easy to select a few subjects of taxation which will themselves diffuse the burden better or more equitably than the device of multiplying subjects of taxation. Where taxes are levied indirectly upon a multiplicity of objects they escape attention and leave those who really pay them in indolent indifference. Freedom from multitudinous taxes, espionage, and vexations, freedom from needless official intrusions, freedom from provocations to perjury, freedom for prosperity, these are the qualities of good taxation. Nothing could be further from that standard than the taxation of everything and "every person," and then looking for untaxed victims.

There is now daily demonstration of the wicked injustice of inequality in the taxation of like objects. There is tolerably fair taxation of 535,267 separate parcels of realty, at a cost of assessment of $1 each. There are exceptions, but within toleration of human error. The preposterous procedure now on exhibition for the last time puts on the rolls some fourscore thousand names. The customary number of names on the personal roll is under 30,000. There is no doubt that the persons taxable under the property tax outnumber the parcels of realty. Imagine assessing some millions at a cost of $1 apiece. The Mayor's "diligence" in enforcing the law is better described by another word. If a true list of personal taxes had been made there would have been an uproar. Also if the full personal tax could be justly collected throughout the State the direct tax would burden neither State nor city. The thing is impossible. It used to be lawful to collect personal taxes by disclosures under torture.

AT THE WORLD'S MIDDLE.

Nearly every brand of human fat now is in the Balkan fire. This, the largest and most easterly of southern Europe's three great peninsulas, is war's favorite playground. It is littered with man's weapons and idols from twilight time; here is the very middle of the world; here is the mysterious Mediterranean, eroding the shores of three continents—Europe, Asia, and Africa. People in this tense, inquieting physical environment have been always perhaps a little mad, but never so unreasoning, so unreasonable, so emotionally fragile, so hopelessly the children of superstition as they seem to be now. Greece is a household divided, unable to make up her mind either to enter the war or stay out of it. Bulgaria lifts her arm against both Greece and Serbia, her Christian neighbors, companions in immemorial suffering under the Mohammedan's yoke, and fights on the side of the Turk. That would be madness enough. But Europe also is mad. Europe also is by hatreds divided. The Teutonic forces are resolved to break a thoroughfare across the Balkan peninsula to reach the Turk at Constantinople. The way lies across Serbia, which is unwilling to give it, and then through Bulgaria, which has been won over by gifts and promises. So the Austro-German forces must hack their path through Serbia. They have suddenly invaded her from the north in large numbers.

Meantime the Anglo-French forces necessary to resist this movement have already begun to be landed at Saloniki, in Greece, from where it is a short journey to the southern frontier of Serbia. Greece is still neutral. The Allies had counted on her taking part with them when Bulgaria went the other way, but Greeks, now as when ALCIBIADES said it, will not move their minds until their flesh begins to creep, wherefore the Anglo-French forces are being landed anyway at Saloniki, because the Serbian business will not wait.

What next will happen Heaven only knows! Somewhere soon in Serbia, Europe will meet Europe and fight for the road to Asia. What more would ALLAH have? More blood than the Crusaders spilled in this same highway will be spilled for reasons even more baffling to human understanding. The Anglo-French forces are bound to protect Serbia, but that obligation is not the only thought that makes them violate the neutral ground of Greece and throw themselves across the path of Teutons facing Asia. The jewels of the British Empire lie in that direction. The prize may not be Constantinople. The Turk still is holding both his capital and the Dardanelles without Germany's direct assistance. But behind the Turk, not very far, lie Egypt and India. Those are the British jewels.

Italy has not been mentioned. It was thought when she went into the war that she would cross the Adriatic and invade Austria through Serbia, the easiest, most objective way, instead of which she pushed only to the north, on a purely private adventure, and has made almost no impression on great events. It may have been the typhus fever in Serbia, or it may have been something you would not think of. Italy has not yet declared war upon Germany. It is clear that if Italy had gone directly to the side of Serbia, as she seemed at first to think of doing, these other things might not now be taking place on the Balkan peninsula. Time now is precious. The Allies have to transport their armies, whereas the Austro-German forces have only to cross a river.

"FOR DEFENSE."

The President will demand more warships, more men in the army and navy, a larger supply of munitions for defense. That will be the slogan. Defense against war, however, is preparedness for war. We have no thought of warlike actions against any other nation. We have no grudges to settle, we are not anxious to increase our domain, we cherish ill-feeling for no other people. But because of the nearness of war, because the fact of war has been strongly impressed upon us, because recent events have shown us how easily peaceable nations can have war forced upon them, we are going to prepare ourselves for defense, to meet war with war if we are compelled to. Our navy and army have been neglected in a long period of peace, and their defects must be remedied.

There is no doubt that this movement for stronger national defenses which the President heads will be well supported. It may be associated in the Congressional discussions with a few political vagaries, extraneous matters may be temporarily confused with the important work in hand, but there is no need to apprehend dangerous Congressional opposition to a sound program of national defense. All over the country the movement is growing. The various societies pledged to further the cause are working to good purpose. Iteration is most helpful in keeping an idea in the public mind. In this city the Mayor has appointed a committee of 1,000 to encourage defense plans, and a similar committee will probably be appointed by the Governor of the State, who will formally call upon the Federal Government to protect New York in case of war. In other States and other great cities similar action has been taken. There will be no lack of public support of the plans of the President and his Cabinet, therefore, and there will be no political opposition to them that will count for much.

But when it comes to raising the forces of the regular army to, say, 150,000, to increasing the navy by 50,000 recruits, and upbuilding the National Guard in all the States by filling all the existing regiments and making the organized militia conform to the established system of the regular army, there will be a problem to solve which will require all the energy, all the eloquence, all the patriotism that can be devoted to it. By reducing the term of service with the colors in the regular army to two years, and providing for payment to the recruit during his three years in the reserve, sufficient to meet all the expenses that service entails, and perhaps a little more; by paying a trifling wage annually to the National Guardsmen, reducing the term of enlistment with the colors in the Guard, and establishing a paid reserve in that body, the difficulty will be only partly overcome. The experienced soldier will testify that recruiting is always a hard job. In the excitement of war time a call to arms is generously responded to, but we are going to upbuild our land and sea defenses in a time of peace and we cannot in a republic hold out rich inducements to men to enlist. We pay our soldiers much better than any other country, we cannot afford to pay more. There are many thousands of men all over the country well fitted for army and navy service. There is no shortage of men. But to get at the right men, to make them understand the need of the hour, to start them on their career as national defenders, is a task which requires devotion, eloquence, and energy. Here the defense societies and the committees appointed by Governors and Mayors can be of great service.

REGRETTABLE ERROR OF THE FEMINISTS.

Mr. WILSON is used to being misunderstood, yet it must be painful to him, when he has just declared his faith in the political capacity of women, to find himself misunderstood by some of the most illustrious advocates of the Cause. Mrs. JAMES LEES LAIDLAW, Chairman of the Manhattan Borough Branch of the Suffrage Party, tells him, in a message of engaging faith and fervor:

> Thousands of women who are working with consecration and high purpose—home women, working women, professional women—all through New York State are filled with new zeal to follow the leadership of our President in this great reform and to actualize your ideal of justice and democracy for the womanhood of our land.

In the same spirit and blinded by the same misapprehension, Miss MARY GARRETT HAY, Chairman of the Suffrage Party, makes the wires tingle with a hymn of great joy:

> We, the Woman Suffrage Party of New York City, numbering over 200,000 men and women, rejoice that we have a President of the United States who thoroughly believes in and stands for a true democracy.

And so the whole choir of jubilant sisters. But "our President," "the President of the United States," has not "come out" for Votes for Women. He will vote for the woman suffrage amendment "only as upon his [my] "private conviction as a citizen of "New Jersey, called upon by the Leg-"islature of the State to express his "conviction at the polls." Not as President of the United States, at most as a former President of Princeton University, will he cast that vote. It will not be a Democratic vote, for the Democratic Party of New Jersey is not committed to woman suffrage. It will be the vote of Mr. WILSON of Princeton, not of President WILSON of Washington. No official sanction, authority, or influence attaches to it. Mr. WILSON'S share in "the great reform" is private, personal, individual. So JOHN ATHANASIUS JONES of Parsippany, if he is now a Freeholder and a suffragist, will vote on Oct. 19, not as a Freeholder, but as plain, purely private, JOHN ATHANASIUS JONES.

Great must be the vexation of Mr. WILSON that so simple a distinction, so easy a division of the public and the private personality, should elude the acute and experienced laborers for justice and democracy. Some of them are even dreaming pink visions of the Southern States, redeemed, disenthralled, emancipated. Of course, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, and Massachusetts are already "won in a walk and carried by a landslide." Triumph is to be won by "the strong statement given out by the President," as the National American Woman Suffrage Association erroneously says. This is "not the way in which the great question should be handled," as Mr. WILSON remarks in English which he must have borrowed unconsciously from Mr. REDFIELD or Mr. McADOO. The President has made no statement. For the enlightenment of the cohorts of the Cause, THE TIMES takes the liberty of making this correction of their egregious error. Once get the voters—mere men, given to resentments and angers unknown to celestial bosoms—once get the voters to suspect that the President of the United States is interfering in the domestic concerns of four States, and who can estimate what contusions justice and true democracy may suffer from rude hands. "President WILSON can't tell me how to "vote": the aspiring and admirable suffrage sisterhood little knows, in the innocence of its heart, how impatient of control, how pig-headed, how wrong-headed, menfolks can be.

Mr. WILSON'S statement "should be handled" very delicately. It may kick better than it shoots.

HALF-BAKED LEGISLATION.

A Kansas Judge having dared to make some criticism of the multiplicity of statutes restricting personal liberty and creating new offenses, there has been a renewal of assaults upon the judiciary, divers intelligent citizens of the Sunflower State curiously believing that he was squinting at their favorite fetich, Prohibition. One would suppose that the passion for legislation and the enactment of fool laws in recent years were too notorious to be brought in doubt. Congress and the State Legislatures swarm with crank bills. The Kansas City Journal quotes from Mr. HENRY M. HYDE some amusing or depressing details. In Massachusetts in 1914 "about every one in twenty of the citizens" was arrested; 176,000 arrests. In Chicago the percentage was about the same, and "more than half of the 125,000 people "arrested in Chicago in 1914 were "charged with committing crimes "which had no existence" in 1894. Chicago has not grown worse. It is the victim of the pragmatical meddlers of the Legislature. The number of arrests has nearly doubled in the last seven years.

The most virtuous or vicious place in the United States is the Missouri Kansas City. Its population is under 300,000. In the year ended June 30, 1915, the police made 55,000 arrests; nearly one of every five persons. If the good work of the lawmakers goes on, everybody in Kansas City may be sure of falling into the hands of the police once a year. Utopia on the map, perfection realized.

"It is a felony in Texas," The Kansas City Journal tells us, "to play cards on a train." Mr. HYDE gives some appealing instances of the legislative genius:

> In Indiana men have been arrested for rolling a cigarette. In Illinois the cell yawns for a woman whose hat-pin projects more than half an inch beyond the crown of her hat. * * * A bill was recently introduced into Congress providing a penitentiary sentence for any man who publicly exhibits a clock which is either fast or slow.
>
> Another bill provided a term in the penitentiary for any man who should put his feet on the desk while dictating to a young lady stenographer.

Will there ever be a reaction against the making of superfluous statutes without end?

THE CROPS.

The first billion bushel wheat crop, and a little more! Also the three billion bushel corn crop, for the second time. Also the biggest oat crop. Also the biggest hay crop. But why proceed? This is the biggest crop year. Even the South has raised grain crops more valuable than the most valuable cotton crop ever picked, something never before imagined.

The South is blessed with a short cotton crop this year, and prices are booming. The short crop with the surplus of the "calamitous" crop of last year is now about the average of the last three years, and the prices are now better for sellers than for buyers. On the other hand, the grain crops of this year are superabundant, to the extent that prices are lower than producers like. The contrary movements are consistent with each other. Cotton is short because it was abundant before. Grain is abundant because it was scarce and dear last year. Both movements are natural and economic, and make preposterous the proposals of interference with the natural course of events.

The Treasury, which is on the verge of exhaustion itself, made offers of assistance which neither bankers nor producers welcomed or used. The proposals to "coin" cotton, or turn it into currency, and the laws to make cotton culture criminal ought to make their authors blush now. There was no such nonsense regarding grain, and the same result has been reached without hysterics. When the proposal is that the Treasury or the Legislatures should gild the roseate prospect for those who are rolling in unimagined wealth, it is impossible not to reflect upon the littleness of man, the greatness of Nature, and the wisdom of sometimes letting things alone.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Merit and Fame Are Unlike.

If those Eminent Persons who have undertaken to select names for inscription in what they call—and therefore is—a Hall of Fame, will continue to reject names like that of PAUL JONES, they need not be surprised at hearing, every time they do it, jeers from the light-minded and protest from those of a serious turn. For really it is a little too absurd to deny that PAUL JONES was famous in his day or that he is famous now.

To be sure, in his day there were people not a few to declare "infamous" a better characterization of him, and it seems some still affect to be in doubt whether he was a patriot or a pirate, but there was nothing in his record to offend the Lady with the Trumpet, and the multitude, who alone can confer fame, long since decided the question in his favor.

The trouble with the Eminent Persons is that the task they undertook—and of course are performing most conscientiously—was not that of noting who is famous, but of deciding who ought to be famous, a wholly different and almost unrelated matter. Whenever, in their opinion, a man did not earn worthily the fame he had and has, they try to take it away from him and to give it to somebody who, in spite of what they consider high desert, yet failed to win the wonder and admiration of the general public. The effort is legitimate, it is even noble, but its result will inevitably be more than a little ridiculous.

That is what has happened, is happening, and will happen, at the amiable edifice on University Heights. The names written there in all too many instances either drive the chance observer to the biographical dictionaries for information or they impel him to exclamatory utterances of the sort that should never be heard in such a place—that never would be heard there if the inscribed names of the really famous did not have interspersed among them so many of the—one does not like to say "merely meritorious," but there seems to be no way of avoiding it.

Fame is a matter of fact, not of right or justice, and it is none the less fame if ill-earned or the more fame if well-earned. The only difference is that it will last longer in the latter case—usually, but by no means always. As for PAUL JONES, he both is famous and deserves to be, for he was a very gallant gentleman of his time. He had his faults, and wisdom did not die with him, but he never yearned for "safety first," did not think peace worth any price, and was never heard to remark that "business is business."

Indiana Honors Her Poet.

That all of the people in Indiana devoted many hours, or even any, yesterday, to celebrating the birth of the State's best loved and most distinguished poet could not very safely be assumed. A good many of them, however, did something along that line and in Indianapolis itself "Riley Day" seems truly to have been "a precious season."

The formal and official setting aside of a day for such a purpose was something quite without precedent in this country, and Indiana has a good right to be almost as proud of it as Mr. RILEY should be and doubtless is. His rank among poets cannot be determined by his own generation, but variance of opinion as to the merits of his verse never goes so far as to deny that it is real poetry, and that in itself is high praise.

It will trouble some of Mr. RILEY'S sincere admirers to hear of his saying that in these days he does not read the newspapers because they contain so much about war, and he always avoids the shocking and the painful. A greater bard than he declared a wider sympathy and proclaimed a nobler courage in a few words claiming kin to all that's human. Perhaps Mr. RILEY was misquoted or did not mean exactly what he said. Certainly not a few of his poems justify the hope. The Raggedy Man would go to the front in case of need, one feels sure, and Mr. RILEY'S Muse would follow him there, gentle as she is, and Orphant Annie wouldn't be further behind than the most advanced field hospital if she grew into the sort of woman one would expect.

"Riley Day" will give Indiana a lot of enviable advertising as a State where art and literature have due appreciation. Whether or not it behooves other States to imitate her example and institute like "days" of their own can be left for later decision—till the other States have poets whose appeal to the heart is as direct and effectual as Mr. RILEY'S.

He Waits to End His Task.

Of course General GOETHALS has withdrawn his resignation and will remain in Panama till his work is done. He is that sort of man and engineer. There is no more glory for him to gain on the Isthmus, and presumably he is deadly tired of its heats and rains, but to leave the conquering of these big slides to others wouldn't be quite soldierly and therefore was not for him.

The change in the General's plans hints that there is something serious in the situation—possibly of the need to adopt some new scheme for keeping the envious and offended hills from avenging the cruel wrongs they have suffered. They have been cut and slashed in utter disregard of their habits and sensibilities, and it is little wonder that they resent their injuries. Never having held themselves up except by leaning on each other, they may well ask why they are expected to do it now.

General GOETHALS will tell them why and show them how. But his stay in the tropics should not be too long or too nearly continuous. Much as the health conditions on the Isthmus have been improved, it still is not a good place for men from the North to live in year after year. It never will be.

A Characteristic Attitude.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In THE TIMES of last Monday is noted Secretary Garrison's rather lukewarm pronunciamento in favor of woman suffrage. After referring to the possibility of good resulting from the change, the honorable Secretary of War says: "On the other hand, the only question to be considered is the extra expense involved in practically doubling the number of voters. This consideration is, I think, entirely negligible."

Without troubling to question just how sincere Mr. Garrison's support may be, he has surely shown himself to be a politician. Added expense to the public, added taxation are "entirely negligible" considerations from his standpoint. That attitude may be said to be diagnostic of the politician class, who fritter away our money; but do we, the people, who "pay the freight" feel just that way about it? Too often we fail to remember who has been most reckless for expenditures in special lines calculated to "make votes." Now the question is put fairly up to us. Shall we vote "yes" and agree with Mr. Garrison that additional expenditure is "entirely negligible," or shall we vote "no" and call a halt on the politicians' recklessness with moneys not their own but ours? A Plea for Proportion in the Judgment of Atrocities.

New York, Oct. 6, 1915.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In view of the fact that we have been treated for the last few weeks with almost daily tales of atrocities among the Armenians, it is interesting to quote from a letter by Freiherr Fr. W. von Bissing, son of the Governor General of Belgium, written more than two months ago. He refers to an article in the Journal de Geneve of July 10 in which mention is made of the persecution of the Armenians. He writes: "I have always waited for him, for he belongs to the necessary armaments of the enemies of the Turks. At last he is there: the poor Armenian! * * * 'Three Jews,' so an Oriental proverb says, 'are as slick as one Greek, but three Greeks are only equal to one Armenian.' It is worth while to remember this saying at the present time when a new ally of the Entente has made its appearance—the poor Armenian. I am waiting impatiently for the moment when other ballons d'essai will follow, and I am curious to see if the attention of the world will thereby successfully be switched from Russian pogroms and Galician cruelties to the poor Armenian."

In the first few months of the European cataclysm newspaper reports and more or less unconnected articles were widely circulated which told of the cruelties of warfare against combatants and noncombatants. Occasionally one or the other of the belligerent Governments took official notice of such alleged cruelties, but only in special instances, with no attempt to bring the accusations into a more permanent form. Belgium, of course, has been the hotbed of contentions, although in France a book has been edited by Professor Bedier containing documents strongly anti-German. Probably no publication has received as wide a circulation and has been as frequently commented upon as the so-called "Belgian Atrocity Report," sponsored by Viscount Bryce. The German Government has delayed publications of a similar nature. But recently a report was published on the conduct of the Russians in East Prussia and now elaborate documents have appeared bearing on the Belgian situation. These documents chiefly deal with franc-tireur war in Belgium. In these papers many of the German actions in Belgium which have brought about strong resentment in this country are directly traced to the franc-tireur war. In the completeness and in the character of the affidavits, the German publication exhibits the same thoroughness which has proved its effectiveness in many other directions. The bulk of the affidavits have apparently been taken within a short time after the occurrence and certainly a long time before the Bryce report was published. The neutral observer, as a consequence, would be inclined to balance these two reports against each other.

It is not our intention to decry or to commend the publication of such reports. They are there for everybody to read who cares to do so, and they are recognized as ex parte presentations of occurrences that everybody is unquestionably sorry for. When this German report reached us, we thought that it might be discussed in somewhat the same form as the Bedier and Bryce pamphlets have recently been commented upon. But on second thought we are persuaded that it can serve no purpose to meet accusation with accusation, or denial with denial, or assertion with assertion. We have rather concluded that the interest of our common humanity would better be served by not spreading the charges made from every side.

May we therefore be permitted to say that we do not believe that at this time one should single out any of the belligerent nations for accusations of actrocities and excesses, unfortunately always incidental to war? Do you not think it most remarkable, considering that nearly 12,000,000 men are now active on various battlefields, that we have heard so little about outrages? In times of peace, when no weapons of destruction are generally accessible and when passions are largely controlled, the yearly cases of lawless conduct amount, according to generally accepted statistical figures, to about 3½ per cent. of the total population. It appears, at least to us, that the sense of responsibility, constantly impressed upon their soldiers by the leaders of all modern armies, had decreased or lessened even that percentage of excesses which we, of necessity, should have to reckon with in armies so vast in numbers.

Esperanto in the Bronx.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to thank and congratulate you for your true and humorous editorial in Sunday's paper in reference to the so-called international language Ro.

The very fact of one's inability to get one's tongue around such sentences and word formations as are characteristic of Ro precludes the possibility of its ever being very widely accepted. Fortunately, however, the international language idea is by no means destined to share the fate of Ro; and it may be interesting to your readers to know that Esperanto has been steadily gaining ground for the last twenty-five years, and that it has never been more "alive" than at the present moment.

How Much for Canada?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The English loan has been satisfactorily launched. Well and good, but if the war continues, England will again come borrowing, and next time she will encounter more difficulty in obtaining funds. If she obtains them at all, it will be at a higher figure. The proposal I am about to make is, therefore, altogether within the bounds of good business. In the hour of a nation's greatest financial need, she turns her outlying possessions into capital. France sold us Louisiana and a vast territory to the north and west. Russia sold us Alaska. I propose that England sell us Canada.

The Rev. Mr. Bocock's Avocation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I note in THE TIMES this morning a letter from Mrs. Caroline R. Bocock objecting to the name of the Rev. Kemper Bocock appearing in the papers in connection with psychic matters, saying: "The papers have taken a great liberty in using his honorable name * * * in connection with a subject toward which during his lifetime I knew him to be greatly opposed." I would like to say that during his lifetime the Rev. Mr. Bocock was a member of the Society of Psychical Research.

Distribute Your Holidays.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Columbus Day commemorates one of the greatest events in history. It comes at a delightful time of year, and should be universally observed. Many employes of retail establishments are deprived of this and other holidays on account of the selfish practice of deferring our shopping until those occasions. Remember, every purchase made on a holiday has a very strong tendency to prevent the stores from closing on future ones, and is an injustice to the hard-working employes.

Then What Would Monkeys Do?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If your correspondents who wrote to you about the monkey and the organ grinder had investigated further they would probably have found a circlet of sores around the monkey's throat. The S. P. C. A. might then have been asked to take charge of the case. What is needed is an "interstate" regulation to prevent organ grinders from carrying monkeys around this country at all. They are not clean, (I mean the monkeys, of course,) and sometimes climb inside of windows and frighten people.

The Advantages of a Household Tax That Could So Easily Be Laid Upon the Privilege of Living in New York.

By VICTOR MORAWETZ.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The value of real estate in the City of New York is due to the fact that New York is the principal centre of business and of wealth in the United States. Any system of taxation which would drive business or wealth out of the City of New York would defeat itself by lowering real estate values and by lessening the amount of personal property subject to taxation. The revenue required to maintain and improve the city and to pay interest on its debt must be raised by taxation, but every effort should be made to devise a system of taxation that will not drive away business and wealth or cause people to establish their residence outside of the city.

In a letter published in THE NEW YORK TIMES on Jan. 9, 1914, I urged that the existing tax upon personal property be abolished and that there be substituted a habitation tax based upon the value of dwellings occupied by residents and upon the number of servants employed by them for comfort, pleasure, or display.

Experience has shown that the New York general personal property tax cannot be enforced fairly and that no large sum can be raised by this tax. Experience in other cities has shown that even though the rate of a general personal property tax be low and though there be a close inquisition into the property of individuals, such a tax results in much tax dodging, partiality, and unfairness, and that its enforcement involves much expense, besides causing much annoyance to citizens. Besides, such a tax always bears heavily upon business and enterprise.

The existing general personal property tax, therefore, should be abolished and there should be substituted some form of personal tax which will not tend to drive business or wealth out of the city, which can be apportioned fairly among all the people living in the city, so that the rate may be very low, and which cannot be dodged or evaded by any one.

It is suggested that there be imposed upon every person dwelling in the City of New York a tax measured by the assessed value (less the exemption hereinafter mentioned) of the house and lot occupied by him as a dwelling, or if the dwelling be a flat or part of a building, by a proportionate part of the assessed value of the building and of the lot or lots upon which it stands. The tax should be strictly a personal tax, and should be payable by every person occupying a dwelling, whether as owner or as lessee. Any agreement of a landlord to assume the tax payable by a tenant should be void. The proposed tax should be measured by the assessed value of dwellings, rather than by their rental value, partly because this basis is the fairer one and partly because an assessment based upon rent paid or rental value would be likely to result in inequality and abuse.

The tax should be imposed upon every person occupying a dwelling in the city, whether his legal residence be in the city or elsewhere. The tax should not be imposed upon a person occupying a dwelling less than thirty days, and a person occupying a dwelling during only part of the year should be required to pay only a proportionate part of the tax. However, the owner or lessee of a dwelling should be held to occupy it as long as he keeps it furnished for the use and occupation of himself or family, though the dwelling may be temporarily closed or the occupant be temporarily absent. Thus, a person leasing and occupying a dwelling in New York six months and then moving away from New York should be required to pay the tax for only one-half of the year; but an owner or lessee of a dwelling keeping it throughout the year for the use or occupation of himself or family should be liable to pay the tax for the entire year, though his legal residence be at Newport, R. I., or at Westbury, L. I., and though he may close the dwelling and be absent from New York during the greater part of the year.

Every occupant of a dwelling should be allowed an exemption of a fixed sum, say $6,000, from the assessed value of his dwelling in assessing the tax. Occupants of dwellings of an assessed value less than the prescribed sum should be wholly exempt.

Each owner or lessee of a dwelling occupied by him with others should be required to pay the tax as though the sole occupant; but he should be allowed a deduction from the value of the dwelling on which the tax is assessed for each member of his family and each dependent (not including servants and employes) living with him. To prevent lessees and persons living in hotels and apartments from escaping the tax provision should be made for returns by landlords and hotel keepers.

Some of the advantages of such a tax would be:

1. The tax would be fairly apportioned among all those who have the benefit of residence within the city.
2. There could be no under or over assessment, inasmuch as the tax would be based upon the value of dwellings as assessed for the real estate tax.
3. The tax could not be dodged or evaded by any one.
4. The precise revenue derived from the tax at a given rate could be determined accurately in advance.
5. The tax would not be a tax upon business or production, but it would be a tax upon the consumption of wealth for comfort, pleasure, and display.

It is a mistake to assume that such a tax would be merely an additional tax upon real estate, and would impair the value of dwelling house property. Every tax upon residents of the city, whether it be a personal property tax or a habitation tax, must to some extent increase the cost of living in the city, and thereby indirectly affect the value of dwelling house property. However, as the proposed habitation tax could be apportioned and enforced fairly so that its rate would be very low, I am convinced that more revenue could be obtained from such a tax without driving away business or wealth, and without impairing the value of real estate, than from any system of taxing personal property that can be devised.

VICTOR MORAWETZ.

RHETORICAL WAR PICTURES.

A Discrepancy Between Mr. Alexander Powell and Sir John French.

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 2, 1915.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If our citizens like to write and read emotional rhetoric about the war, it is their own affair, of course. If our war correspondents like to glorify the British military, that, too, is no business of mine. But the spreading of picturesque misinformation is an injurious thing in its way, and I suppose it is everybody's concern to oppose a falsification of the facts of history.

In an article entitled "On the British Battle Line," in Scribner's Magazine for October, E. Alexander Powell says among other things: "It was against the British, remember, that the Germans first used their poisonous gas. I happened to be on the British front at the time, and it was from one of the survivors that I heard the story." The survivor told Mr. Powell some strange things apparently: "All along the British line men inhaled that poisonous odor and collapsed. Some of them tried to hold their breath, but the gas cloud enveloped them in its stifling embrace. Still, they hung on, dazed, gasping for breath, half blinded, waiting for the German rush which they knew must follow." Sure enough, the Germans rushed, "sinister and inhuman," drugged with "rum and ether," but "hoarsely cheering." "But the line of panting, coughing, retching Englishmen stood firm. Their rifles and machine guns vomited a blast of lead which halted the oncoming Germans as abruptly as though they had run head first into a stone wall. Before the storm of shrapnel which the British batteries turned loose upon them they scattered as leaves are scattered by an Autumn wind. In three minutes it was all over."

Against Mr. Powell's "word picture" let us set the testimony of another observer who also "happened to be on the British front at the time."

"It was," notes this one, "at the commencement of the second battle of Ypres, on the evening of April 22, referred to in Paragraph 1 of this report, that the enemy first made use of asphyxiating gas." He continues circumstantially: "Following a heavy bombardment, the enemy attacked the French division at about 5 P. M., using asphyxiating gases for the first time. * * * What follows almost defies description. The effect of these poisonous gases was so virulent as to render the whole of the line held by the French division mentioned above practically incapable of any action at all. * * * The smoke and fumes hid everything from sight, and hundreds of men were thrown into a comatose or dying condition, and within an hour the whole position had to be abandoned, together with about fifty guns." To leave no stain upon brave men, he adds his "firm conviction that if any troops in the world had been able to hold their trenches in the face of such a treacherous and altogether unexpected onslaught, the French division would have stood firm."

Obviously, either Mr. Powell's account of the first German gas or this observer's account is ridiculous; they simply have no relation to each other. In this divergence, it is necessary to sacrifice Mr. Powell. What the Tommy told him ceases to exist when set against the statement of Sir John French, from whom I have just quoted.

To supplement the British Commander on matters of military fact seems painting the lily with a vengeance. But if it is of the smallest interest, I might note that I was in Dunkirk Station—Hopital d'Evacuation Numero Dix, as it was officially known—as early as 1:30 o'clock on the morning of April 23. We had been turned out of our billet and our beds to evacuate a special hospital train just in from the railhead at Poperinghe. In the regular course of work we moved to base-hospitals that morning many of the first victims of German gas, then hardly six hours from their trenches. They were French.

I might add another equally well-known fact. The British heroes of the night of April 22 were Canadians.

HENRY SYDNOR HARRISON.

THREE KINDS OF WOMEN.

And How They Severally React to the Casting of a Ballot.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a slight contribution to the suffrage controversy may I cite a bit of personal experience? Three women, friends of my girlhood, all of whom had married and settled in suffrage States, visited me not long ago at short intervals apart. I eagerly questioned them about their experiences regarding the use and value of the ballot.

To my inquiry the first woman replied: "I have never voted in my life and never intend to." She intimated further that she felt under no moral obligation to vote, since, in her State, the vote had been imposed upon the women of the State without first obtaining or even asking their consent, and for the most part against their will.

The second woman admitted having voted once, and spoke of the event apologetically. "I voted only to oblige Fred [her husband], who wanted to get an office for a friend of his and asked me to help. I knew nothing of the man myself, but, of course, I couldn't refuse Fred, so I drove my motor about town all day, picking up men and carrying them to the polls. That was enough for me. No more in mine. I'm done with politics. It's a man's game. I take no interest in it whatever."

The third woman gave a different answer. She was a Quakeress. "Yes, I always vote," she replied. "I consider it my duty to do so, and I try to fulfill my duty to the best of my ability. But I realize that I don't know anything personally about the candidates and don't understand what I am voting about half of the time. I realize that my vote is of no value, and that in case it were disputed I couldn't enforce it. I never go to the polls without a feeling in my heart of resentment and indignation. I say to myself, this is a man's business. They ought to attend to it themselves."

The above bit of testimony is limited, of course, but is first hand and authentic.

PRESTONA MANN MARTIN.
Hurricane, N. Y., Oct. 2, 1915.

The Worship of Ugliness.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I leave out of consideration the suggestion of Mr. Carroll Beckwith that recent developments in art have been "pernicious and monstrous," and the other one that our innocent students should be saved from such "perversities" by lectures in morals—in the Ruskin manner, no doubt. Let me deal with one point in his letter in your issue of Oct. 4.

He says that, on visiting the Vollard Gallery in Paris, two years ago, he was "horrified to find the entire collection consisting of the most extreme works of the Cubists, Futurists, Pointillists, and all the extreme schools of the mental maniacs."

Mr. Beckwith must be incapable of telling the difference between a Renoir and a Cubist, or a Degas and a Futurist. How, then, could we expect him to tell a Cezanne or a Gauguin when he saw it?

In spite of Mr. Beckwith, the Vollard Gallery owes its fame—as everybody but Mr. Beckwith knows—to its richness in the works of Renoir, Degas, and Cezanne. It is to see the paintings of these masters that people go there from all over Europe and America.

New York, Oct. 4, 1915.

Unfair Politics.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to correct an impression made by a statement in your paper in which it said that the antis had torn down a suffrage poster. This poster had been placed surreptitiously, at the instigation of the leader of the Suffrage Party here, in the theatre in which the antis were holding their meeting. The antis' cry of "unlawful" about the tearing down of their poster by a suffragist was not raised by the mere tearing down of the posters, but because these posters were torn down from the private property belonging to or controlled by an anti. Therefore trespassing, which is "unlawful," was committed.

C. R. TOBIN WEDS MISS RUTH HASKINS

San Francisco Lawyer Marries Daughter of Mrs. Charles Waldo Haskins.

SISTER IS MAID OF HONOR

The Rev. Father Sefnon Performs Ceremony in Bride's Home—Bridegroom Is a Polo Player.

The wedding of Cyril Richard Tobin of San Francisco, a son of the late Colonel Robert Tobin and Mrs. Tobin, and Miss Ruth H. Haskins, a daughter of Mrs. Charles Waldo Haskins, took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the residence of the bride's mother, 56 East Seventy-second Street. The ceremony was performed in the drawing room, which was decorated in white and yellow chrysanthemums and roses. The bridal party approached the temporary altar through a ribboned aisle marked off by flower topped posts and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Sefnon of San Francisco.

The bride, who walked with her uncle, Norris W. Mundy, who gave her in marriage, wore a trailing white satin gown draped with point lace, and a voluminous tulle veil was ruched in Spanish comb effect at the back of her coiffure and held with sprays of orange blossoms. The low neck, V-shaped corsage was draped with lace and the tulle sleeves extended to the ungloved hands. The skirt had panniers of satin over draped point lace and the long court train was lined with cloth of silver. Her bouquet was made up of white orchids and lilies of the valley. She wore a diamond and sapphire brooch, the gift of Mr. Tobin.

Miss Noel Haskins was her sister's maid of honor. Her frock of yellow satin had a turquoise blue overdress, the panniers of which were faced with yellow. Her large black velvet picture hat was trimmed with yellow and had long yellow streamers. She carried a large basket filled with yellow roses.

The two little flower girls were Harriet and Barbara Mundy, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd W. Mundy. Their frocks were white chiffon over yellow, with narrow blue girdles, and they wore white satin felt hats, trimmed in yellow and blue, and carried baskets of yellow roses. The two little pages, who were Masters Norris and Gardiner Mundy, the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Norris Havemeyer Mundy, wore black velvet costumes of Lord Fauntleroy fashion.

Mr. Tobin had Arthur Wright of Boston as his best man, and the ushers were Gayle Anderson of San Francisco and Henry F. Osborn of New York. The wedding was followed by a small reception. Mrs. Haskins, who received, wore a mauve velvet costume embroidered in silver, topped by a darker mauve hat, also trimmed in silver.

After their honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Tobin will live in Burlingame, Cal. Mr. Tobin is a nephew of Joseph S. Tobin, and is a lawyer with the firm of Tobin & Tobin of San Francisco.

Mrs. Tobin's father, the late Charles Waldo Haskins, was one of the two financial experts appointed by Congress in 1893 to revise the accounting system of the Government and afterward was chosen to investigate Cuban finances following the Spanish-American war. On her mother's side she is a granddaughter of the late Albert Havemeyer.

Mr. Tobin, who is an expert polo player, first met his bride last Spring, when she went to San Francisco to be an attendant at the marriage of Miss Ernestine McNear and George Nickel. Both were interested in outdoor sports. Shortly after Miss Haskins returned to New York Mr. Tobin came East for a short time, and the engagement was announced in July.

TORPEDO DELAYED WEDDING

Legal Papers Were Lost on Arabic, but Governments Aided Pair.

When the steamer Arabic was sunk it carried down with it certain papers necessary to the happiness of Miss Sophie von Derkerkhof of Holland and Peter Cramer, a young electrical engineer, of Lockport, N. Y., who came to this country from Holland two years ago to seek his fortune.

Miss von Derkerkhof and Mr. Cramer had been sweethearts since childhood, and their engagement was announced prior to Mr. Cramer's departure for America. They decided to get married on this side, and legal papers necessary for the event were mailed from Holland to Mr. Cramer, but were lost on the Arabic.

The matter was adjusted, however, between the Governments of Holland and the United States, and Miss von Derkerkhof arrived here on Wednesday on the steamer Nuerdam and was met by her fiancé at the pier.

She stayed that night with friends of Mr. Cramer at the Waldorf-Astoria, and they were married yesterday in the Marriage Chapel at the City Hall, followed by a religious ceremony, at which a Catholic priest officiated. Their friends gave them a wedding breakfast at the Waldorf-Astoria, and the couple left later for Atlantic City on their honeymoon.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Dr. Andral S. Kilmer, 73 years old, and his private secretary, 40 years old, were married in New York City tonight. The romance created a stir in society circles here when it became known today that Dr. Kilmer and Miss Catherine Palmer Raudenbush had obtained a marriage license. The bride and bridegroom were reticent, but they said that they intended to catch the noon train for New York, where they were to be married.

Dr. Kilmer is widely known as the originator of a patent medicine. At present he is running a large cancertorium in this city, and after the honeymoon Dr. and Mrs. Kilmer will reside here.

The Bride of Carl Muller Sprague at Bay Crest, Huntington, L. I.

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Louise Wolf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wolf of Huntington, L. I., to Carl Muller Sprague, son of Irvin Auchincloss Sprague, took place at noon yesterday at Bay Crest, Huntington Bay, the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. Dr. Merle St. Croix Wright performed the ceremony, which was followed by a wedding breakfast. Only the immediate families were present.

The bride was attended by Miss Grace Lee Middleton of this city, who acted as maid of honor. Randolph Catlin of Brooklyn was the best man. The bride was graduated from Smith College last June. Mr. Sprague is a graduate of Princeton, class of '09, and is a member of Squadron A.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Drew Gets an English Comedy.

A comedy in three acts by Horace Annesley Vachell, author of "Quinneys," one of the current London successes, has been chosen by the Charles Frohman Company for John Drew's use this season. The play is as yet unnamed, but rehearsals will be begun at once under the direction of Augustus Thomas. Mr. Drew, who has been spending the Summer at Easthampton, returned to New York yesterday. His engagement will be at the Empire as usual.

Russian War Pictures to be Shown.

Motion pictures of the Russian Army in action, taken by Robert R. McCormick of The Chicago Tribune, will be shown for the first time in America by Flo Ziegfeld Monday in the Forty-fourth Street Theatre. They will follow the German war pictures, which in three weeks have been shown to 150,000 people. Mr. McCormick's father was a former Ambassador to Russia, and this caused Grand Duke Nicholas to permit him to travel with the army in its campaigns in Galicia and Poland.

ARTUR BODANZKY FEELS WAR PULSE

New Conductor Says Germany Gives Operas of Belligerent Nations.

HE IS AN AUSTRIAN OF 38

Engaged by Metropolitan as a German Conductor, He Is Interested in the Older Italian Works.

Artur Bodanzky, the new conductor for the German repertoire at the Metropolitan Opera House, who arrived here Wednesday night, visited the Opera House yesterday for the first time, was introduced to the staff by Otto Weil of the administrative department, who came across with him, and talked to reporters.

The new conductor is a young-looking, active man, who has a smattering of English. He is an Austrian, born in Vienna thirty-eight years ago, and the son of a Hungarian father. His musical education was obtained mostly at the Vienna Conservatory. He went into the Vienna Opera as first violinist and became assistant to Gustav Mahler. His first engagement as a conductor was for light opera. Later he appeared as a symphony and opera conductor in German, Russian and Italian cities. He conducted "Parsifal" in London in the Spring of 1914, and was engaged for a "Ring" cycle the following October in Paris, but these performances were not given on account of the war. His engagement at the Metropolitan followed.

Mr. Bodanzky said that although he is engaged as a German conductor he is interested as much in the operas of the older Italian school, and considers them as interesting work for the conductor as the Wagner operas. He asked what was the present state of feeling of America toward the Teuton allies, and expressed satisfaction when some one told him that the settlement of the submarine issue had considerably improved matters. He said that operas of the belligerent nations had been freely given in Germany, and he had given a Verdi program at Mannheim during the war, while the operas of Massenet, Gounod, and Thomas had been presented there.

Mr. Bodanzky is married. He left his wife and two children at Mannheim when he came over.

Josephine Redding, War Nurse, Dies

Miss Josephine Redding, daughter of Joseph D. Redding, the writer and student of the drama, who wrote the book of "Natoma" for Victor Herbert, which was one of the most successful American operas, died yesterday at the St. Regis Hotel from Bright's disease, brought on when her health was undermined by nursing of wounded soldiers in a hospital near Paris. She was 22 years old, and, with her mother, she was in Paris, where her father has a home, at the outbreak of the war. For the last few years Miss Redding and her parents have made their home at the St. Regis during the Winters.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Granville Barker's productions of "Androcles and the Lion" and "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" will be presented in the Majestic Theatre, Brooklyn, the week of Oct. 18. Mary Forbes will play the part originally taken by Lillah McCarthy, and O. P. Heggie, Lionel Braham, and other principals will be in their original roles. Edward Sillward, who created the part of the Lion in London, will be seen in the Shaw play this season.

Idelle Patterson will be the prima donna of David Bispham's company that will appear with him in a series of special performances of two musical playlets, "Adelaide" and "The Rehearsal," in the Harris Theatre, beginning Oct. 17. Miss Patterson sang with the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company, of which De Wolf Hopper was the star, last season. In the Spring she is to appear in a new light opera, for which Hans Kronold, the 'cellist, is writing the score.

The Maramba Band, loaned to Charles Dillingham for the Hippodrome by the Guatemalan Government, visited the Cohan Theatre last night to hear the American band introduced in the last act of "Miss Information." It was their introduction to cabaret music, and their opinion of it, as translated by their interpreter, was "Some noise!"

Melville Ellis will return to the Ziegfeld Midnight Frolic above the New Amsterdam on Monday night. He will give a pianologue while the chorus parades in gowns designed by him.

Jacob P. Adler, Jr., a son of the noted Yiddish actor, has introduced an eccentric dance of his own invention in Ned Wayburn's "Town Topics" at the Century.

Princess Olga Olonova, said to be as Russian as her name, will appear as the gem slave in the fashion exhibit at the Palace next week, wearing $750,000 worth of gems loaned by a Fifth Avenue jeweler.

The first performance of "Potash and Perlmutter in Wall Street," the sequel to Montague Glass's "Potash and Perlmutter," was given last night in New Haven. Ex-President W. H. Taft was in the audience.

GRAVEURE IS DOUTHITT.

Concert Singer, in Whiskers, Says "No," and Deplores Press Agent.

The strange case of Mr. Douthitt and M. Graveure, "quite as baffling in its way as the famous case of Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde," has arisen to puzzle musical New York. Mr. Douthitt is Wilfrid Douthitt, a baritone who sang the leading man's rôle in Andreas Dippel's production of "The Lilac Domino" in the Forty-fourth Street Theatre last season. M. Graveure is Louis Graveure, a Belgian baritone booked to give a recital in Aeolian Hall on Oct. 20.

The mystery is this—is M. Graveure Mr. Douthitt, who was supposed to have sailed away last Summer to join the English Army? M. Graveure stoutly denies that he is Mr. Douthitt, and yet in some way a hint that the baritone of the operetta was the singer who was to give a recital under another name was dropped by some one in a position to know. The hint sprouted into a story that was printed in a morning newspaper yesterday.

A reporter called on M. Graveure yesterday in his apartment at 126 West Seventy-third Street. The reporter had seen Mr. Douthitt many times in "The Lilac Domino," and he was immediately struck by the great similarity between the two men. Mr. Douthitt had a distinctive build, carriage, and profile that one would feel sure, upon seeing him for the first time, would distinguish him from all other men. And yet here was M. Graveure the exact image of Mr. Douthitt, except for a luxurious set of whiskers that covered the lower part of his face.

M. Graveure, in perfect English spoken with a quality of voice reminiscent of Mr. Douthitt, protested that "this man Dippel must have started the story to help his play." When the reporter explained the publicity could in no way help Mr. Dippel since his operetta was no longer in these parts and suggested that Mrs. Antonia Sawyer, M. Graveure's manager, might have planted the story for the sake of publicity, the singer was indignant. He said he was sure Mrs. Sawyer would not do such a thing, that personally he was opposed to such notoriety, that he was an artist who wished to be judged by his art, and that if the story persisted he might consider it necessary to cancel his recital date.

ACTRESSES IN FASHION SHOW

Play in an Extravaganza at Carnegie Hall and Aid Actors' Fund.

A fashion show was given yesterday afternoon in Carnegie Hall by the International Fashion Show Association. A portion of the receipts is to be donated to the Actors' Fund, and for that reason a number of players took part in the entertainment, while others sold programs.

The latter group swarmed the sidewalk in front of the hall and the lobby, and when such handsome women as Hazel Dawn and her younger sister, Eleanor, Peggy Wood, Natalie Alt, Grace Valentine, Francine Larrimore, Emily Polini, Hilda Spong, Blanche Bates, Hattie Williams, or Lillian Russell thrust a booklet under one's nose there was nothing to do but give up a quarter and take the program. Miss Russell was the most energetic saleswoman. She took her stand beside the entrance and cried her wares in tones that would have made a sideshow ballyho envious.

The fashion extravaganza, which was called "Yesterday or Tomorrow," was a gorgeous thing to look upon. The vast proscenium was closed in and the decorations of the smaller stages were by Joseph Urban in his best exotic manner. It was against this highly colored background that the mannequins paraded. There was an attempt to speak lines written by Pierre de Lanux, but lines at a fashion exhibit should be seen and not heard, and after an act or so the players resorted largely to pantomime. The players included Alice Brady, Martin Brown, Neysa McMein, and June Elvidge. During the entertainment Grace La Rue sang and Ada M. Weeks danced, and an orchestra hidden somewhere in the labyrinth of balconies at the rear of the auditorium played.

The entertainment moved haltingly and suffered from insufficient lighting, defects that will no doubt be remedied before the four performances that are to follow today and tomorrow.

refused to say whether she was interested in woman suffrage or to be interviewed on any other topic.

Mrs. Galt, who is now the sole owner of the famous old business house established by her late husband's family nearly a century ago, is, according to her friends, contemplating a complete retirement from that business, which is now in the hands of one of her brothers.

Mrs. Galt has no secretary, but is being assisted by her only unmarried sister, Miss Bertha Bolling, who, with Mrs. Bolling and the latter's two bachelor sons, has an apartment at the Cordova, on Florida Avenue. One of nine children, all living, the future mistress of the White House has three sisters and five brothers, all of whom are expected to attend her marriage. President Wilson's immediate family will make up a party well on to twoscore.

The departure of Mrs. McAdoo with her husband on Sunday for a trip to the Pacific Coast, to last almost to Thanksgiving Day, and the announcement of Miss Margaret Wilson's absence from home for a great part of the early Winter, will remove all idea of an immediate wedding.

The interest in the people of the nation who know neither the President nor Mrs. Galt personally was shown today in the character of the messages received at the White House. One of the many well-wishers sent a telegram of congratulations in which he described himself as "one of the common herd."

For the third time in American history a President of the United States will take a bride. In choosing to have the ceremony performed at a place other than the White House Mr. Wilson follows a precedent set by President Tyler, who was married in New York in the Church of the Ascension. President Cleveland, the only other Chief Executive to be married while in office, was married in the White House.

DESCENDANT OF POCAHONTAS.

Mrs. Galt Comes of the Bollings, an Ancient Virginia Family.

"She is a descendant of Pocahontas," was the first thing the average Virginian said yesterday after reading that Mrs. Norman Galt was to be married to the President. Some of the proudest and oldest families of the Dominion trace their descent to the Indian Princess. The nearest strain of all is considered to be that of the Bollings, and Mrs. Galt's maiden name was Edith Bolling. It is known that she takes pride in her relationship to the daughter of Powhatan.

The Bollings are one of the best known of the F. F. V.s and are connected with the Randolphs, the Lees, the Jeffersons, and the Dandridges. Members of the family may be found in practically every county of the State. One of the best known members of the venerable house in this city is Dr. Bolling Lee, who, however, is of a different branch than the one to which Mrs. Galt belongs.

It is the custom now for Virginians to deny the story, so dear to the heart of youth, that Pocahontas saved Captain John Smith from being clubbed to death by the warriors of her father, the Indian chief Powhatan. About her name, none the less, glows the light of romance. As a child she visited the colony at Jamestown, and after she grew up she played an important part in its history. She often interceded for the colonists and finally was looked upon as their diplomatist and emissary. Pocahontas became a Christian in April, 1614, and she was married to a young Englishman, John Rolfe. She had beauty, and even the prim garb of the English of that day did not hide her charm. Pictures which remain of her show her in ruff and tightly fitting gown.

Try to Trace Resemblance.

When, in 1616, she went to England with her husband, Pocahontas was presented at the Court of St. James's by Lord and Lady Delaware. The Bishop of London gave a reception in her honor. The British metropolis extolled her beauty, and for months this child of Virginia, in her native grace and her air of royalty, which seemed a part of her, was the idol of the social world. There was a general bringing out of old books and prints yesterday in an attempt to trace some resemblance between Mrs. Galt and the Indian Princess of three centuries ago.

Pocahontas died in 1617 in Gravesend, England, and there she lies buried. The story is that she had married John Rolfe in the belief that Captain John Smith was dead, and that, meeting Smith in England, she was overcome with the old love for him, and so grieved over having been deceived that she went into a decline and died within a year. She left one son, Thomas Rolfe, who was educated in England. He did not go to Virginia until 1648, and there he married Jane Proythress. To them was born a daughter, Jane Rolfe, who became the wife of Colonel Robert Bolling, who, arriving in the colony in 1660, accumulated a fortune and became a leader.

The Bollings of Bolling Hall were an old family in England, for back in 1412 are found references to them and their estates. The Bollings of Virginia brought with them the customs of their Yorkshire home. They acquired lands, built stately houses, and became men of power and influence in the community.

Robert Bolling of Kippax, a few miles from Richmond, entertained lavishly, and he had the love of sports, the taste for social life, and the progressive nature which have distinguished so many members of the race. His wife, as did her grandmother, the Princess Pocahontas, died young, for she lived only a year after her marriage. She left one son, John Bolling, the progenitor of the line with the Indian strain. His second wife was English, and from her four children descended, another line of the Bollings in whom there is none of the blood of the child of Powhatan.

The descendants of John Bolling married members of many well-known Virginia families, and this accounts for the fact that in the family trees of so many distinguished Virginians there are traces of Indian lineage. Colonel John Bolling left a son, bearing the same name, who was born in 1700. A grandson, John, married a sister of Thomas Jefferson.

Family Records Incomplete.

There are no complete records of the Bolling family. From the books of reference available yesterday it was impossible to trace the exact steps of descent from the Indian maid to the future White House bride.

One of the family who is regarded as typical both of his race and the old-time Virginians was Robert Bolling of Chellewe. He was one of the best-educated men of his time, and was fond of literary pursuits—a writer and a poet. He wrote odes to the grape which are still preserved in yellowed books. And so fond was he of what the vintners sell that he proclaimed his connoisseurship to the world by naming his son in honor of the vine. His house was the scene of many gayeties, and about his estates were heard the hunter's horn and the bay of hounds.

Then there was Colonel William Bolling, who married his cousin, Mary Randolph. It is recorded, too, that one of the daughters of the house of Bolling married a Randolph, and that she was the grandmother of the famous John Randolph of Roanoke. Besides, there are the Bollings of Bollingbroke and the Bollings who lived about Petersburg.

It is noted that through all the family history appear Indian names. There are Powhatan Bollings and Pocahontas Bollings. Occasionally in the records one finds a fair member of the house called Matoaca, one of the titles of the Indian Princess, and often Pocahontas's plain English designation, Rebecca, the name given to her when baptized in the Church of England.

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 7.—Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt attended the famous Powell School for girls here, now closed, and was a belle and beauty here as a girl, her family connections giving her entrée to the best circles in Virginia.

M'ANENY PICTURES THE MODEL CITY

Its Departmental Administration Committed to Men Selected for Professional Fitness.

URGES LONGER TENURE

And the Development of the "Scientific Temper" in Municipal Government to Remedy Ills.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Oct. 7.—George McAneny, President of the Board of Aldermen of New York City, in an address here tonight, discussed the problems of city government, urging the exclusion of party politics and "reasonable security of tenure of office." He advocated salaries commensurate with those paid in similar service in private life.

Mr. McAneny's speech was delivered at a dinner given by the St. Paul Institute to renew interest in municipal government reform. His subject was "The Scientific Temper Applied to City Government." In part he said:

"The problems of New York and of St. Paul are not dissimilar. We are planning for an infinitely greater New York of the future. Our railways, our terminals and other commercial facilities, the proper laying out of vast suburban territory as yet undeveloped, but soon to be required for factories and homes; the solution of our problems of proper housing and of sanitary regulation; the finding of better and more advanced means of meeting the obligations of the city as a social agency—all these things have our constant consideration.

"In any program of civic improvement or in any plan for enlisting more active participation of the people of a city in their own affairs I would have put before all else and first of all the exclusion of party politics from city government, and the building up of an administrative service based upon considerations of efficiency and designed to stand as permanently as corresponding divisions of private service stand.

"However we may plan for the reforms that deal with the detail of city administration, or for the improvement of living and working conditions of the city dwellers, the best results cannot be secured, nor can even satisfactory results be secured, unles these cardinal needs are met. In most of the cities of the country beginnings in the matter of nonpartisan city administration have been made. In New York we have had six years of unbroken control of this sort, and certainly we have made far greater progress in consequence. The rule, however, should be universal.

"To elect or to appoint city officials, charged with the conduct of purely local affairs, because they happen to hold views of a national party about the tariff, the currency, or the regulation of trusts and corporations, is a practice of folly that greatly puzzles every foreign observer who comes to study us. We may hold opinions as we like about lines in national affairs and still treat our city interests as a thing apart.

"But when we have accepted the idea of city administration along these lines, we shall still have to get rid of certain other fallacies almost as bothersome as the political ones. We should cease electing men for brief periods of two years or less, who, as soon as they have been really trained to their new duties, are likely to be turned out for another set, unacquainted with the details of the work they are to handle, and who must be educated in turn. We must keep the actual administration of departmental work, so far as possible, in the hands of men who are selected for their professional or their peculiar fitness for the work to be done.

"We must give them a reasonable security of tenure and we must give them, too, salaries that are commensurate with those paid in similar service in private life. Too often an administration is elected in an American city upon a platform calling for business administration, only to find that the cardinal rules of business administration are violated in these respects, and that they are, in short, denied the proper tools with which to do their work; that they are asked to make bricks without straw.

"A fairly permanent and well trained subordinate service not only will save millions of money in the long run to the taxpayers of a city, but will gradually create an administrative organization that will turn out incomparably better results. The cities are growing at a phenomenal rate. As they grow they are taking over more and more functions that in the past have belonged to private enterprise. With overcostly city government, the charge against the taxpayer is apt to increase as rapidly as the growth of the city itself. The remedy, in a word, is the development of what the authors of the title of my address have called the "scientific temperament" in city government.

"Having secured reasonably stable administration machinery, we must insist upon up-to-date methods of municipal accounting. We must employ those skilled in municipal research to find the ways of saving money, on the one hand, and to improve service on the other. We must keep abreast with the advance made in sanitary science, in the scientific handling of social conditions, and in the businesslike development of the resources of a city through its public works, and its relations with the quasi-public service corporations.

"You will find, I think, that the whole trend of modern city building and of modern city government will proceed along these lines. The city that lags in accepting the new idea is likely to suffer from the competition of those that accept it promptly. The people of the city who fail to realize their own power and to put the force of a quickened community interest behind definite programs of city improvement will miss great opportunities.

"Private organization in civic, philanthropic or other social bodies will always be needed, if only to point the way that city government itself should follow. But their chief endeavor should be to secure through efficient, enlightened and progressive city government the advances for which they have so long contended."

He had built up a good practice and was one of the young successful lawyers of Boston, when he decided to enter the ministry and was ordained a Deacon in 1893 and a priest of the Protestant Episcopal Church one year later. During 1894-5 he was assistant rector of All Saints' Church at Ashmont, Mass., and then became rector of St. John's Church at Roxbury, Mass., where he remained until 1900, when he was consecrated Bishop of the Diocese of Maine. THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The Gulf storm has apparently lost its energy and the storm warnings have been lowered, while the Northwestern storm has passed to the northeastward of Lake Superior and storm warnings on the lakes have also been lowered.

There is a moderate secondary disturbance off the North Carolina Coast that is apparently moving northeastward, and, together with the building up of a strong high area over the North Atlantic Ocean, it has caused rains from Southern New England into the Carolinas.

There was also rain in Georgia and along the East Gulf Coast, and rain in the lake region, with snow flurries in Eastern Minnesota.

Elsewhere the weather was fair.

A high pressure area of much magnitude covers the West, and it is attended by low temperatures from the Rocky Mountains eastward into the upper lake region, the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and the East Gulf States. On Thursday morning the line of freezing temperature extended to the Western Kansas-Nebraska boundary. Temperatures are also moderately low in the Atlantic States, while west of the Rockies they are quite high for the season.

There will be local rains Friday from the lake region eastward. with possibly some snow in the Northwestern lake region.

There also will be rain Friday morning in the Middle Atlantic States, followed by fair weather during the day. With these exceptions the weather will be fair Friday and Saturday east of the Mississippi River.

It will be colder Friday in the lake region, the Ohio Valley, and along the South Atlantic Coast, and colder Saturday in New England and the Middle Atlantic States. Low temperatures will continue Saturday in the lake region, the Ohio Valley, the Gulf and South Atlantic States.

Winds for Friday and Saturday along the North and Middle Atlantic Coasts will be moderate to fresh east, becoming variable Friday night; South Atlantic moderate north and northwest, except variable off the Florida Coast.

FORECASTS: TODAY AND SATURDAY.

Eastern New York—Probably local rains Friday. Saturday, fair and colder.

Southern New England—Rain Friday, Saturday, partly cloudy; colder in the interior.

Westinghouse Company Says the Profits Will Not Be Unusual.

The Westinghouse Airbrake Company reports net earnings of $1,575,839 in the year ended July 31, a decline of $1,907,155 from the preceding year's total. The surplus of $1,882,137 was equal to 9.58 per cent. on the stock, as compared with 17.7 per cent. in 1914.

President H. H. Westinghouse has sent out a letter in connection with the annual meeting, which says that orders for shrapnel accepted in April amounted to $17,930,000, on which deliveries will be made at the scheduled dates. The manufacturing profits, he says, will be substantial, but not unusual, because of the expense necessitated by the installation of special machinery and the construction of new buildings. One reason the company went into the shell business, the letter says, was the conviction arising from a study of the European conflict that experience should be secured in munition making which would assist in the defense of the United States if the need arose.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Turn Decidedly Strong —Our Great Agricultural Prosperity.

The stock market resumed strength yesterday with an avidity which was in striking contrast with the weakness of the two preceding days. A number of industrial stocks, including two or three which had suffered most in the reaction, showed large net gains, and some, several copper issues among them, reached new high prices for the year. The railroads remained strong, though their advances were more moderate, in keeping with the more sedate movements of this group. It seemed to be amply demonstrated that confidence had been resumed, for the day's experience in the stock market could hardly be sufficiently accounted for by the theory that it was the result of organized effort to stem the tide of liquidation which had carried prices down violently during the two preceding days.

That tide was itself stimulated to a certain extent, and it seemed yesterday to have run its course. That it was a tide of limited extent was suggested by the fact that the railroads maintained their composure throughout it and by the readiness with which the advance was resumed yesterday. There was a very natural disposition in the financial district to caution against repeating in the war stocks or elsewhere in the list the excesses which exposed the market to the violent reaction of Tuesday and Wednesday, but on the other hand, one heard in many important banking quarters expressions of confidence in the continued growth of business and in all that that implies for the country's commerce and finance generally. Particular emphasis was laid on the fact that growing prosperity would mean greater profits for the railroads, which as a group have shared but moderately in the market improvement which has come about in recent months.

There can be no doubt that the country is moving forward with a broadening stride. Nor can there be any doubt that many fundamental conditions are particularly favorable. Not the least of these is the condition which has its origin in the garnering this year of the biggest crops in the country's history. The monthly Government report came yesterday at an opportune time to remind the financial community and the country generally of the agricultural prosperity with which the country is blessed this year. For the first time this season, for the first time ever, the Department of Agriculture put an estimate of over 1,000,000,000 bushels on the wheat crop. A yield of more than 3,000,000,000 bushels is forecast for corn, and more than a billion and a half for oats. The promised yields of barley and rye run ahead of last year. Potatoes are the exception to this rule of expanding yields.

Such bounty in itself carries a strong presumption in favor of business prosperity this coming season, a presumption which is fortified by many other facts, including the present extraordinary development of the steel trade which has yet to be shown to be an inaccurate index of the course of general business. Wall Street may not have thought very much yesterday of such fundamental facts, but they were in the background of what happened on the Stock Exchange. Movements in individual stocks are often governed by the whim of traders; broad general movements, seldom, if ever.

LONDON MARKET STEADIER.

Traders Not Speculating Because of the Balkans Situation.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Increasing money supplies and the better bank return made it difficult to maintain discount rates today. American exchange was more active. During the morning there were sellers at 4.70⅞, but buyers later caused the rate to decline to 4.70⅝.

The stock market is still suffering from Balkan politics, but the tone was a shade steadier and there was more business in some directions today. The war loan, Japanese bonds and colonial stocks were frequently marked, gold mines improved and copper shares strengthened with the metal.

American securities changed hands freely. Canadian Pacific, Union Pacific, United States Steel, and Chesapeake & Ohio were the most active shares. The closing was firm.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 66 francs 50 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 27 francs 35 centimes.

Commodity Prices Rise.

Rising commodity prices reflect the broadening demands in consumptive channels, Dun's Index Number of wholesale quotations touching $126.663 on Oct. 1, against $124.684 a month previous and $123.531 on Oct. 1, 1914. Two years ago the total stood at $123.902, and with the single exception of Sept. 1 last year, when there was a violent advance following the beginning of the great war, the present figures are the highest reported at any time since the Spring of 1912.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Disappointment.

The chagrin and disappointment of the trader who sells his stock with a five-point loss in a falling market one day and sees that stock rise next day six points above his selling price is obvious even to the person who never buys or sells a share of stock. Among the stories told in commission houses yesterday were some describing experiences of the sort recited, the sellers of Wednesday in the break having seen their losses recovered and a good margin besides. Naturally, there was a great deal of caustic comment on the factors which brought about the sharp marking down of prices and not a few disappointed traders did not hesitate to state that, in their opinion, "big interests" had engineered the depression for the purpose of accumulating stocks at the lower levels.

The Direction of Criticism.

The action of Stock Exchange members in raising margins for the erratic stocks and of the Exchange itself in issuing its warning relative to proper margins did not come in for criticism. The close observer of market conditions realized some days ago that the pace set in the market would soon reduce the working capital of many firms to a point where business would be hampered unless measures were taken to bring into use more of the capital of customers. If the rank and file of speculators did not sense this situation, too, they knew from the rapid upbidding of particular shares that the market would be drawn into a dangerously topheavy condition. Because of these elements, it was thought generally on Tuesday that the Exchange had sought to protect the public as much as itself in its circular. But the critics of the market held yesterday that prices had been forced down under cloak of the precautions taken by the board, which, in itself, tended to hurry nervous holders of stocks on small margin into selling.

Shrewd Accumulation.

There was another side to the argument, however. Brokers who have studied the phenomena of several extraordinary bull markets said that if efforts had been made to accumulate cheap stocks yesterday on a scale great enough to cause most of the upturn, the procedure being followed was different from that of other periods. Persons desirous of taking on substantial amounts of stock, it was said, would hardly buy so fast that they helped to advance the market against themselves. On the contrary, accumulation would be carefully carried out, with the campaign extended over several days. Stocks might rise, but the advance would be steady, not marked by so violent an upturn as yesterday's exhibition.

Long Term Money.

The foresighted broker, as his friends see him, is the man who sized up the trend of speculation a month ago and borrowed large amounts of three or four months' money. He pays more interest than he would in the call market, but a distinct advantage lies in the fact that he could secure his borrowings by collateral consisting wholly of industrial stocks. The long term borrower does not need to worry about what his banker may say tomorrow or the next day about increasing the margin or changing the quality of his collateral.

Manila Railroad.

It was reported in a dispatch from Manila yesterday that the Government of the Philippine Islands was negotiating for the purchase of the stock of the Manila Railroad, which operates practically all the steam lines on the Island of Luzon. The report stated that the securities of the railroad were held by a syndicate headed by James Speyer. As a matter of fact Mr. Speyer has no interest in such a syndicate. There was a syndicate years ago, but it was dissolved. The Manila Railroad is an American concern, and a member of the firm of Speyer & Co. is a Director of the road. All of the capital stock of the road, excepting the Directors' qualifying shares, are owned by the Manila Railway Company, a holding company which is strictly an English concern. In local circles there was no confirmation of the report that the Philippine Government was seeking control of the Manila Railroad, but it was pointed out that, if a purchase were contemplated, negotiations would have to be made with the English holding company and not with the American operating company.

Denver & Rio Grande.

The Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, the link between two roads which are in receivership, is showing increases in earnings, and has succeeded in wiping out a deficit made early in the fiscal year. The August report, made public yesterday, showed total operating revenues of $2,243,210, an increase of $153,353 or 7 per cent. The net income was $251,588, compared with a deficit of $8,878 in August, 1914. For the two months of the fiscal year the Denver showed a net income of $310,509, compared with a deficit for the same period last year of $36,469. Denver stock has not been active recently. The road is wedged in between the Western Pacific and the Missouri Pacific, and the uncertainty of the course to be pursued by the Western Pacific first mortgage bondholders, the interest on whose defaulted bonds was guaranteed by the Denver, has acted as a deterrent. The latest reports indicate a disposition on the part of the Western Pacific bondholders to give the Denver every chance to get on its feet.

Norfolk & Western.

Norfolk & Western stock made a new high record for the year yesterday at 117. Some persons cannot understand now why there should have been a break in the stock last Summer around 110. As in the case of the New York Central the rise has been due to consistently increasing earnings. The August report, which appeared yesterday, showed a gain of about $733,000 in gross revenue and a gain of about $490,000 in net income. The net revenue for the first two months of the new fiscal year was $2,885,000, and this represents a healthy increase of more than $1,000,000, compared with the same period in 1914.

OUR YEAR'S HARVEST BREAKS ALL RECORDS

Promises to be Most Valuable Ever Produced—Wheat Crop Exceeds a Billion Bushels.

CORN PROSPECTS ALSO GOOD

May Also Prove to be the Largest Ever Grown by Any Nation in One Season.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—American harvests this year will be the most valuable ever produced. With the wheat crop exceeding a billion bushels, the largest ever produced in one season by any nation, and a corn crop which also may prove to be the largest ever grown, the Government's October crop report, issued today, announced preliminary estimates which indicate record harvests of oats, barley, rye, sweet potatoes, rice, tobacco, and hay.

Corn still is king of crops with indications of 3,026,159,000 bushels. While that is 98,000,000 bushels below the record of 1912, the final production, when the harvest is finished and all statistics compiled, may more than make up the difference. The higher prices this year assure the most valuable crop of corn ever grown. At prices to farmers prevailing Oct. 1, the corn crop is worth $2,133,000,000.

Wheat prospects increased as the growing season progressed, and the Government's early season forecasts moved up month by month, so that today's preliminary estimate of production was placed at 1,002,029,000 bushels. Wet weather at harvest time, however, reduced the quality of Winter wheat, so that much of it will not be available for milling purposes and will have to be used for feed. At prices prevailing Oct. 1, the farm value of the crop is $910,844,000, considerably more than ever was paid for a wheat crop before.

September weather was particularly destructive to potatoes, causing a reduction of 37,758,000 bushels, or 10 per cent. in the forecast of production. Tobacco also suffered from unfavorable conditions, which caused a decrease of 21,196,000 pounds in the production forecast, but it will probably exceed the record crop of 1909 by 43,000,000 pounds.

Oats will exceed the record crop of 1912 by almost 100,000,000 bushels. Barley will exceed its record by 13,000,000 bushels, sweet potatoes by 5,000,000 bushels, rice by 500,000 bushels, and hay by 8,000,000 tons.

The Bureau of Crop Estimates made the following comment on crop prospects:

"A slight improvement in corn prospects, larger production of small grains than previously forecast, but a material decline in prospects for potatoes are the prominent features of reports relating to crop conditions in the United States on Oct. 1.

"The corn forecast is 3,026,000,000 bushels, an increase over last month's forecast of 41,000,000 bushels. Last year's production was estimated at 2,673,000,000 bushels, and the average of the preceding five years was 2,708,000,000 bushels. The condition of the crop in Iowa is conspicuously poor as compared with other portions of the country.

"The estimated Spring wheat production, 345,163,000 bushels, has overrun the Sept. 1 forecast by 23,000,000 bushels. Last year's final estimate was 206,000,000 bushels, and the average of the preceding five years 245,000,000 bushels.

"The combination of Winter wheat and Spring wheat estimates makes 1,002,000,000 bushels. This is the first time the United States has reached the billion bushel mark in wheat production. Last year's crop was estimated at 891,000,000 bushels, and the average of the preceding five years was 686,000,000 bushels.

"The oats crop, estimated at 1,517,000,000 bushels, overruns the Sept. 1 forecast by 109,000,000 bushels, and makes a new record in the production of this crop. Last year's crop was estimated at 1,141,000,000 bushels, and the average of the preceding five years 1,131,000,000 bushels.

"The potato forecast has declined to 368,000,000 bushels, a reduction of 38,000,000 bushels, or nearly 10 per cent., from the Sept. 1 forecast. Last year's crop was estimated at 406,000,000 bushels, and the average for the preceding five years 357,000,000. The crop is seriously affected by blight and rot generally in the principal potato sections east of the Mississippi River. Not only will the crop be short, but the keeping qualities probably poor.

"The barley crop, like the other small grain crops and wheat and oats, has overrun early forecasts of production, and exceeds that of any previous barley crop, the estimate being 237,000,000 bushels, which compares with last year's estimate of 195,000,000 and the average of the preceding five years of 182,000,000. The quality is very good for feeding purposes, being plump and heavy, but much has been badly stained by rains after harvest, reducing the quality for malting.

"The apple crop forecast is 71,632,000 barrels, (three bushels,) which is 433,000 barrels larger than the Sept. 1 forecast, but 12,768,000 barrels less than last year's estimate of production. This estimate refers to total farm production, (census basis,) only a portion of which represents the so-called commercial crop.

"Altogether, the season of 1915 has been favorable for crop production."

The Government's October crop report issued today by the Crop Reporting Board of the Department of Agriculture, which based its preliminary estimates and forecasts of production on a canvass made Oct. 1 by its many agents throughout the country, follows, in thousands of bushels, i. e., 000's omitted:

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

The brilliant showing of the Government crop report of harvests this year exerted a very favorable influence in the late afternoon market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Further important recoveries in prices from the low levels touched on the break on Wednesday were established. United States Steel was the leader in strength for all the minor steel stocks and the copper and metal shares were strong. Some of the "war stocks" advanced sharply, notably Westinghouse Electric, Baldwin Locomotive, and Crucible Steel.

I recommend the purchase of

which is paying regular dividends of 4%, and in addition in the last six months of its past financial year paid two extra quarterly dividends aggregating $6 per share. In view of the excellent results of this year's business, which shows a profit of over two million dollars, I feel that further large disbursements may be confidently looked for, and that the stock should sell at a correspondingly higher level. Moreover, should the tax on sugar be retained, as is being recommended by the Secretary of the Treasury, this company will be tremendously benefited.

Subject to Prior Sale, I offer a limited amount at the market.

OUTLOOK FOR RAILROAD STOCKS

While speculative mania in Wall Street has been concentrated on industrial issues, steam railroad stocks have been neglected. And yet, as a careful analysis shows, there are some great investment possibilities in this far safer field.

During the past two months we have continuously pointed out the attractiveness of such issues as New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Norfolk & Western, etc. We have now prepared a special analysis, reviewing the entire railroad situation. Send for a copy while the supply lasts.

Did you notice

Bethlehem Steel and Westinghouse?

The Dow-Jones Bulletins have told the truth from the beginning concerning the earnings, present and prospective, of these concerns, while financiers cried "Absurd!" [illegible] directors denied, and untrained writers laughed in print.

When Westinghouse was under 130 yesterday, the Dow-Jones Bulletins gave all the facts and figures in a comprehensiveness surpassing any previous presentation.

Read it in The Wall Street Journal Thursday evening or Friday morning and ask yourself if you get such complete financial news, or any such financial presentation, anywhere else.

You cannot expect the daily press to do more than re-write or expand some popular features from these Bulletins, for it would take at least ten years of training and an enormous expenditure of money to match the Dow-Jones staff of more than 100 minds, all devoted exclusively to the presentation of the financial news of the world in every ramification; and then it would be doubtful if any such staff would hold the confidence of the men of affairs such as is held by the trained specialists of this staff.

Confidence is a plant of slow growth.

Dow, Jones & Co. are the oldest financial news gathering agency in the United States.

Their bulletins are in all well-equipped financial offices.

Financial news is financial insurance.

The Dow-Jones Financial News Bulletins in Wall Street were never so valuable as at the present time. The record made by the Dow-Jones News Service has this year been the talk of Wall Street. The market has fluctuated right along with the Dow-Jones news.

Investors read the same news later in the afternoon and morning editions of

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

America's leading financial newspaper: leading in news, leading in editorial expression, leading in circulation.

You should be its daily reader and its annual subscriber.

To the Trinity Copper Company Stockholders:

As president and sponsor of your company, having no interest but the welfare of all stockholders, I feel it my duty to say: During the next few weeks there may be strong temptation for speculators to make a street football of Trinity stock. Already the volume of trading and increase in price have begun. Already there are rumors afloat of a coming boom.

The facts are these:

Trinity is the same great property I have always said it was, and its great potentiality will be demonstrated.

At the present time there are negotiations of magnitude under way which may involve Trinity with other mining, smelting and industrial properties in and outside the "Shasta group" and California.

If these negotiations should be successfully consummated, and if their consummation should include Trinity, your stock might have a larger price value than any yet attained. In the past it has been active in the market at $42.00 per share.

If the present deal should be unsuccessful so far as Trinity is concerned, your stock's price worth would be in no worse position than it is to-day. Therefore,

I earnestly advise against any market movement NOW.

I advise all present Trinity holders to sit tight—to hold on to every share they now have that in the event of a successful outcome of present negotiations they may reap the long-expected and waited-for returns.

I advise those who have no Trinity stock to keep aloof from any rumor-made boom until definite announcement is made.

I hope there will not be a thousand shares of Trinity stock traded in on the Stock Exchange during the coming weeks of uncertain negotiations, and that the price of Trinity will remain as today until the company's immediate future is made clear.

That all stockholders may accept my advice and patiently await the outcome, I will recall to them:

In 1898 I indorsed to the public two stocks—Chino (Santa Rita) and Trinity.

Owing to peculiar conditions, both hung fire for years, and until both, in the public's mind, were failures—miserable failures—Chino a few degrees more of a failure than Trinity.

Both kicked about the market for years at a total valuation of about $1,200,000 (to-day's price of Trinity).

A short time ago, Chino, in spite of its rotten reputation and discouraging environment, came into its own, and its market price flew from $1,200,000 to $50,000,000.

Chino to-day is what I always said it would become—the greatest, everything considered, of all copper successes.

Chino, in my opinion, is worth to-day over $100,000,000, and its net earnings for the present year are rising $9,000,000.

Think of it—the property which was valued by the public and insiders (and those insiders the greatest copper magnates in the world) at $1,200,000, and ridiculed in Wall and State Streets as a lamentable failure, earning $9,000,000 per annum.

I trust that all Trinity stockholders will see to it that this boom is kept anchored until I can officially announce consummated facts, which will give wings to its moorings.

Boston, October 8, 1915.

WAR STOCK RALLY LED BY BETHLEHEM

Shares of Schwab Corporation Advance 50 Points, to 450, a New High Record.

OTHER ISSUES UP $5 TO $7

Brokers Report Public Not Frightened Out of the Market by the Call for Large Margins.

The stock market yesterday gave evidence that the public had not been frightened by the sharp rise in margins required or by warnings sent out by the Stock Exchange to prevent a renewal of buying of the war stocks on enormous scale. In contrast with a decline averaging about 6 points the day before in Baldwin Locomotive, Crucible Steel, Westinghouse, and others of the class, yesterday's market swung upward with such violence that the average gain for the same issues was more than 5 points. Bethlehem Steel surprised even its most ardent admirers by rising full 50 points, touching 450, a new high record.

Brokers reported that buying by the public was as insistent as in any of the lively days last week before the level of margins was raised, in some cases to 100 per cent. Again the railroad issues were in demand, but their net gains, about a point on the average, made rather a poor showing against the war stock background. The shaking out process of the two preceding sessions had left the market in an improved condition, owing to the elimination of many weak accounts, and speculators appeared to find no discomfort in advancing more money on their contracts than they had been wont to do. In fact, it was reported some customers, on being informed by their brokers that more margin was needed for their Crucible or Baldwin shares, came downtown and paid in the full purchase price.

The opening of business brought a display of strength that was not weakened by later developments. American Beet Sugar started off with an overnight gain of more than 5 points. Baldwin was up 3½, and Westinghouse 2 points on first sales. Large blocks of the war issue were eagerly bid for, and within the first quarter of an hour the bull market was again under full swing.

In this table the extent of the day's rise is set forth, together with a record of declines of the preceding two days among prominent stocks:

	High yesterday.	Rise from Tuesday low.	Rise from Wednesday low.	Net gain yesterday.
Am. Car & Fdy...	84	2	7½	2⅛
American Loco....	67	¾	7⅝	2⅛

*Loss.

A new crop of rumors regarding war orders in prospect and momentous matters pending in the steel and iron industries was harvested. Traders listened to them just as eagerly as they did before the Exchange authorities thought a check had better be placed on the rapid upbidding of specialties. The formation of the new Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company gave play to the imagination of speculators, and Crucible, Lackawanna Steel, and Pittsburgh Coal shares profited by talk of a possible inclusion in the merger of properties represented by these stocks.

The advance was aided in part by the covering of short contracts. The two-day decline had paved the way for substantial paper profits for traders who guessed correctly that an effort to curb the craze for war shares would bring about a recession, and the work of converting these paper proceeds into cash pushed prices upward. Next to the special industrials the copper group, including Anaconda, Utah, and Inspiration, were the subject of extensive buying.

APPROVE SEABOARD MERGER

Directors Announce Plan to Finance Consolidation.

Directors of the Seaboard Air Line Railway yesterday approved the plan of consolidating the Seaboard Air Line the Carolina, Atlantic & Western Railway, announcement of which was made several months ago. A meeting of the stockholders to ratify the action of the board will be called soon.

S. Davies Warfield, Chairman of the board, who is the author of the consolidation plan, yesterday announced some of the details of the financing to be put under way in the near future. There will be a new authorized mortgage of $300,000,000, of which the Guaranty Trust Company will act as trustee. Under the new mortgage approximately $25,650,000 thirty-year 6 per cent. bonds will be issued, and of this amount about $2,750,000 will be retained in the treasury of the new company.

A part of the remainder will be used in exchange for underlying bonds of constituent companies and a part will by taken up by a syndicate. A syndicate under the direction of the Guaranty Trust Company and the National City Bank has purchased the bonds which are not to be used to take up other bonds.

The new company will have an authorized capital of $100,000,000, the same as the old company. Or this amount $27,280,000 of par value preferred stock and $40,041,000 of common stock will shortly be issued. Of the preferred stock $2,800,000 will go to the holders of the refunding bonds of the Carolina, Atlantic & Western Railway in equal exchange for their bonds, and the rest will go to the preferred stockholders of the old Sea Board Air Line. The common stock will be exchanged for the common stock of the two roads which figure in the consolidation.

COTTON DECLINES ON CABLE REPORT

Ellison Puts Season's Consumption of American Product at 12,500,000 Bales.

NET LOSS 8 TO 11 POINTS

News of Frost in the South and Selling by Liverpool Add to Confusion of the Market.

The first frost scare of the season struck the cotton market yesterday, but inasmuch as damage from this source so early in October would be almost without precedent the steadiness which developed on the forecast from the weather bureau was not maintained. As a matter of fact, it looked as if more cotton was sold in the last half hour than had been bought on the predictions of low temperatures.

The whole market was more or less irregular yesterday. Liverpool was a shade disappointing, but there was enough buying here to cause an opening at practically unchanged prices. There was a setback of about 18 to 20 points, based on a cable report that Thomas R. Ellison has estimated the consumption of American cotton during the coming season at 12,500,000 bales. In spite of the fact that there was a general disposition to ridicule the figures, considerable cotton was sold on them. Liverpool was a seller here both on the opening and afterward, and there was some Southern selling against spot cotton. The close was steady, with a loss of 8 to 11 points.

The British Board of Trade returns on exports of cloth and yarns showed a tremendous increase during September over last year. The exports of yarns were 16,000,000 pounds in September, against 9,668,000 last year. The exports of cloth in September were 410,000,000 yards, against 374,000,000 yards last year.

Southern spot markets, as officially reported, were steady, 6 to 13 points higher. The local market for spot cotton was quiet, 10 points advance, 12.55 for middling. Futures closed steady.

Cocoa Consumption Steady.

The local market for raw cocoa continues firm under a steady consumption both for the home and export trade. Neither the domestic nor the foreign demand for this commodity can be called large, but there is enough business passing. Arrivals are coming along in good shape, and stocks are fairly liberal. Current prices range from 14½@15 cents on Haitian cocoa to 19@19½ cents on that from Maracaibo.

⁂

Satisfactory Dress Demand.

The demand for merchandise in the dress trade keeps up in a steady volume, and manufacturers report very fair reorders. For a time it was thought the popularity of suits might have the effect of curtailing the demand for dresses, but this has not turned out to be the case. For some reason or other the suit end, which started off very briskly, has not kept up to its original pace, and dresses have benefited accordingly. All told, the dress business is fully satisfying to the manufacturers and will perhaps continue longer than in former seasons.

Good Clothing Prospects.

Prospects for a successful Spring business for the clothiers grow brighter as the season advances and the salesmen now on the road turn in their orders. It was known that the retailers were carrying over very little in the way of stock, and the advance business so far obtained for next Spring is reported very satisfactory by the manufacturers. Conservative buying by the retailers has gradually given way to a more liberal spirit. The need of preparing for the future more thoroughly than in the past has seemingly been recognized by the retail trade. The actual scarcity of heavyweight goods has gone a long way to proving to the skeptical just how serious a situation might develop through lack of preparedness.

Brokers Like New Prices.

There is hardly any one in the local gray goods market who is more pleased over the advances that have taken place on these fabrics in the last two or three weeks than the broker, for it means that his commissions are larger without any increase in the amount of business he engineers. For instance, when 38½-inch 64-60s were scraping bottom not so very long ago at 3⅝ cents, a sale of 10,000 pieces at 1 per cent. commission meant, roughly, an earning of $181.25. At yesterday's prices, 4¾ cents, a similar sale meant commissions of $237.50, or an increase of $56.25. The only difference in the broker's labor is that it was easier then to get goods out than it is now, but this is said to be "some" difference.

Belt Combinations Favored.

A nice business is being done on what may be called fur sets, embracing belts and neckpieces. They are really velvet bands, about an inch and a half wide, which are trimmed on each side with a narrow strip of fur and are further garnitured with head trimmings of fur. Both the belts and the neckpieces are made with adjustable snap fasteners, which permits them to be adjusted to any size. The belt sizes range from 26 to 32 inches. The sets are made up of black velvet and are trimmed with black, brown, or white fur. They wholesale at $12 a dozen. Ostrich boas are also selling well in soft and fluffy finishes, in black, white, black and white, purple and white, &c., at prices ranging from $13.80 to $39 a dozen. They are from 19 to 22 inches long, and are finished with ornamental silk tassels.

Fabric Value the Main Factor.

The success reported by a large manufacturing retailer in the clothing field, in the sale of a certain cloth designed to give good wear, points to the extent fabric value is appreciated by the retail customers. The durability of a fabric has become one of the leading questions with the buying public. One clothier said yesterday that it would be surprising to the manufacturers to learn just how many men have deserted the ready-to-wear lines for the custom tailors in order to select a fabric that would wear. This clothier said he doubted if the progress made in tailoring ready-to-wear garments, so as to make them equal, if not superior to, custom made merchandise, has won as many customers over to ready-to-wear as is generally imagined. The drawback to the change, he said, is the quality of goods offered by the manufacturers.

Raw Silk Prices Firmer.

The Yokohama raw silk market continues to advance, particularly in the higher grades, which are scarce. Japan filatures, double extra, are now held at 970 yen per picul, against 870 yen two months ago. Sales for the week there amounted to 4,600 bales, and stocks are placed at 11,000 bales, compared with 18,000 bales at this time last year. Canton continues to quote prohibitive prices, and holders are unwilling to sell, even at the advance. This is especially true of the coarse grades, which are in strong demand. Shanghai is firm and higher on steam filatures, which are mostly booked ahead for the balance of the year, and tsatlees and tussahs are also going up. The latter are very active. Stocks continue small and prices very firm at Milan. The local market is active with prices advancing in sympathy with the upward trend at primary points.

Bringing Out New Ideas.

Domestic manufacturers are showing an increased respect for small orders, and the conclusion to be drawn is that some trades that have wandered far from true merchandising will soon be back on the right track. In textiles, for instance, the tendency for some time was in the direction of price competition, regardless of competition on quality. Prices were slashed and the quality of goods steadily declined. It was thought useless to originate, as the "style copyist" would take away all profits shortly after a new idea was put out. In many directions, however, business is going back to a competition on quality, or to true merchandising. In some branches manufacturers are specializing, and are content to take small orders on their novelties. The prices they demand are high, but they can get them because they have something desirable to offer.

Printcloths Were Quieter.

Buyers in the local gray goods market yesterday assumed somewhat of a "watchful waiting" policy, and as a result the volume of goods moved was not as large as on several of the earlier days in the week. Despite the lighter buying, prices were firmly held by first hands on all constructions. Some second-hand goods appeared in the market, sales of small lots of 39-inch 68-72s being reported at 5 5-16 cents and at 5¼ cents, while some business was done on 56-44s in that width from second hands at 3 15-16 cents. The latter goods were said to be of Southern manufacture. Few, if any, 38½-inch 64-60s are said to be available in first hands at 4⅝ cents for any delivery, most of the mills asking 4¾ cents for spots and at least 4⅞ cents for contracts. Sales of 38½-inch 60-52s and 60-48s were made at 4⅜ cents and 4¼ cents, respectively. Sheetings or drills showed little change, from all accounts, one way or another. Spot printcloth prices were:

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Duties Fixed on Jewelry and Textiles Among Other Things.

It was decided yesterday by the Board of General Appraisers that barytes imported by George W. McNoar, Inc., San Francisco, were properly assessed under the tariff at the rate of 20 per cent. ad valorem as manufactured. The claim was for entry at 15 per cent. as manufactured. Judge Brown said there was no testimony to support the contention.

H. Wolff & Co. protested the Collector's assessment on necklaces or neck-chains. The Appraiser reported that the goods were articles of personal adornment and commercially known as "jewelry." Duty was accordingly taken at the rate of 60 per cent. ad valorem, whereas the protestants claimed 20 per cent. duty as manufactures of metal, besides a number of other rates lower than assessed.

R. F. Dowling & Co. contested the Collector's classification of women's dress goods returned as composed in chief value of Angora goat hair. Duty was taken at 40 per cent. ad valorem, under the provision for mohair, while the importers claimed 35 per cent. as wool dress cloth not specially provided for.

The Adams Express Co., Boston, acting as Custom House broker and forwarder, claim that the Collector erred in his return on cloth at 35 per cent. ad valorem as wool cloth, instead of as cotton cloth at 12½ per cent. ad valorem or other appropriate rate, according to the number of the yarns. The Board saw no reason for reversing the Collector. A somewhat similar case was that of F. H. Bailey & Co., Philadelphia, the merchandise involved being returned by the appraiser as card cloth composed of wool, cotton, flax and rubber.

Ernest Millmather, Providence, was sustained in the claim that an engraving machine was properly dutiable at 30 per cent. ad valorem as a machine tool. The Collector was reversed in assessing 45 per cent. duty under the Tariff act of 1909 as a manufacture of metal not specially provided for.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The Textile Alliance, Incorporated, of this city has received a dispatch from London saying that the Secretary of State for the Colonies cabled to the Government of New Zealand on the 2d inst. as follows: "No objection to the granting of licenses for exportation of cross-bred wool for the present to Russia and Japan and to approved importers in the United States up to normal quantities."

The Buyers' Association of America, resident buyers, will remove from 69 Fifth Avenue to 1,170 Broadway on Monday next.

Grinnell Willis & Co. of this city yesterday sent this announcement to the trade: "We have today made an advance of ½ cent a yard on the line of Wamsutta 4-4 bleached goods."

Atlantic City is a "Home Town" for golfers all the year around. Not any one season, but for spring, summer, autumn, and winter. Many of the conventions that meet here have their golf organizations. Some enthusiasts, last summer, when the Traymore was a-building, had a driving contest into the ocean from a scaffold on the Library Tower; the judges were in a boat, off-shore. The regular golfers go either to the Northfield Country Club, known to thousands, or the Seaview Golf Club, which, with its unparalleled club house, has now one of the most imposing equipments in America. * * * The mild bracing climate of Atlantic City, the cuisine, comforts, cheerfulness, of the Traymore, and the lure of the fair greens, are three forces to attract the tired man who wants to renew his strength with Nature's tonics.

CORN.

The market for corn was firm and higher, closing with net gains of ⅞c to 1½c. Shorts were anxious buyers at times, and it was apparent that the trade entertained fears of damage to the crop by the recent frost. The Government report placed the indicated yield at 3,026,159,000 bushels, the largest since 1912. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at 74½c, prompt shipment.

Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 16,000, estimated for Friday 16,000; Kansas City received 7,000 and Omaha 3,000.

COFFEE.

The coffee market was steady early in the day, when prices advanced 3 to 7 points on scattered buying for outside account and influenced by firmness in Brazil. The demand was not of great volume, however, and late in the day, when longs attempted to take profits, values declined quickly and closed easy, with net losses of 4 to 7 points. Total sales for the day were 20,250 bags. In the local spot market prices were steady and unchanged, with Rio 7s quoted at 7c.

NEW TELEPHONE CO. ASKS CITY FRANCHISE

Great Eastern Would Supply Business Calls for from 2 to 4 Cents.

$1 A MONTH FOR RESIDENCE

President Sees Need for Two Companies Now in New York City.

An offer to provide business telephone service at the rates of two to four cents a message within all of the five boroughs, with a like service for the municipal departments for one cent a message, and an unlimited residential zone service for $1 a month, are some of the inducements presented by the Great Eastern Telephone Company in its application for a franchise to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, which has scheduled the application for a hearing today.

In the petition to the Board of Estimate, the President of the Great Eastern Telephone Company, D. A. Reynolds, says:

"The cheaper rates place the telephone within the reach of substantially 1,000,000 families and 340,000 small business concerns now deprived of its benefits because of excessive rates, while adding no burden to those employing the present system. As all service is "measured," every message diverted to the new system carries a proportionate reduction in price, so that those whose business may be benefited by a wider range of communication will find that both systems are cheaper than one at the present time, and that the subscriber who can devote one-half of his business to the new system will pay practically 20 per cent. less for both systems than he now pays for one. To the individual it would mean a general average reduction of about 40 per cent.

"That there is a demand for another telephone system in this city is shown by the fact that there are now but 203,000 contracts in a population of 5,583,871; that with a claim of 568,000 telephones in operation, the last directory contained but 214,761 business and 127,234 residential listings."

President Reynolds promises the city a revenue through the operation of the company of approximately $600,000 to $800,000 a year for subway rental, and including a saving on municipal telephone expenses of $205,000 a year. He says the company has 107,000 contracts for its service here, and is prepared to begin immediate installation of its lines.

"The company owns certain valuable telephone inventions and has contracted for the use of others," Mr. Reynolds informed the Board of Estimate. He said the company would use an "automanual selector" in making connections which performs nine-tenths of the work of "central," at an average of 2.4 seconds for each call.

The company has plants in operation at Peekskill and Perth Amboy, N. J., with right of way from Philadelphia to the foot of Morgan Street in Jersey City.

The officers of the New York Corporation are: D. A. Reynolds, President; W. B. Babcock, Vice President, both of New York; W. J. Lansley, Perth Amboy, N. J., Secretary, and M. E. Reppenhagen, Highland Falls, N. Y., Treasurer. The office is at 2 Rector Street.

FIRE PREVENTION PARADE.

City Apparatus to Aid Demonstration Tomorrow.

Seven engine companies and two hook and ladder companies have been designated by Fire Commissioner Adamson to take part in the Fire Prevention Day parade tomorrow.

The parade will start from the Municipal Building at 11:30 A. M. The route will be up Centre Street to Lafayette Street, to Eighth Street, to Second Avenue, to Twenty-third Street, to Fifth Avenue, to Fifty-ninth Street, to Second Avenue, to Seventy-second Street, to First Avenue, to Houston Street, to Sheriff Street, to Grand Street, to the Bowery to Park Row, and back to the starting point.

Mayor Mitchel issued a statement yesterday in which he asked every citizen to join with the Fire Commissioner in observing Fire Prevention Day tomorrow.

"Let all individuals in the city make it 'clean-up day,'" the Mayor's statement said. "The great majority of our fires are due to the carelessness of individuals. Fires can be prevented and many lives and much property saved if our people will only take the little trouble and forethought which are necessary."

TO FORM LABOR CENTRE.

Organizations Plan a Forum for Discussion of Social Questions.

Announcement was made yesterday of the proposal to organize a Labor Centre Association to represent labor, socialism, and other organizations. On the committee are James P. Boyle, President of the Brooklyn Central Labor Union; Mary Dreier, ex-President of the Woman's Trade Union League; John Haynes Holmes of the Unemployment Committee; Mrs. George S. Frank of the Unemployment Committee; Carl Beck, Director of the East Side Forum; Congressman Meyer London, Thomas J. Curtiss of the Workmen's Compensation Commission; Melinda Scott, President of the Woman's Trade Union League; Mrs. James P. Warbasse of the Unemployment Committee; Chester M. Wright, editor of The Call; J. Howard Mellish, delegate to the Brooklyn Central Labor Union; Ernest Bohm, Secretary of the Central Federated Union.

"The 'Labor Centre' is in part the institution of a labor forum for the discussion of social and economic questions with the purpose of furthering the interests of the workers," according to the announcement.

M'BEAN SECRETLY BID FOR SUBWAYS

Attorney Testifies He Was Told to Conceal Contractor's Interest in Dual System.

SUIT FOR $25,000 LAW FEE

Ex-Justice Van Wyck, on Stand, Says, as Expert, That Counsel Hoye's Charge Is Reasonable.

Ex-Supreme Court Justice Augustus Van Wyck testified yesterday as an expert on legal fees before Supreme Court Justice Cohalan and a jury. The case was that of Stephen M. Hoye, a lawyer, against Duncan D. McBean, a contractor, for $25,000, which Mr. Hoye said he earned while acting as the defendant's counsel in important undertakings, among them being several relating to subway contracts. Payment of the fees had been refused on the ground that they were exorbitant. Mr. Hoye had been dismissed as counsel while some of the contracts were still unclosed.

Mr. Van Wyck was confronted with a hypothetical question covering all of the work done for the defendant by Mr. Hoye. At the end of it he was asked:

"What do you think would have been a fair fee for that work?"

"About $30,000," replied Mr. Van Wyck.

Asked if it was not worth more to get a big contract than merely to prepare ordinary litigation, Mr. Van Wyck replied:

"Certainly. Large contracts generally mean large profits for the contractor, and he is naturally not averse to paying well for results."

Mr. Van Wyck said he never kept books, but merely charged a lump sum for any services rendered.

During the testimony it came out that among the suits in which Mr. Hoye represented Mr. McBean was one against the Detroit River Tunnel Company, which came to trial in the United States Court in Michigan. Another suit was against the Federal Government, which is now in the Court of Claims, and a third concerned certain subway contracts in this city.

The trial will be continued today.

SPREAD OF TETANUS WORRIES HEALTH BOARD

Third Child in a Week Attacked After Vaccination—Other Cases Can't Be Explained.

The third case within a week of tetanus following vaccination was reported to the Health Department yesterday. Albert de Silici, 4 years old, of 304 East 118th Street, is under treatment at the Harlem Hospital for the disease. He was vaccinated by a physician on Sept. 3. The other deaths were those of Eleanor Fredericks, Staten Island, and Dorothy Klemm, Flushing. In all of these cases, according to the authorities of the Department of Health, the disease developed more than three weeks after vaccination, so that it appears, since tetanus develops from seven to ten days after infection, that the vaccine did not contain the germs of tetanus, but that the germs entered the wound later because it was not cared for properly.

AETNA WORKERS FEAR PLOT.

Following Accident in Powder Plant, Many Refuse to Return.

EMPORIUM, Penn., Oct. 7.—Fearing a plot to wreck the plant of the Aetna Explosive Co., where an explosion last night of 285,000 pounds of smokeless powder destined for the Allies killed four men and injured seven seriously, between 400 and 500 employes refused to return to work today.

A report tonight said that shortly before the explosion three men of German descent, who had been discharged on Wednesday, were seen in the plant. Officials of the company refused to deny or affirm the report. No arrests have been made.

Two burning bales of cotton were found today beneath the power and engineering plants. Later a search revealed oil-soaked waste in the buildings.

President Moxham, who came here from New York to investigate the explosion, returned home late tonight. He refused to make a statement.

The accident in a dry house of the smokeless powder plant of the Aetna Explosives Company at Emporium, Penn., on Wednesday, in which four men were killed and three injured, two very slightly, was not an explosion, but a fire, according to a statement given out in New York yesterday by Egbert Moxham, General Manager of the company.

Mr. Moxham says the fire destroyed only a small unit of one of the portions of the plant, and, therefore, has no effect on the production of the plant, beyond a slight decrease in drying capacity for a period of approximately two weeks, the time required to replace the dry house.

Dr. Williams Predicts State Examinations for Newspaper Men.

State examinations which the aspiring reporter will have to pass before he can become a full-fledged member of the staff of a newspaper were predicted by Dr. Talcott Williams, Director of the Columbia University School of Journalism, in an address yesterday to the students of the school. Dr. Williams believes journalism will be put under State regulation by the imposition of State examinations on journalists, as they are now imposed upon lawyers and doctors before they may practice their profession.

Just how soon laws would be enacted creating such examinations, Dr. Williams was not prepared to state, but he intimated that the time was not far off.

Justice Tompkins after the defense had closed its case, directed the jury to acquit Solomon Metz and Julius Woolfe. The jury will decide upon the other five defendants today. They are Morris Stupnicker, Isidore Auspitz, Max Singer, Morris Sigman, and Abraham Weidinger.

I MAKE my ready-made clothes. Buy direct. Don't pay two profits. The high cost of good clothes is reduced by your knowing where to buy.
The "Gibson" two button broad lapel young men's suits, $15, represents an excellent value to compare with others.

Fine quality in ready-made clothes

DO YOU make this mistake about good ready-made clothes—consider them only as money-savers? Many men do.

Our clothes are much more than this: they're value-givers. They give you the kind of value you can estimate in dollars, not the theoretical value that vaguely explains the price of a made-to-measure suit.

You can pay any of these for our suits and overcoats and know that you are getting the best each price commands—all in the clothes themselves.

By best we mean fine imported fabrics, style, tailoring, details, everything.

If this is a new idea to you, you'll admit it's a good one, worth following up.

Hart Schaffner & Marx

If the famous Hart Schaffner & Marx label is not in the coat, it's not our make. Never forget this.

At $35, $40, $50 and $60 we have especially distinctive Hart Schaffner & Marx Suits and Overcoats—also a wide selection of unusual values in these clothes at $18, $20 and $25.
